Message from the Chamber Executive Director

MMy family moved to Anthem in 2008 when I was a Junior in high school and we came from a small town in Texas. When we decided to move, we knew we still wanted that “small-town” feel in a community. That’s how we landed in Anthem, Arizona. My husband and I both graduated from Boulder Creek in 2010 and have roots here to this day. After I completed my Bachelor’s Degree from Northern Arizona University, my husband and I made the trek to California while I worked on my Master’s Degree. After graduation in 2016, we got married and had our first baby girl. It was after that we decided to move back to Arizona to be surrounded by our extended family while we built our own family. While looking for our own place to plant our roots, we landed on our hometown of Anthem. To us, Anthem represents a family-friendly community and we knew that there was no other place we would like to raise our own family.

When the position opened up for the Executive Director for the Anthem Area Chamber of Commerce I knew it was the job I wanted. My background is in non-profits and working with partners to better communities in multiple ways possible. When I think about why I wanted to take on this position, a big part is the legacy I want to leave my girls one day. I want them to be proud of where they are from and to know that their mom helped the community they live in.

Legacy is a big word. Coming from a sports background, legacy is a word commonly used to describe an athlete who paves the way for other athletes and teams. Leaving a legacy is something you are proud of and those around you are proud of. My role in the community is to help small businesses thrive and be able to leave their own legacy, whatever that looks like for them. My family is still a very big part of this community beyond just the small family my husband and I have created.

It also happens to be the 20th Anniversary of the Anthem Area Chamber of Commerce and that nostalgia isn’t lost on me or my predecessor, Heather Maxwell. The legacy she carried on from before her and pathed the way for me, is one I plan to continue. She created a Chamber of loyalty, commitment, and community and I plan to continue with that legacy while creating my own legacy.

—Tamara Clark

ROADRUNNER SALOON

Looking for a little hometown family fun with a good meal and maybe an adult libation or two thrown in? Then look no further than New River's Roadrunner Restaurant and Saloon. Established in 1974 and purchased by Jeff Riggs and Jennifer Beeman in 2012, there's a true feeling of history here. With an extensive food and drink menu that incorporates the classics you love, along with fun new offerings, you can't go wrong at this family-friendly establishment.

When the McCormacks moved in, they added live bull riding to the entertainment aspect, opening the restaurant to welcome corporate parties and events. Plus, with weekly live music and concerts, there's something for everyone to enjoy. Have kids? They'll love the kids' rodeo, as well as sheep riding (affectionately dubbed "mutton bustin'" at the Roadrunner), where the younger set can earn awards while their parents chat over drinks.

The wine and coffee bar is a great place to relax or meet a friend, and with a new flavor of wine slushie added weekly, you know you'll be back to continue to enjoy the camaraderie.

Roadrunner Restaurant and Saloon is located at 47801 N Black Canyon Hwy, New River, just off the I-17 on the east side of the highway. Review the menu and event schedule at roadrunnerrestaurantandsaloon.com.

Living in a small community means you get to enjoy some amazing local events. Thankfully, the High Sonoran Desert is no exception, and Anthem is a hotbed of activity nearly year-round. From events sponsored by the Anthem Area Chamber of Commerce, including an annual corn hole tournament, trunk and treat, and winter gala, to the activities hosted by the Anthem Community Council, there's something for everyone.

Developed in 1999 by Del Webb as a master-planned community, Anthem has long been a family-friendly community. And with average temperatures two to three degrees cooler than in Phoenix, it has become a haven for city dwellers looking to enjoy some small-town charm in the desert. Even without any events on the calendar, families can enjoy the 63-acre Anthem Community Park, which features numerous amenities including the adventure and discovery playgrounds, splash pad, catch and release fishing lakes, pickleball courts, amphitheater, basketball and volleyball courts, sports fields, Anthem Veterans Memorial, Daisy Mountain Railroad, and numerous walking trails.

Some of the biggest community events held annually include Anthem Days (March), Autumnfest (October), Independence Day Celebration (July), and Music in May (Fridays in May). These are all sponsored by the Anthem Community Council and draw attendees from around the area and as far as Phoenix and other parts of the state. All are perfect for families and an opportunity for local businesses to shine for our residents and visitors.

