

KEY VOCABULARY

encryption

a practice that involves codes and systems for changing messages so they cannot be read by other people

the Blitz

the name given to Hitler's bombing campaign against the United Kingdom that lasted for eight months in 1940 and 1941 (blitz is the German word for lightning)

evacuation in World War II many children were required to leave their homes, or evacuate, and move to safer places, often in the countryside

the Holocaust

the name given to the mass killing of European Jews during World War II

genocide

the deliberate killing, or murder, of a large number of people, especially from the same ethnic group or religion

Enigma Machine

a machine used by Nazi Germany during World War II to code messages so they could not be read by the Allies: Alan Turing and his team cracked the Enigma Machine and the messages could be intercepted

Operation Sealion

Nazi Germany's code name for their plan to attack and invade the United Kingdom during the Battle of Britain

propaganda

information, of a biased or misleading nature, used to promote a political cause or point of view the war was fought between axis powers

Germany

Adolf Hitler

Italy

Benito Mussolini

Japan

Hideki Tojo

allied powers

United Kingdom

Winston Churchill

France

Charles De Gaulle

Soviet Union

Joseph Stalin

USA

Franklin D Roosevelt

English code breakers

Alan Turing

Mavis Batey