Dear Friends,

It is our pleasure to welcome you to the 28th annual Rehoboth Beach International Film Festival (RBIFF). On behalf of the Rehoboth Beach Film Society, we invite you to join us for eight days of exceptional films, engaging conversations, and community celebration.

For 2026, we've added an eighth day to accommodate more than 115 features, documentaries, and short films. Staying true to our "International" name, this year's lineup includes films from the United States, United Kingdom, Lithuania, Japan, Iceland, Georgia, Türkiye, Nigeria, Pakistan, China, the Faroe Islands, Bermuda, Chile, Slovakia, Canada, Bolivia, the Philippines, and beyond including at least eight contenders for the Academy Award for Best International Feature Film. We're also celebrating our local roots with a dedicated Delmarva Day, featuring outstanding regional filmmakers and a documentary about the history of Lewes, Delaware, home to our Cinema Art Theater.

Our team has traveled to major film festivals around the globe to discover exceptional work and build the relationships that bring these films to Rehoboth Beach, giving our audiences the opportunity to enjoy many of them before their wide theatrical release.

Onscreen, you'll see the talents of Ayo Edebiri, Jason Alexander, Juliette Binoche, Tammy Blanchard, Tom Courtenay, Peter Frampton, David Oyelowo, Guy Pearce, J.K. Simmons, and Shea Whigham. We are especially delighted to welcome our very special honoree, Shea Whigham, who will receive the inaugural Glass Wave Award for Outstanding Contributions to Acting in Cinema, recognizing the craft, commitment, and distinctive presence he brings to independent film.

We're also honored to welcome Oscar-nominated screenwriter and filmmaker Mark Fergus as a special panelist and VIP guest. He joins Florian Bauhaus, Eric Edwards, Amy Ferris, Aku Louhimies, and other distinguished industry guests for conversations that connect audiences with the creative talent behind the screen.

The festival is about more than movies. Parties, special gatherings, and industry panels throughout the beach region create opportunities to connect, exchange ideas, and celebrate together. These events encourage community engagement while showcasing the character and hospitality of our coastal communities to attendees joining us from near and far, locally and globally.

This has also been a pivotal year for film in Delaware. Just a few weeks ago, Governor Matt Meyer signed the Delaware Entertainment Production Tax Credit into law, creating incentives to attract film, television, and digital media projects to our state. RBIFF is proud to be an enduring part of the story of film in the First State and to help celebrate its next chapter.

The festival is the beating heart of the Rehoboth Beach Film Society. None of this would be possible without the extraordinary generosity of our sponsors and patrons, the dedication of our volunteers, and the enthusiasm of our audiences. To all of you, we extend our heartfelt thanks.

Welcome to the festival. We're so glad you're here!

Warmly,

Dave Bever

As early as 1933, in the face of the rise of Nazism, Hollywood adopted an ambiguous stance. Driven by economic and diplomatic considerations, the studios censored scripts and images to preserve the German market. Through previously unseen archival material, this film reveals an industry torn between ideals and compromise. At the heart of the story, Léon Lewis organizes a network to monitor Nazi activity in Los Angeles and unsuccessfully attempts to alert the authorities. The documentary questions what Hollywood was able to say, what it chose to remain silent about, and at what cost.

8:00 PM - 9:44 PM MAIN HOSTED BY BRUCE RIDOLFO

Featuring a conversation with director Rob Arthur, producer Dan Catullo, and special guests following the film

Commemorating the 50th anniversary of his Frampton Comes Alive record, this career retrospective documentary of Peter Frampton is an uplifting portrait of the legendary guitarist and singer as he continues performing today. Directed by Frampton's own longtime bandleader Rob Arthur, the film allows the British musician to recount, in his own words, how he first came to prominence in the bands The Herd and Humble Pie before becoming a solo artist and experiencing a meteoric rise to selling out stadium shows in 1976. Mixing archival footage with interviews and performance from Frampton's latest tour, this documentary shows not only where the musician has been but where he is and hopes to go, charting out all the trials and victories along the way. Follows a rock icon who lost everything and fought his way back, again and again. "Frampton is a stirring celebration of artistry, endurance, and the enduring power of music to outlast even the hands that play it."