On Veterans Day and Memorial Day, the Anthem Veterans Memorial is the place to be for ceremonies to honor our military veterans. At precisely 11:11 am on Veterans Day, the sun's rays pass through the ellipses of the five pillars of the memorial (representing the five Armed Services branches) to shine a spotlight on the Great Seal of the United States, a moving tribute indeed.

The legacy of events in the Anthem area is longstanding and one of the hallmarks of life in the High Sonoran Desert. Be sure to bookmark the calendar of community events in this guide so you can be in on all the action!

THE ANTHEM AREA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE:

A LEGACY OF LOCAL BUSINESS

The chamber embarks on its 20-year anniversary with new leadership and a strong appreciation for its roots.

By Amanda Miller

When Heather Maxwell received the Living Legacy Award at the Anthem Area Chamber winter gala in December 2021, it marked the end of an era. Following a six-year tenure of building the chamber, including weathering the ups and downs of the COVID-19 pandemic, Heather and her family were relocating to Branson, Missouri, leaving the chamber in the capable hands of new executive director Tamara Clark. One of the first things Tamara did in her new role was to invite Eric Kilstrom to a chamber morning meeting to share the history of the chamber he launched in 2002.

Eric was living in the Phoenix area when he heard from a friend about this new community being built north of town: Anthem. After visiting with his wife, they decided that this would be the perfect place to raise their family, quickly snatching up one of the roughly 600 available homes in 2001. With their new home chosen, Eric embarked on a new career as well, joining VIP Mortgage to expand his banking knowledge into the mortgage industry. Living in a new area with a new job, Eric needed a plan to build his business, and what better place to create some traction than in Anthem?

He started by launching Business Network at Anthem, a leads group limited to one person per industry. But as a mortgage professional, Eric knew and continued to meet several real estate agents, many of whom were reticent to send him business if they couldn't join his leads group—where the real estate category was already occupied.

Realizing that a leads group wasn't the best idea for a small community, Eric instead determined that a chamber would be a better fit in the area. But he wasn't in the chamber business, he reasoned; he needed help. He started researching nearby chambers of commerce, reaching out first to the Cave Creek/Carefree Chamber, which unfortunately, felt Anthem was too small and couldn't sustain a chamber.

Eric's next call was to the Greater Phoenix Chamber of Commerce (GPCC). Shortly after leaving a message about his intentions, he received a call back: "Hi, Eric. This is Stuart Banks, the COO at the Greater Phoenix Chamber of Commerce. Today is your lucky day!" As it turned out, not only was Stuart a decision maker at the chamber; he was also an Anthem resident.

Stuart was on board with the idea of launching an Anthem chamber, but he wanted it to be under the umbrella of the GPCC. Due to the fact that the word Anthem was trademarked, the name of this new group was officially Chamber at Anthem, a Division of the Greater Phoenix Chamber of Commerce. This collaborative arrangement benefitted Anthem members who could join the Anthem division and become members of the GPCC with the ability to attend all the Phoenix events. Those membership benefits didn't flow the other direction, so if businesses wanted to do business in Anthem, they needed to join the Anthem division.

The introductory meeting of the new Chamber at Anthem took place at Doug Demuth's Edward Jones office in 2002 with local business professionals in attendance, as well as several representatives from the GPCC. Eric was named president of the new group, and he helmed the chamber for the next 13 years, even as the Great Recession hit in 2008, dropping chamber membership from 260 to 120 within one year.

In 2015, Eric and the board were ready for a change—both personally and professionally. The chamber broke away from the GPCC, officially incorporating as the Anthem Area Chamber of Commerce on March 31, 2015. Eric had already decided he needed to move on, but they'd been unable to find a consistent leader, keeping him in the role. This time, however, they put out a call for a new executive director and found the right one.

