HISTORY

ST. JAMES' CATHOLIC CHURCH

McDonough, Georgia

No history of this kind would be complete without consideration of the beginnings and the history of the Mother-Church: Sacred Heart Church, Griffin. In the year 1879 the Right Reverend William H. Gross, C.S.S.R., D.D. was the Bishop of Savannah. While on a lecture tour this Redemptorist bishop came to Griffin. Bishop Gross was guest at the home of David J. Bailey, a prominent non-catholic of that city. Early one morning the bishop celebrated Holy Mass at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright. Present also were Mr. and Mrs. John Condon, and Father Thomas Cleary who accompanied the bishop.

Over a period of years Mass was said several times a year in Griffin at the Wright's home. Finally in 1910, the nine catholics of Griffin had a little frame chapel in which to worship God. Since there was no resident priest in Griffin in those days, the little flock was cared for by a priest from Athens. For a year it was Father McVey who came once a month. For sixteen years Father H. F. Clark travelled the long distance in all kinds of weather from Athens to Griffin. In 1926 Father James E. King became pastor in Athens and did not neglect the small group of catholics in Griffin. In 1936 Father Harold Barr made the trips from Athens to Griffin to minister to the parishoners. In 1937 the care of Griffin was given to the zealous Father Joseph R. Smith, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church in Atlanta. In the year 1942 a resident pastor was named for Sacred Heart Church in Griffin.

In June of that year Father John Walsh, C.S.S.R. was assigned to Griffin to care for the hundred and twenty catholics in four of seven counties: Spalding, Henry, Butts, Lamar, Upson, Pike and Monroe. A few months later Father J. Gilbert McCormick, C.S.S.R. came to join Father Walsh. The Redemptorists were here to stay! Mass was celebrated not only in Griffin but as early as September of 1942 in Barnesville as well, at the Gordon Military Academy. Within a year after their arrival, the Redemptorists turned their eyes towards the needs of the catholics in McDonough. On April 4, 1943 the first Mass was said at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gasses, Sr. One week later Mass was said in Jackson at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Land. Later Mr. and Mrs. Charles Deraney fixed up a room of their home in Jackson for Mass and it was known as St. Alphonsus Chapel.

In the year 1946 The Simms' residence in Griffin was bought to be used as Sacred Heart School and convent. The Redemptorist Fathers invited the School Sisters of Notre Dame from Baltimore to come and staff the school, and they eagerly accepted. Soon, the sisters were visiting the various counties and teaching catechism. In 1948 there were 228 catholics in the seven county area. In that year Mass was said for the first time in Thomaston in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Clem. Two years later the Redemptorists from Griffin were asked to care for the catholics in Newnan. Mass was said there at the Ellis Mansour home and later on at the Virginia and Swinton Hotels. In 1952 St. George's Church was built in Newnan. The parish was growing in territory and numbers. More priests were assigned to the parish. Thomaston received in church in 1958 and it was dedicated to St. John.

The records for 1960 show a marked increase in the number of catholics. There were now 600 parishoners. In that year St. Mary's Catholic Church was built in Jackson. The new Sacred Heart Catholic School was opened in Griffin in 1961. The Church of St. James was built in McDonough in 1967. In 1969 the parishoners of Newnan saw the completion of a new and larger church in honor of St. George.

From nine catholics at the turn of the century the growth of the Griffin parish has been steady and flourishing. In 1971 there were one thousand catholics in the eight county area served by four Redemptorist priests of Sacred Heart in Griffin.

When it was first proposed that Mass be said in McDonough, a fitting place had to be chosen, an altar set up and the people notified. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gasses, Sr. said they would be honored to have Mass in their home. Catholics love their Mass, for the Mass is their central act of worship. They realize that it is an action in which God the Son gives perfect praise and glory to God the Father. They know that in the Mass the sacrifice of Christ on Calvary is remarkably reenacted. Their parents before them and generations before them have always esteemed the Mass as the outstanding means they had to express in their lives and to manifest to others the mystery of Christ. In a deep act of faith they firmly believe that at Mass Christ the Lord is immolated when, through the words of consecration, Christ begins to be present in a sacramental form under the appearances of bread and wine.

The altar was covered with long white linen cloths and two wax candles were lighted in shiny golden candlesticks. The vestments the priest wears were carefully ironed and the long white alb was starched and spotless. Everything was at its best for Mass was about to begin. The priest told the family, friends and the catholics gathered there how happy he was with the preparations and how delighted he was to declare this the official beginning of the McDonough Catholic Mission. It was April 4th in the year 1943.

The priest read the Epistle and the Gospel and gave a stirring sermon to his little flock gathered around the provisional altar. At the central point of Holy Mass when the priest said the words of Our Divine Lord: "This is My Body, This is My Blood", all bowed their heads in silent adoration. Christ was now really present on the altar. And moments later many received Holy Communion and had Christ truly present in their souls. And when Mass was finished that morning, there was a friendliness and warmth among all who had attended Mass. There was a sense of community; there was a longing for the day when their numbers would increase and they would be able to have a real church of their own. It was that warmth of friendship and that love for their faith that was to sustain them through many trials. Jesse and Mary Gasses offered their home for the sixteen years to follow for the celebration of Mass.

As the small congregation grew, it became necessary to move on. A new place had to be found to accommodate the parishoners. Finally it was decided that the Masonic Hall building would be adequate. For five years, men, women and children climbed to the second floor that served as chapel and sacristy and rummage store. Those who were there recall that it was hot in summer and cold in winter. Then tragedy struck the catholic mission. A fierce night fire destroyed the Masonic Hall building and forced the parishoners to move. It was this tragic fire that welded the catholics and their many friends in a new and firmer determination to build their own church.

