Mindful messaging, the emerging product trend

The categories and choice of products available in the promotions industry has rapidly expanded in recent years, influenced by the fast pace and exposure of social media. This has brought an increased appetite for promotional merchandise of retail quality and style. Buying patterns now reflect how seriously business is taking its impact on the environment and also how their sustainability goals are showcased in the marketing materials they choose.

Products promoting mindfulness are following a similar trend. It could be said that well-being and sustainability go hand in hand, as one of the core pillars of sustainability is the social and human element.

How is business displaying mindful messaging

There are three key trends with mindful messaging when utilising promotional merchandise. The positive or health benefit the product itself will have on the recipient; the encouraging message that can be branded on the product alongside a logo; and the footprint that products leave on the planet.

Drinkware is one of the fastest growing categories of branded products. It has evolved far beyond a mug or thermal drink cup. Drinkware is now seen as a promoter of health; it is a reminder to the recipient that hydration is essential and selfcare is important. A branded water bottle will usually have a large print area that allows for a full colour printing option, which will bring a logo to life whilst acting as a positive tool for the recipient.

Notebooks are another top contender for promoting mindful messaging. Not only do they encourage reduced screen time, brands are requesting positive affirmations or inspiring texts to run alongside their company logos and slogans. Brands are using the edge-to-edge print areas to let the recipient know they care, along with promoting who they are.

Writing instruments are the trusty partner of the notebook and are often paired together. Writing has huge benefits for the mind, it allows us to connect with ourselves, to process and make sense of our thoughts and emotions. The management of mental health is a big topic for business and choosing promotional products that encourage this type of wellbeing is a winning combination.

There is now a root and branch approach to how companies portray their business goals. It is no longer enough to say what you intend to do; society wants to see you doing it. Made In Britain or Carbon Neutral products have grown in popularity in recent years, as they give the recipient peace of mind that what they are using has been made with limiting impact on the environment. The business choosing this merchandise is also able to leverage those credentials to portray their brand mission in action.

Mindful messaging tool kit

As society moves away from single use, it is more important than ever to choose a product that will be used again and again. Mindful messaging, whether it be the benefit to the user, the peace of mind the product gives or the inspiration the product creates, should not be overlooked in any marketing strategy. It may well be your most powerful marketing tool yet.

Welcome to UltraHD

What is UltraHD?

Within the last decade the promotions industry have benefited from advances in print technology where full-colour images can be printed directly on to the product. This allowed product decorators to offer clients the added advertising appeal that a full photographic image can offer and consequently it has been very well received in the industry. Although this was a big leap forward in technology, the process produces relatively low resolution images with a very restricted colour gamut when compared with, say, magazine quality images.

Our technical team set about developing a new print system for product decoration with the aim of dramatically improving both the resolution and colour gamut of the printed image. We are now ready to launch this new system as Ultra HD printing. A picture speaks a thousand words so have a look at the comparison below of the standard system and our new and unique Ultra HD system of printing.

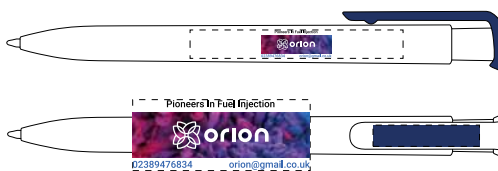

As you can see, Resolution, Edge Definition, Colour Gamut and Colour Gradation have been dramatically improved to near magazine quality. This service is now available on a range of round pens and some flat items. We believe this print service will augment our current product offering and allow marketers to exploit the full potential of high definition print. Products available with this service will have the Ultra HD log next to their images in this catalogue.

Chili Concept: Sustainable Merchandise Done Right

Sustainability is no longer just a trend—it's shaping the way businesses think about promotional merchandise. More and more customers are asking for products that fit their sustainability goals, with large companies introducing procurement guidelines to make sure they're making responsible choices. But let's be honest, sustainability isn't the only thing people care about. Price, quality, and availability still play a huge role in decision-making.

Sustainability means different things to different companies. It's a broad term that includes environmental and social responsibility, and what a company prioritises usually depends on the story they want to tell. That's where recognised standards come in—they're a great way to show off real sustainability credentials.