After conducting many interviews, Heather Maxwell was the last candidate seen by the board. They knew immediately that she was the one to shepherd the chamber into its next phase, and she was named the executive director of the Anthem Area Chamber of Commerce on October 1, 2015. At that point, there were roughly 30 active members in good standing, but by the time of the winter gala in December of that year, membership had grown to 100, and by the end of 2016, the chamber was up to 200 members.

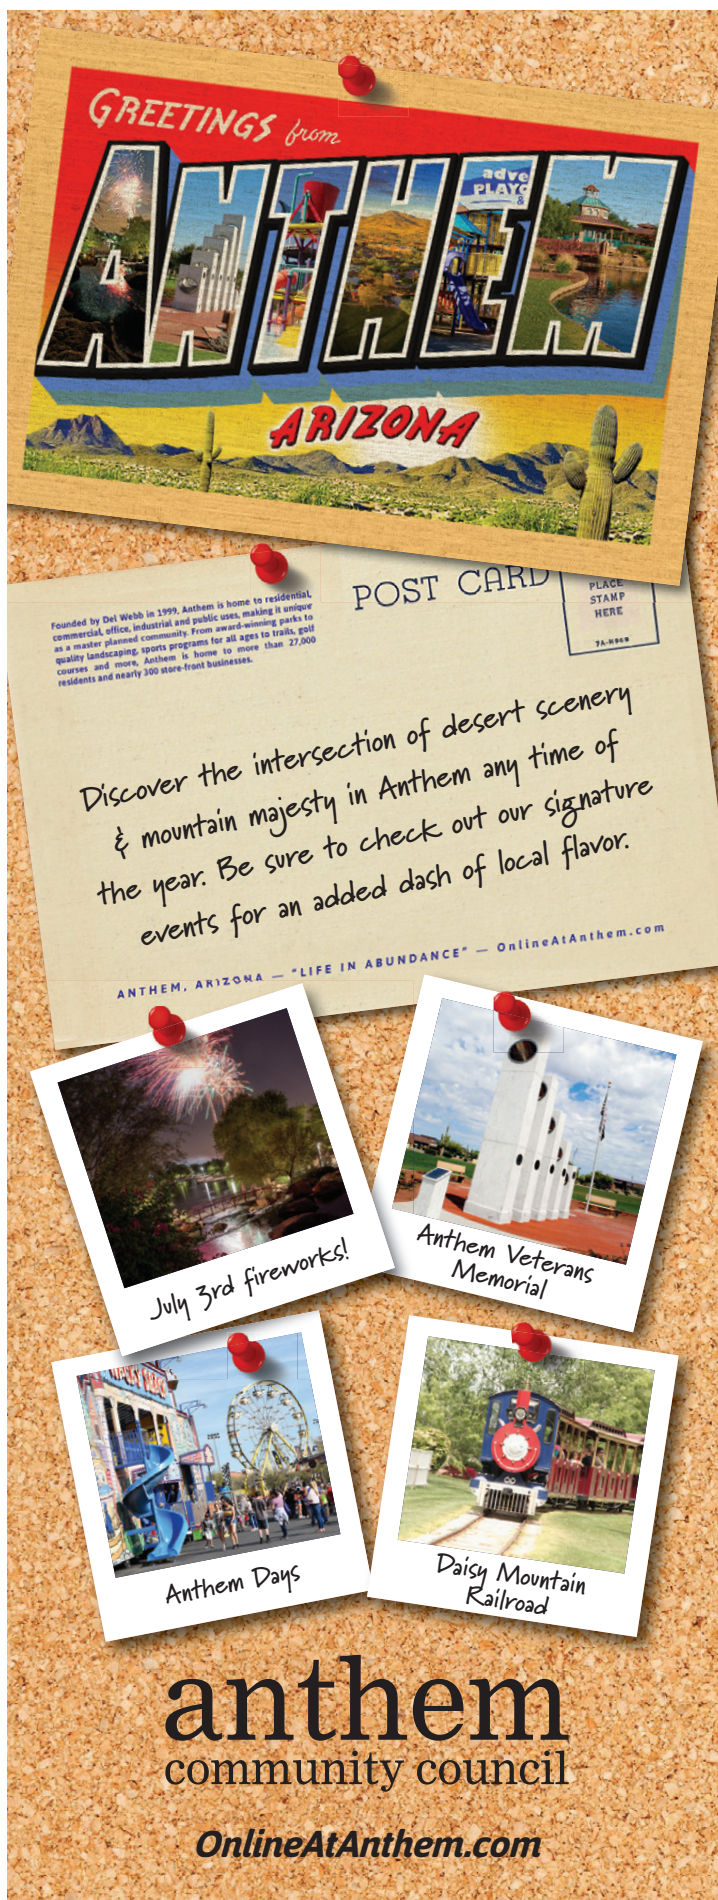

With Heather at the helm, the chamber's activities expanded. Every year, the chamber hosts monthly morning meetings and business after hours. For new members, there are chamber 101 events to learn how to maximize their memberships, new member mixers to meet key area business leaders, and ribbon cuttings and open houses to announce their businesses to the community. The Anthem Area Leadership Academy launched in 2018 with the mission to empower aspiring leaders with the tools, experiences, and networks necessary to address local and regional challenges and make a sustainable impact on social, community, and economic development. Annual community events include a cornhole tournament, town hall, trunk and treat, and winter gala. And you'll always find the chamber front and center at Anthem Days and Autumnfest.

In 2021, to provide support for businesses struggling during the shutdowns associated with COVID-19, Heather drove the charge to apply for a grant, which enabled the chamber to offer Maximize Brand Awareness, an MBA for local businesses in all aspects of building and marketing a business. Monthly sessions were offered via webinar and in-person presentations, tapping into the strong marketing membership in the chamber to facilitate more than $100,000 of value for chamber members.

At her final winter gala in December 2021 when Heather received her Living Legacy Award, she joined Eric Kilstrom (2019 recipient) and Bonnie Smith (2020 recipient), both renowned community leaders.

Now, as it looks forward to celebrating its 20th anniversary, the chamber is excited to have Tamara Clark on board as the new executive director. With a background in nonprofits, Tamara is eager to use her experience to make a difference for the local business community. She understands the legacy she is inheriting from Eric and Heather and is excited to add to it in the years to come.

