

International Rail Safety Survey

At Unifor, we know the importance of good occupational health and safety, that's why we are supporting the international transport workers federation in collecting data on safety conditions in railway workplaces around the world. And we need your help!

The International Transport Workers' Federation (ITF) is your global union federation representing over 20 million transport workers.

We need your expertise!

Help us get the true picture of safety on the railways. We're gathering insights from health and safety representatives (or those taking on a similar role) worldwide. Your responses will help us:

- Raise safety standards across the rail industry
- Fight for good rail jobs that prioritise safety and training
- Achieve global standards for the rail industry

Take the survey today! Your voice matters in the fight for safer, stronger railways.