Enter Chili Concept, a forward-thinking, sustainability-driven brand that's redefining merchandise by building on a design philosophy we like to call "layered sustainability."

What Does Layered Sustainability Mean?

It's all about taking a holistic approach to creating products that are good for people and the planet. Here's how Chili does it:

Designed to Last

Chili products are made with usability, durability, and longevity in mind. They're designed to be items people actually want to use—over and over again.

1. Recycled Materials

Whenever possible, Chili opts for recycled materials instead of virgin ones, cutting down on the carbon footprint of production. In fact, most of the range is GRS-certified, meaning over 50% of the materials used are recycled.

2. Carbon Offsetting

Every Chili product is carbon offset from production to delivery, thanks to Nature Office in Germany. This complements Chili's ongoing efforts to reduce emissions throughout the production process.

3. Proven Credentials

Chili backs up its sustainability claims with serious certifications, including REACH and BSCI across all products, FSC-certified paper, recycled ocean-bound plastic in many of their bags (Ocean Cycle certified), and GRS certification across most of the range.

4. Why Chili Stands Out

Chili Concept products are stocked and personalised in the UK, with an impressive lead time of just five days. And for customers looking for something a bit more bespoke, made-to-order options let you customise products with unique colours—all with low MOQs that beat industry standards.

Need to ship to Europe? No problem. Chili Concept products are available across the UK and EU, making them an easy choice for companies with offices in multiple locations.

Pair Chili's stylish, sustainable products with our personalisation services, and you've got a recipe for incredible branded sustainable merchandise. From bags made with recycled ocean-bound plastics to drinkware, tech and pens, Chili Concept lets your brand stand out while staying responsible.

The Forest Stewardship Council

Working with FSC® and our dedication to forest sustainability

FSC® are the global leader in responsible forest management. Our Forest Stewardship Council certification guarantees that the products you purchase come from forests that meet the highest environmental and social standards. By choosing FSC®-certified products, you're not only supporting sustainable forestry practices and ethical trade but also contributing to the well-being of local communities and protecting biodiversity.

FSC® ensures sustainable forestry by tracking wood from tree to product. Harvested trees in certified forests receive a unique ID. This wood is processed in FSC®-certified mills, with documentation at each stage. FSC®-labelled products guarantee they come from responsibly managed forests.

Global Recycled Standard (GRS)

Sustainability Starts with GRS

The Global Recycled Standard (GRS) is your assurance that the products you purchase are made with recycled materials and produced sustainably. GRS is a globally recognised certification that ensures the entire supply chain adheres to stringent environmental and social criteria. This means that from the moment recycled materials are sourced to the final product, every step is meticulously monitored for quality and sustainability.

By choosing GRS-certified products, you're supporting a system that values recycling, reduces waste, and promotes ethical labour practices. Feel confident in your sustainable choices with GRS – it's not just a standard, it's a commitment to a greener future. Look out for our GRS™ icon on all of our Global Recycled Standard recycled products.

Your Guide to Sustainable Materials

Our company is committed to sustainability, integrating recycled materials like RPET, Ocean plastic, R-ALU, and R-SS into our products. Using RPET and Ocean plastic reduces marine pollution and waste, transforming it into high-quality products. Our use of R-ALU and R-SS minimises energy consumption and preserves resources, demonstrating our dedication to sustainable manufacturing. We aim to lead by example in sustainability, significantly reducing our environmental footprint, fostering a circular economy, and contributing to a healthier planet for future generations.

Recycled Pet RPET

RPET is plastic derived from recycled polyethylene terephthalate, commonly used in bottles and packaging, repurposed to create new products, reducing environmental impact and waste.

Ocean Waste RPET

Ocean Waste RPET is recycled plastic made from polyethylene terephthalate collected from oceans and waterways, repurposed into new products to reduce marine pollution and environmental impact.

Recycled Aluminium R-ALU

R-ALU is aluminium made from recycled scrap, requiring less energy than new aluminium production, reducing environmental impact, and conserving our planet's natural resources.

Recycled Stainless Steel R-SS

R-SS is stainless steel produced from recycled scrap, reducing energy consumption, conserving raw materials, and minimising environmental impact compared to new stainless steel production.