RAINBOW RYDERS

ne of the staples of living in the High Sonoran Desert is the hot air balloons. Year round, they can be spotted overhead at sunrise and sunset (sunset flights are only available November through March). These beautiful balloons create a stunning sight from the ground, and when you ride in one, you're gifted an entirely new view of our magnificent desert. Rainbow Ryders is the largest hot air balloon company in the Southwest, and they've been delighting passengers and landlubbers alike since 1983.

Given Arizona's 350+ days of sunshine each year, it's rare that there's a day when the balloons can't fly. However, they won't depart in the dark or if high winds or rain are in the forecast. Once airborne, these beauties are at the mercy of the winds, meaning they can sometimes just go up and down, seemingly in a small footprint, or they can traverse much of the North Valley. Flying at speeds of up to 10 mph and soaring high above the ground, the flight lasts between 45 minutes and an hour, with a total experience time of nearly 3.5 hours. After a delightful outing, guests are treated to a celebratory toast and receive a commemorative flight certificate.

Rainbow Ryders' balloons launch along Carefree Highway and provide riders with an aerial view of North Phoenix, Anthem, and the Phoenix Sonoran Preserve. These colorful balloons are truly a hallmark of the area and a perfect representation of our local legacy.

Learn more about how you can book a ride above the desert at rainbowryders.com.

DESERT FOOTHILLS LAND TRUST

Launched in 1991 by a group of residents in Carefree, Cave Creek, and Desert Hills to preserve the natural landscape ahead of upcoming development, the Desert Foothills Land Trust (DFLT) has expanded to protect more than 900 acres of land across 27 preserves in the High Sonoran Desert. Initially supported solely by volunteers, today's DFLT includes a staff of three, along with 11 members of the board of directors and a wealth of volunteers who continue to embody the original mission to protect area land and water as well as important historical and archeological sites.