In the meantime they sought for a large hall that would hold the increasing number of catholics. They found a place in the old Agriculture building "down behind the jail". It was to serve as the place for Holy Mass for the next two years. Now it was not only the heat and the cold they had to contend with, it was the rain. For when it rained, the room would be flooded. Then the bucket brigade and the mop marshals would really have to work to get the room ready for Mass. It's no fun when you have to mop your chapel before services on Sunday morning! Determination to have their own church grew firmer and firmer.

It is at this point that Father James Anderson, C.S.S.R. enters the story. It was the twentieth of February in the year 1966, a day he would never forget. When he came to McDonough he was disappointed to find he did not have a church in which he could say Mass. It is known that it rained that Sunday and it rained on many another Sunday. His first thoughts were "Something has to be done about this situation right now". He was earnest, zealous and restless to accomplish much in a short time. Only nine days after he arrived, Father Jim Anderson was out on the road with Father Raymond Govern and Mrs. Hugh White and Mr. Fred Crumbley, a real estate agent, looking for property for a church. And nine weeks after he arrived, Father Anderson had contacted a Mr. A. H. Brannon about the land the church now owns.

The following year, in July of 1967, the ground was broken for the longed for church. That first spadeful of red Georgia clay felt real good; the church was finally to be more than a dream. It was the beginning of a new day for the catholic congregation of McDonough, Stockbridge, and Hampton. It was felt that the best interest of all would be served by a combination building: a church, a meeting hall, a kitchen, an office and living quarters. As the work progressed, the friends of the catholic parishoners showed themselves very generous. The Catholic Extension Society gave a generous gift of ten thousand dollars and the Archbishop gave five thousand. The total cost of the land and the building necessitated a substantial loan. Soon the building was completed, and the first Mass was to be said.

Although Sacred Scripture says of the priest "He is anointed with oil to preside over worship", such was not to be Father Anderson's privilege. The first Mass in the new church was said by a visiting Carmelite priest, Father Sebastian Ramge, O.C.D.

At a meeting of the parishoners a name for the new mission church was to be chosen. The parishoners unanimously chose St. James The Greater, The Apostle, in honor of the patron saint of Father James Anderson, C.S.S.R.

Such is a sketch of the history of the McDonough Catholic Mission. Its full story, of course, is fully recorded only in the annals of heaven. The noble pioneers of the faith in McDonough will not be forgotten in our thoughts and prayers. Let us not forget that they sowed the seed; we are reaping the fruits. May they be blessed for their many sacrifices and for the inspiration and the encouragement that they have given to us and to those who will follow us.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Gasses, Sr. "Where a room was more than just a room when it became the throne of God". Mass was said here on Sundays for 16 years.

THE CRUCIFIX

A crucifix is a cross with the body of Christ affixed to it. The beautiful figure of Christ's body was hand-carved by renowned sculptors in the northern part of Italy. They chose linderwood for their art in order to portray effectively the sufferings of Christ. Their loving care and skill has been complemented by the stained oak cross beams. These were fashioned in the Trappist Monastery in Conyers, Georgia, by Brother Charles, O.C.S.O.

OUR LADY OF PERPETUAL HELP

This picture is a hand-painted authentic copy on wood of the original Icon in the Redemptorist Church of San Alfonso in Rome. The gold background signifies heaven. The main figure is that of Mary holding her divine son Jesus. The artist imagines a scene in which the Angel Gabriel appears with a cross and the Angel Michael with a lance and a sponge-tipped reed foretelling the sufferings of Our Redeemer. The falling sandal signifies the haste with which Jesus fled to His Mother. Surely we can read the message of the artist: Have recourse to Mary, the Mother of God, and she will be our comfort, our protector, our Mother of Perpetual Help.

IN MEMORIAM

Father James Anderson, C.S.S.R.

Born March 2, 1932

Ordained June 21, 1964

Died December 10, 1969

The Holy Bible tells us: "God consecrated him and anointed him with oil, that he should preside over worship, act as a priest, offer sacrifice and make atonement for his people". Book of Sirach, 45, 15-20. Such is the description of a great priest; such is the description of our priest: Father James Anderson, C.S.S.R. Into a lifetime of short duration he poured an intensity of love that pleased God so much, He called him early to his eternal reward. The energy of will, the activity of mind and the love of heart that he put into his labors could have been spread over a period of time five times longer and still produced wonderful results. Father James Anderson, C.S.S.R. literally spent himself for the people he loved. His heart of flesh was not strong enough to hold the love it symbolized. Silently and unseen his body weakened beneath the effort of priestly service above and beyond the ordinary. He died as he lived; working for his people. He died young; his priesthood was short-lived, but his memory will live long in the memory of those who knew him. His memory will live long, not in the brick and mortar of this church but in our hearts. More than promise not to forget him, is our resolve to believe all that he taught us, to follow the way to the heart of Christ he lighted so brilliantly by his priestly dedication to Christ.

Until the new church can be financed, the people of McDonough must attend Mass on the second floor of the town's Masonic building. By doing the work of renovating the new location themselves, the total expense of establishing their mission came to $35.

The chairs shown here were bought when Cedartown became a mission, were given to Washington when Cedartown got its church, were given to Thomaston by Washington, and when Thomaston got its new church they came home to McDonough.
