

The 2026 CULTURED Power Advisor List: Meet the Art Advisors Shaping the World's Top Collections

The number of art advisors is ballooning. Two years after CULTURED released its inaugural Power Advisor list, we're surveying the new and veteran leaders of today.

To create CULTURED's 2026 list of Power Advisors, we consulted reporters, gallerists, art fair executives, and collectors from around the globe. These professionals are behind many of the world's most influential collections—as well as those that will shape the tastes of tomorrow. Their names may not show up on the wall of the private museum or in the auction catalogue, but they are a driving force behind what art gets preserved and valued for generations.

Veteran Power Advisors

The art advisory sector changes fast—but long-running power players continue to steer some of the industry's most influential collectors and negotiate some of the market's biggest deals. Here are the advisors featured on our inaugural list who made the cut yet again in 2026.

Todd Levin

New York

Over the course of more than 35 years, Todd Levin has become one of the highest-profile names in the business, boasting more than $1 billion in transactions with his New York advisory, Levin Art Group. His expertise is broad and thorough, evidenced by the dossiers he compiles for clients ahead of TEFAF Maastricht, which often exceed 100 pages.
