

ENVIRONMENTAL STEWARD

She safeguards the natural world and reminds us we are not separate from it. Her care is generational, her vision interdependent - restoring balance between humanity and the Earth

Key Qualities

- Eco-conscious
- Patient
- Committed
- Ethical
- Holistic Thinker

What sort of activities it may involve?

- Running conservation projects
- Educating about sustainability
- Restoring land and waterways
- Influencing environmental policy

Hindou Oumarou Ibrahim (Chad)

An Indigenous Mbororo woman from Chad, Hindou Oumarou Ibrahim is a fierce advocate for climate justice and the inclusion of Indigenous knowledge in global environmental policy. She bridges traditional ecological wisdom with UN climate discussions, reminding the world that the people most affected by climate change often hold the key to healing it. Her stewardship is rooted in ancestral memory, respect for nature, and a vision of intergenerational sustainability.