Your Guide to Natural Sustainable Materials

Natural sustainable materials like bamboo, wood, wheatstraw, and paper are environmentally-friendly due to being renewable and biodegradable. Bamboo grows rapidly, replenishing itself sustainably. Responsibly sourced wood stores carbon and reduces waste. Wheatstraw repurposes agricultural waste, minimising environmental impact. Paper, made from renewable resources, is recyclable and decomposes naturally. These materials reduce reliance on non-renewable resources, supporting a more sustainable and eco-conscious future.

Bamboo

Bamboo is a sustainable material, rapidly renewable, strong, durable, versatile, and biodegradable. It reduces deforestation and carbon footprint, making it a great material for the environment.

Wood

Wood is an ideal material because it's renewable, biodegradable, durable, and environmentally friendly. It enhances brand image by showcasing commitment to sustainability.

Wheatstraw

Wheatstraw is a sustainable by-product, reducing agricultural waste, being biodegradable, environmentally-friendly, and offering a renewable alternative to plastics for various products.

Paper

Paper is a great sustainable material for promotional products because it's renewable, biodegradable, customisable, and reduces environmental impact, making brands more eco-conscious.

Sustainable Packaging

The quest for sustainable packaging solutions is reshaping our industry. Traditional materials, usually plastics, are being rethought, ushering in innovative alternatives. Paper sleeves for pens, predominantly made from FSC®-certified paper, ensure the responsible management of forests while reducing waste. Card tubes for bottles, leaning away from plastic, championing a circular economy. Bespoke paper boxes, crafted from sustainable sources, merge environmental responsibility with refined aesthetics. Similarly, bespoke display cards made from FSC® paper elevate brands, conveying a commitment to sustainability. As consumer awareness grows, these packaging solutions don't just protect products; they symbolise a forward-thinking approach to our planet's well-being.

Pen for Life™

The Pen for Life™

The Pen for Life™ is a delicate balance of design ingenuity and practicality, with hand-engraved accents to the barrel and plain upper parts for unrestricted branding or personalisation. Manufactured from brass and triple chromium plated, the Pen for Life™ promises superior, long-lasting performance that endures the test of time.

To refill the Pen for Life™, simply use the included converter to pull ink from a bottle up into the chamber within the converter. Bottled inks come in a wider range of types and colours than cartridge inks, giving you greater opportunity to tailor your writing experience to your exact preferences.

Set for Life

The ultimate in sustainability, the Tournier set comprising refillable fountain pen and ballpen will be a life-long companion. Replacement refills are available from www.refillogy.com.

Glossary

The terminology used in graphics can be bewildering to the casual user and the following will hopefully demystify the more frequently used industry terms.

Bitmap

This casually refers to an image similar to Raster images but unlike raster images it can have it's own file format represented as .bmp.

CMYK

This refers to the subtractive colour process based on Cyan, Magenta, Yellow and Black. It is also a term that is casually used to describe the printing process that produces a 'four colour' or 'process' photographic image. CMYK are consequently referred to as the four 'process' colours. Typically, a CMYK image should not be lower than 300 dots per inch (dpi)

Definition - High

Optically, this means that the edges of a line, a dot or a pixel is sharp. However, casually it also refers to pixel density because high pixel or dot density can produce high definition.

Definition - Low

Optically, this means that the edges of a line, a dot or a pixel is not sharp. However, casually it also refers to pixel density because low pixel or dot density can produce low definition.

Four Colour Process

See CMYK.

Image Definition

Optically, this refers to the edge quality of a line, a pixel, or a dot. However, it is also casually used to describe the quality of an image based on its resolution. eg. a line may have a dense array of pixels which makes it high resolution, but if the edges of that line are blurred it will be described as having low definition.

Image Resolution

This refers to the amount of pixels or dots in a given area (usually per square inch) of a raster or bitmap image. The higher the concentration, the higher the resolution and the more it can be magnified before the pattern of dots can be resolved by the human eye. Resolution is not used as a term when referring to vector images.

Font

Also referred to as 'typeface', this refers to particular styles of letters, numbers and symbols.