Initially, the DFLT partnered with developers to tout the benefits of building responsibly. Now, while those partnerships endure, the nonprofit also welcomes donations of land from owners who share the goal of protecting the legacy of this area we call home. The work they're doing now is forever, and they want to continue this legacy for generations to come.

In addition to welcoming donations of land, funds, and time, the DFLT acts as a steward of the areas it protects, providing tours and education about the history of the land. Residents and visitors are invited to take guided and self-directed tours of the preserves as well as a six-week field course that covers the topics of botany, geology, and plant adaptations. With new people moving to the area every day, the goal of the course is to educate residents and encourage them to become stewards to protect the preserves. Such community involvement has been a leading way to bring on new volunteers and board members.

In 2022, the DFLT is updating their strategic conservation plan to drive a conservation focus and protect endangered wildlife species as well as riparian and watershed areas. They are also working on extending their footprint by bringing on new parcels.

The DFLT is 100% supported by the community and receives no federal or state funding. If you would like to get involved by volunteering, donating funds or land, or signing up for their newsletter, visit www.dflt.org.

DAISY MOUNTAIN FIRE & MEDICAL

In 1989, Daisy Mountain Fire & Medical (DMFM) was created as a fire district to provide protection to the residents of Desert Hills and New River, which were previously served by Rural Metro Fire, opening a station in each district. In 2003, a third station opened in Anthem, and in 2004, a second New River station was added. In 2017, DMFM consolidated with the Black Canyon Fire District, adding its fifth station. They recently entered into an agreement with Cave Creek to provide fire service there at the start of 2022. With a projected new station in the works to open in the next two years, DMFM will have a total of seven fire stations serving residents across New River, Desert Hills, Anthem, Black Canyon City, and Cave Creek.

It's a long, proud history of serving the high Sonoran Desert, and the firefighters and support staff who work with DMFM are enmeshed in our community. This is especially true of Paul Schickel.

Schickel joined DMFM in 2004, launching a second career following a successful run as a business owner of a printing company based in North Phoenix. His initial goal was to identify a volunteer role to support the fire service, but he couldn't find one in the area. Instead, he joined the cadet program with Glendale Fire, which led to his position with DMFM.

His career there has included roles as a firefighter, engineer, and administrator. In 2014, Schickel developed the department's first Citizen Fire Academy. He is passionate about this class because it's a chance for the public to experience their local fire department up close. This firsthand look has prompted some graduates to pursue fire service careers, which he finds especially rewarding.

Shortly after joining DMFM, Schickel developed a community emergency response team (CERT), which he managed throughout his tenure. The program has trained close to 500 people within the community and boasts a team of 25 regular volunteers who are deployed to support major incidents. They also assist with local events such as Anthem Days and Autumnfest. CERT provides an opportunity for people who want to volunteer and support their hometown fire department. This, along with the launch of the Citizen Fire Academy, brought Schickel's journey full circle from starting with a desire to volunteer to creating a legacy for others who have a passion to serve.

After 18 years, Schickel retired from DMFM in 2021. On his last days, he was supporting the community at the Veterans Memorial for the Veterans Day activities and helping to train new recruits to DMFM. He and his wife live in New River, and he is a frequent sight in and around the high Sonoran Desert.

You don't have to travel outside of the High Sonoran Desert to enjoy a world-class musical performance. Since 2003, ProMusica Arizona's chorale and orchestra have been filling the ears and hearts of audiences from across the Valley, and they're based right here in Anthem. Now in their 19th performance season, the group has grown to 65 singers and 40 musicians, ranging in age from teens to 80s, including several area college students. ProMusica Arizona is proud to offer high-quality concerts at affordable prices and continues to perform for thousands each year in Anthem and beyond.

Started in a living room with 17 people, that initial group soon expanded to 50 singers. By the next year, they had formed an orchestra. Shortly thereafter, a nonprofit organization was created, ProMusica Arizona Chorale and Orchestra. Many of the original members are still involved, and during the group's 20th season, all former members will be invited to come back and join the performance, which will no doubt be a powerful sight.