Critic Alex Ward wrote a feature article for the New York Times, entitled "In Death, a Shy Singer Finally Grabs the Spotlight." It was published August 12, 2002. "In some ways, the explanation for Eva Cassidy's popularity – all told, her records have sold about four million copies, according to Bill Straw, the president of Blix Street – is simple: she possessed a silken soprano voice with a wide and seemingly effortless range, unerring pitch and a gift for phrasing that at times was heart-stoppingly eloquent. In an industry where not much is simple, however, Cassidy's celebrity and the success of her records qualify as aberrations..."

MAHLER IN NEW YORK
USA | 93 min | Dir. Hilan Warshaw | DOCUMENTARY

3:10 PM - 4:43 PM MAIN HOSTED BY GARY MOORE & BONNIE TAMRES-MOORE

A sweeping, symphonic journey follows the final, transformative years of one of Europe's most influential composers who fled Vienna's rising antisemitism to discover startling artistic rebirth in Manhattan. From 1907 to 1911, Gustav Mahler reshapes New York's musical life through bold leadership at both the New York Philharmonic and the Metropolitan Opera, while composing his monumental Symphonies No. 9 and 10. Amid the Upper West Side bustle, he pushes into daring new territory while facing personal tragedy and mounting health challenges. Lush musical performances, rare archival materials, and insights from conductors, scholars, historians, and descendants illuminate a story of reinvention, belonging, and the ever-resonant power of Mahler's legacy. This film brings Mahler's final years vividly to life, weaving together archival recordings, contemporary interviews, intimate musical performances, and evocative footage of Manhattan. It captures not only the creative genius of a man at the height of his powers but also the personal and artistic struggles that defined his last chapter. Through this journey, viewers gain a new appreciation for how Mahler's music continues to echo through New York's streets and concert halls, bridging the past and the present with its timeless power.

IN MEMORIAM

EDMUND T. GMOCH. JR.
12/6/1945 - 2/3/2026

From your friend
Bill

Ed was a long-time Rehoboth resident and known by many as the unofficial “Mayor of Rehoboth”.

He volunteered at the Rehoboth Beach Film Society and attended many of its Film Festivals. He and I poured over the catalogs and selected many of the same movies.
We did not always agree on their merits!

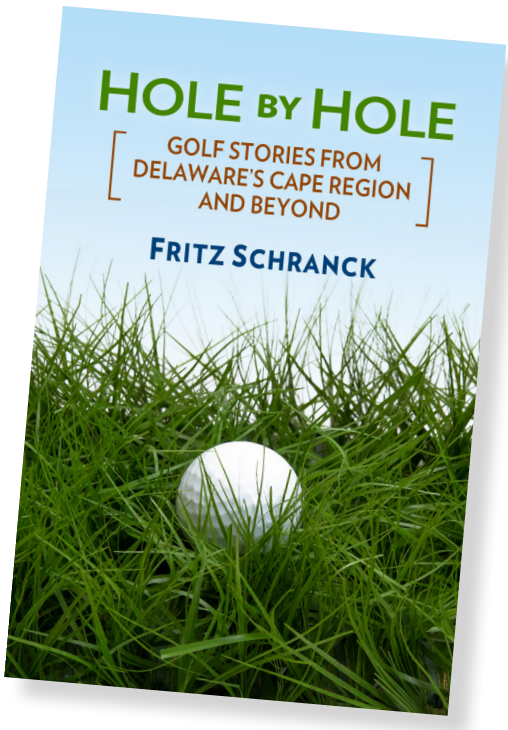

May Ed rest in eternal peace after a life well lived and may we rejoice in our memories of him.