Paths

Not all images are pixel based; some are defined by paths. This system uses algorithms that define the colour and shape of an outline and also the colour that fills the area confined by the outline. The benefit of vector images are that they can be magnified infinitely without losing edge definition.

Pixel

This is an abbreviation of 'Picture Element' - It is represented as a dot of a colour, and when combined with other dots can form a complete picture on a display device such as a computer monitor. A standard monitor will display 72 pixels per inch. However, if the image is output to a printer it must be converted to a minimum of 300 dots per inch (dpi).

RGB

This refers to a digital image as seen on a monitor or a scanner in which the additive primary colours Red, Green and Blue light are combined together in various ways to reproduce a broad array of colours.

Raster

This refers to images composed of dots or pixels. It can be a dot of a single colour or dots that represent a full photographic image.

Typeface

Also referred to as 'font', this refers to a particular style of letter, number or symbol.

Vector

This refers to an image that is composed of paths.

Branding Methods Explained

Direct Digital Printing

Direct digital printing utilises inkjet technology, firing microscopic droplets of ink on top of one another to create an almost limitless spectrum of colours, gradients and shades enabling photo realistic images to be printed directly to the product surface.

Laser Engraving - Fiber

This particular type of laser engraving is used to engrave metals. The process relies on a fine beam of light, collimated for precision and intensity to burn an image into the surface of the metal product. The resultant image is permanent and has a high perceived value.

Pad Printing

Pad printing utilises a silicone-rubber pad to transfer the printing ink from an etched plate to the surface being printed. The etched areas of the plate represents the artwork that is to become the printed image. Ink is spread across the surface of the plate using a hard 'Doctor Blade' which results in the etched areas being filled with ink. This ink is then picked up by the pad and transferred to the product. The process is ideal for small print areas and where the product surface is not flat.

Laser Engraving - CO₂

This type of laser engraving is used to engrave plastic, leather and wood. Similar to Fiber lasers, the process relies on a fine beam of light, collimated for precision and intensity to burn the surface of the substrate. Generally, the light beam is not as fine as with Fiber lasers and they operate under completely different wave modulations to that process. It is ideal for engraving wooden pens, leather goods and rubberised aluminium pens.

Digital Transfer

Digital transfers are produced using state of the art digital technology where photographic full colour quality images can be reproduced on a specially formulated film and heat transferred directly onto the product.

Screen Printing

This utilises a metal or wooden frame that is stretched with a very fine-woven polyester mesh. The mesh is coated with a light-sensitive emulsion, exposed to film and then developed. A stencil of the artwork results and ink can be forced through the developed areas of the stencil on to the surface of the product with remarkable precision. This process is fast, inexpensive and suitable for an almost limitless range of substrates.

Debossing

This method of branding utilises a heated etched metal die that represents the artwork which is pressed into the surface of the product being printed under high pressure. The resultant image will be in relief with very striking visual effect. This process is the same as foil blocking but without the foil being present.

Resin Domed Labels

Digitally printed, full colour self-adhesive labels dosed with hardener and resin to create a raised 3 dimensional dome over the surface. The dome has a soft feel and gives any product suitable for this process a higher perceived value. All domes are manufactured mercury free to conform to EU standards.

Digital Embossing

This effect is produced digitally, which eliminates the need for plates, moulds and dies. High-resolution inkjet technology enable selective high-build ink deposits that mimic conventional embossing. The effect is very eye-catching as the process normally produces a contrasting texture to the original substrate. The process is ideal for soft-feel notebook covers where the contrast between matt and polish is stunning.

De-Doming

This method of branding combines two processes, debossing and doming. The debossed area houses the domed label perfectly and with stunning effect because the domed part now appears to be part of the product rather than just a self-adhesive label. This carefully thought-out process is perfect for branding soft substrates such as notebook covers.

Branding Methods Explained

Spot UV Varnish

Spot UV refers to the application of a UV coating to a specific area (or areas) of a printed piece rather than coating the entire surface. Used primarily as a design technique, Spot UV is a creative way to add depth and contrast through varying levels of sheen and texture.

