Print Guide

Stock Options

Silk Coated

This stock is considered the default choice for professional print. Silk coated stock has a slight sheen, giving vibrant colours, without a full gloss finish so it's still easy to read from.

Uncoated

No shine, uncoated stocks are the easiest to write on and are popular in business stationery items.

Gloss Coated

For a real shine, you can choose our gloss coated stock. This stock gives your colours and photos an added vibrancy without the expense of added gloss lamination.

Lamination Options

Matt Lamination

For a subtle yet highly sophisticated finish, matt lamination gives your print a smooth feel while reducing any glare. Matt laminated products have the added option for spot UV embellishments.

Gloss lamination

As the name suggests, gloss lamination adds a shiny coating to your work. Colours are made brighter and gradients are exaggerated – great for dramatic photography.

Soft-touch Lamination

Also known as velvet lamination, soft-touch does exactly as it says on the tin – it makes your print soft to the touch. This is a very stylish and delicate print finish.

Finishing Options

Spot UV

Spot UV is used to highlight specific elements of your design with a high-gloss coating. Use a high-build finish for even more texture and make your print truly memorable or for something more subtle opt for a low-build finish.

Foiling

Add a flash of metallic colour to your designs with gold or silver foiling – a sure-fire way to make your print stand out and add a professional touch to your designs.
