

WHITE WATER SHAKER VILLAGE

11813 OXFORD RD.
HARRISON, OH

WWSV began when three Butler County families gathered together as Shakers in 1823. By 1825, an established Shaker village in Lebanon, Ohio helped this newly formed group buy land in Hamilton County. The Meeting House was erected in 1827 with the Dwelling following in 1832. Since Shakers practiced celibacy, growth occurred by conversion of adults and raising orphans. Successful farmers and crafters, Shakers were also known for their seed and broom industries. After the Civil War, the White Water Shaker population began to decline, and by 1916 the last White Water Shakers left for Shaker villages in New York and Massachusetts.

THE HARRISON VILLAGE HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM

115 N. WALNUT ST.
HARRISON, OH

The Harrison Village Historical Society Museum opened in 2013. It was a dream come true for generations of members whose goal was to collect and preserve material of historic significance from and for the City of Harrison and its surrounding communities. Displays include an historic timeline of the area, a special tribute in memory of Jennings Bryan Yeager and all who answered the call during WWI, Harrison High School sports through the years, a collection of the Harrison Vista Yearbooks, and the Simonson Station Streetcar display. Historical pictures, items and information are gladly accepted and added to the collection. The Museum is open on the 2nd and 4th Thursdays of the month from 1 to 3 p.m. Special visits can be arranged.