Foil Blocking

Also known as Hot Foil Stamping, this is one of the oldest printing processes for branding promotional products. Similar to Debossing, but with a coloured foil added to the transfer process. The benefits of this process are that the printed colours can be truly metallic and opaque. Ideal for softer substrates such as notebook covers.

Transfer Wraps

For the ultimate branding impact, we can print around the entire circumference of the barrel on many of our pens. This 360° wrap is achieved by digitally printing onto specially formulated film and then heat-transferring the image onto the product.

Labelling

This process involves the production of digitally printed images on self-adhesive paper or plastic, laminated and then die-cut to virtually any shape. Depending on the application, labels can be surface mounted or recessed within the product itself. Ideal for trolley coin inserts, keyring inserts and various forms of packaging and presentation.

Large Format Printing

This term refers to the printing of very large digital inkjet prints for the production of banners, window decals, signage, exhibition panels etc. Two different methods are normally used, roll to roll printing for flexible media or flatbed printing for rigid materials.

Dye Sublimation

This very specific printing process is limited to products made from polyester or polyester-coated substrates. It involves the production of specialist transfers that are applied to the product being branded and then subjected to elevated temperatures for a given period. The colours from the transfer migrate into the polyester coating providing a near-permanent image that has no detectable 'feel'. This process is ideal for polyester garments, ceramic mugs and drinkware in general.

Paper & Board Printing

This very broad category of printing can involve screen printing, lithographic printing or digital printing using high speed presses. It is used for the production of business cards, packaging, tags and numerous bespoke promotional products such as spiral hats, door hangers and loud hailers.

UltraHD

Redefining Print

A new print system for product decoration with the aim of dramatically improving both the resolution and colour gamut of the printed image.