Membership is open to anyone in the community through a biannual audition process. Less seasoned performers are paired with more experienced members to provide mentorship and support.

To celebrate the 20th season, which starts in the fall of 2022, ProMusica Arizona will be commissioning a special piece. They continue to share three to four concerts each year, including the much-touted Champagne Salon, which is limited to 100 attendees and takes place in a private home each spring. Their regular performances are often scheduled at the Boulder Creek High School Performing Arts Center; the calendar and tickets are available at pmaz.org.

There is no shortage of culture, art and entertainment for all ages and tastes! Discover museums, monuments, musical theater, symphony orchestra, local live music, off-Broadway productions and more in the High Sonoran Desert!

ROTARY OF ANTHEM

Rotary International was founded in 1905 and is one of the largest service organizations in the world with more than 1 million members worldwide. Their mission is to bring together business and professional leaders to provide humanitarian service and advance goodwill and peace around the globe. It seems like a great fit with the Anthem community, doesn't it? Thank goodness for long-time Rotarian Sam Crump, who helped bring Rotary to the High Sonoran Desert in 2003.

When Crump moved to the Anthem area in 2002, he loved the community but saw that there was no local chamber or Rotary club. Having been involved in Rotary since 1992 in California, he was eager to continue his involvement here in Arizona. As luck would have it, Crump came across an announcement in the paper that Doug Demuth, a local Edward Jones financial advisor, would be holding a meeting to discuss launching an Anthem club of Rotary. He made plans to attend.

At that first meeting, a handful of people were present, including district-level Rotary members who were interested in adding a club in Anthem. When Crump announced he had been in Rotary for a decade, including serving as president, he became the default leader of the project, assuming the role of president when the club chartered in April 2003 with 25 members. That charter dinner was held on the patio of the Persimmon Bar & Grille in the Anthem Country Club. Today, only a few charter members remain, including Crump, Demuth, and Tim Maki.

Since its launch, the Anthem Rotary has been behind a number of community service projects including starting Rotary Interact at Boulder Creek High School, numerous blood drives, prostate awareness projects, donating dictionaries to area grade schools through a literacy project, and providing water safety programs for young children. And their work isn't limited to just Arizona; the Rotary has supported a water project in Guatemala and hygiene project in Africa.

But what you might be most aware of when it comes to the Anthem Rotary is their famous hot dog cart and beer garden. A staple at local festivals, including Anthem Days and Autumnfest, the hot dog and beer area has become a significant fundraiser for the club. They've been selling dogs

BLACK CANYON MINING & MINERAL MUSEUM

When looking to explore the legacy of the High Sonoran Desert, the Black Canyon Mining & Mineral Museum takes visitors back to the very beginning. Here, visitors are invited to take a trip back in time to understand the history of this area we call home, spanning from 66 million years ago to the recent past.

Opened on the 108th birthday of Arizona, February 14, 2020, the museum is divided into three sections: Cenozoic fossils of the area from before people inhabited the land, Native American artifacts from the time that preceded the arrival of European settlers, and mining tools from the late 19th century. Visitors can see firsthand the rocks, minerals, and tools of the area that encompasses Black Canyon City into the Bradshaw Mountains. Photographs and maps line the walls, and you're likely to enjoy a one-on-one tour through the various artifacts. Plus, geology books are available to take home as a souvenir and to continue your education of the area.

The museum is located in the Harmil Plaza at 34301 S Old Black Canyon Hwy, Black Canyon City and is open Wednesday and Friday 1 pm – 5 pm and Saturday 10 am – 4 pm. You can learn more at their Anthem Area Chamber website: mms.anthemareachamber.org/anthem/mp_BCM

"Dennis & Lisa Jones are the best Realtors we have had the pleasure to work with. They are professional, knowledgeable, and Lisa seemingly never sleeps! When you work with Dennis and Lisa, any follow-up questions or transaction details are completed no matter the wee hours of the morning. They have an amazing team to deal with home inspection details and their commitment to client satisfaction is 100 percent! We wouldn't consider using any other Realtor Team to buy or sell a home!"
