

“Ann is the premiere interpreter of The Great American Songbook today.”

-- Andrea Marcovicci

For her new show, “When in Love,” 2026 MAC & 2025 Bistro award-winning singer/recording artist Ann Kittredge goes bandless, this time accompanied only by her first-rate musical director Christopher Denny. Her musically diverse program offers new treatments on venerable classics like “Melancholy Baby” and “It Might as Well be Spring” alongside more contemporary compositions from the likes of Ahrens and Flaherty and Alan Menken and Tim Rice’s “When I Fall in Love,” written for their musical King David in which Ann appeared on Broadway. Ann Kittredge offers an evening of joyous revelation and heart felt introspection, the kind of a program that can only be done by... two.