Colour Matching on Non-White Materials

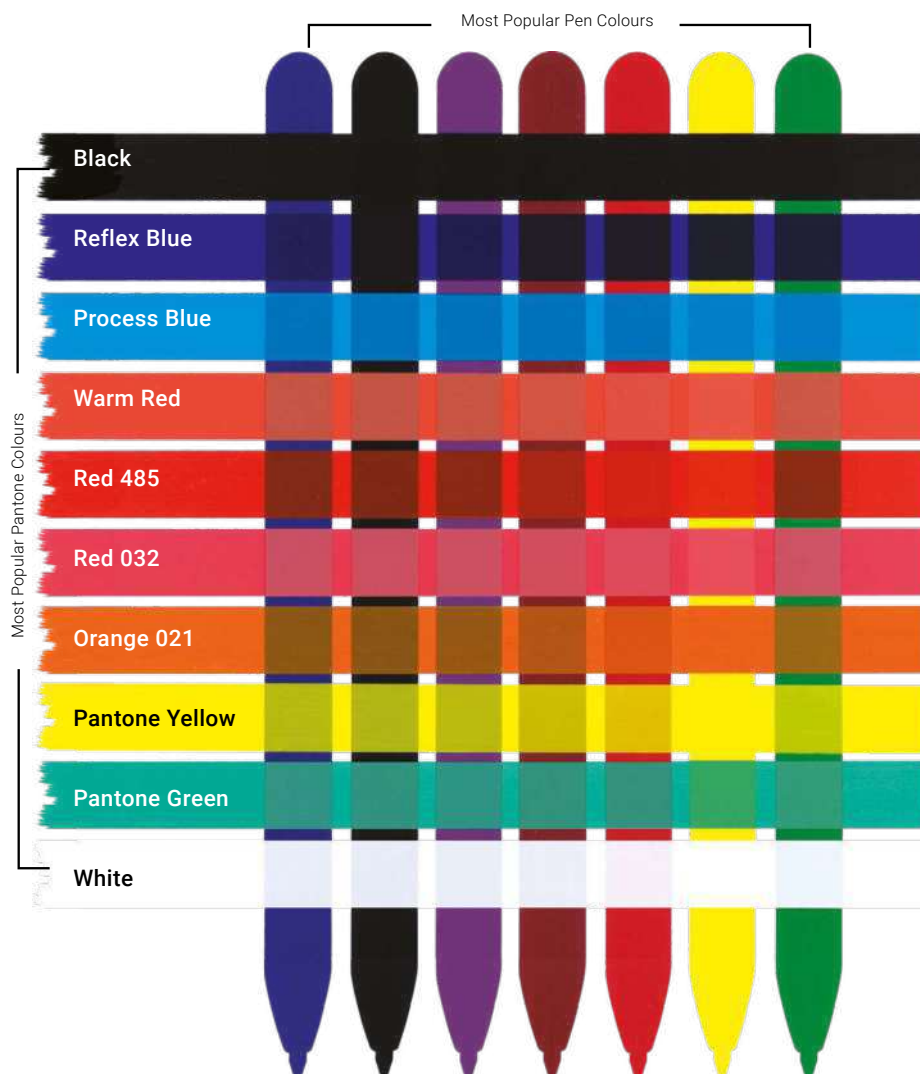

The most accurate colour matches can be achieved when Pantone references are provided and the surface being printed is white. In the absence of Pantone references, a colour swatch or previously printed sample is acceptable but colour matches are less accurate in this case. It is not possible to produce accurate colour matches on any surface that is not white. Surface colour always influences the printed colour (see adjacent image) and it is advisable to order a printed proof if the colour match is critical. If a printed proof is not ordered, we will assume that our best attempt to match the colour reference requested is acceptable to you, given the constraints or limitations of the ink system in use and the nature and colour of the surface being printed. As a general rule, orders for bright colours to be printed onto dark surfaces will be the least accurate, eg. white printed onto black will appear light grey when compared with true white and all basic Pantone colours and all central Pantone colours will appear very dull when printed onto black or coloured surfaces.

The adjacent image shows how a number of perfectly matched Pantone colours appear when printed on coloured pens. This image is a simulation of the effect but it is derived from a precision colour scan of real screen prints on real pens. Every attempt has been made to preserve the authenticity of colour balance through each of the stages of reproduction to ensure that the finished scan reflects the true nature of how Pantone colours appear on different coloured substrates. The final stage, the printing of this page, was produced using conventional litho CMYK separations and this system, whilst not ideal, is the only feasible method for reproducing such a wide variety of colour effects. Therefore the colours achieved should not be taken as precisely correct but they are very close to the original screen printed swatch and, as such, can be safely used as a guide.

Clearly, having to print Pantone colours on anything other than white is less than ideal. In reality, we usually modify colour matches to increase their opacity when overprinting non-white materials but this will always result in straying from the original Pantone reference. The resultant image may appear better than if an unmodified ink was used but it will never be an accurate Pantone match. In all cases, the colour will lose its clarity (brightness) by making it more opaque.

Metallic inks (gold and silver) have a reduced life due to their formulation. No guarantee for adhesion, chemical resistance (including perspiration) or abrasion resistance can be given on these colours. Some products can be over-varnished (at additional cost) to protect metallic colours and this should be requested in writing at the time of placing the order.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are undernourished has increased from 250 million to 800 million (FAO 1996).

There are a number of reasons for this increase. First, the world population has increased from 5 billion in 1987 to 6 billion in 1996, and is projected to reach 8 billion by the year 2025 (FAO 1996). Second, the world population is becoming increasingly urbanized, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Third, the world population is becoming increasingly aged, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Fourth, the world population is becoming increasingly mobile, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Fifth, the world population is becoming increasingly educated, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Sixth, the world population is becoming increasingly wealthy, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Seventh, the world population is becoming increasingly healthy, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Eighth, the world population is becoming increasingly active, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Ninth, the world population is becoming increasingly mobile, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Tenth, the world population is becoming increasingly educated, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Eleventh, the world population is becoming increasingly wealthy, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Twelfth, the world population is becoming increasingly healthy, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Thirteenth, the world population is becoming increasingly active, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Fourteenth, the world population is becoming increasingly mobile, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Fifteenth, the world population is becoming increasingly educated, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Sixteenth, the world population is becoming increasingly wealthy, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Seventeenth, the world population is becoming increasingly healthy, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Eighteenth, the world population is becoming increasingly active, and this has led to a greater demand for food.

Nineteenth, the world population is becoming increasingly mobile, and this has led to a greater demand for food. Twentieth, the world population is becoming increasingly educated, and this has led to a greater demand for food.
