ORIGINS

Established in Copenhagen, Denmark - for more than 20 years massimo copenhagen has focused on creating handmade contemporary rugs for both private homes and public spaces.

We believe that any interior can be elevated with uplifting colours and pleasant textures - and we do it one rug at a time. Today, our collection includes more than 350 rug variations, of which 98% is available in stock and ready to ship from our 1,600 sqm showroom in Birkerød. And the possibilities don't end there, since massimo is offering customised service for both private and contract projects.

When choosing the materials, our focus has always been on well-being, positive impact on the environment and superior quality. That decision to only work with natural and recycled materials, is rooted in the Scandinavian way of living rather than the latest trends. Each material, from bamboo to hemp, lends its own characteristics to the rug, making them distinctive and suitable for different areas.

CRAFTSMANSHIP

Our rug production is based in India, where skills of weavers are passed down from one generation to another, handcrafting textiles renowned worldwide for their quality and intricate artistry. Every process involved in making a massimo rug is manual, which means each rug is one-of-a-kind. It's this art that transforms strands of yarn tied by hand into pieces of art.

Over the years we have developed strong and trusted relationships with our manufacturers, some of which have been with us from day-one. Together we ensure strict quality control throughout the rug-making process. Starting from sourcing the raw materials to spinning, dyeing, and weaving the rugs to washing and finishing them. This guarantees that massimo rugs are long-lasting and not harming the environment.

That full control over the process also allows for experimentation with design, materials and techniques regardless of the size of the project. No idea is too small or too big - and that's the foundation of our many partnerships and collaborations.

certifications

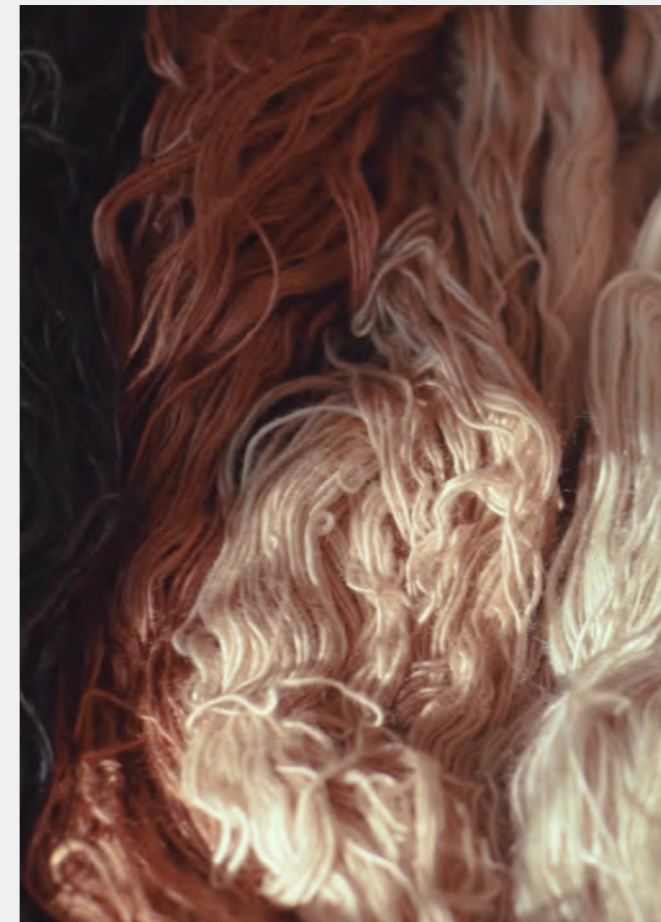

Our commitment to quality and sustainability.

Sustainability

Being sustainable isn't just our strategy, it's our promise for a better future. We hold various certifications that demonstrate our unwavering commitment to eco-friendly practices and superior quality products. These certificates ensure that our rugs are produced using sustainable methods, with a focus on reducing environmental impact and promoting fair working conditions.

They are a testament to our dedication to not only provide high-quality and stylish rugs but also to our commitment to ethical and sustainable practices.

Wool is the original eco-friendly fibre.

"We strive to create timeless pieces that will last. We want them to feel current today and, in the years, to come. This is why the quality has to be second to none. The weaving technique and a strength of the fibres is very important. The most important."

- Chim Scavenius Sonne-Schmidt

Beauty of Natural Wool.

Wool has long been accepted as an environmentally positive fibre choice with a number of benefits. From a sustainability perspective, wool is an entirely natural product that is fully biodegradable. It breaks down quickly, returning its nutrients to the soil without releasing plastic microfibrils into the land and our oceans.

Wool has thermo-regulating properties, is easy to care for, and can be repaired and enjoyed for years and years. Naturally stain-resistant, durable, and fire retardant, it can bring a touch of luxury and warmth to your interior.

ABOUT OEO STUDIO

Thomas Lykke and Anne-Marie Buemann, founders of OEO Studio, have established a distinct aesthetic which bridges the difference between individual detail and overall décor. Their work can be seen in individual homes, hotels, furniture production and other applications.

Their philosophy allows for each project to develop its own 'soul'. This is a factor of both the natural materials they use and the vision a customer has in mind – as is the case with massimo's 'structures' series. Colours and materials are often deployed in unexpected ways – each time taking inspiration from their potential to provide a convivial backdrop for human interaction.

recycled PET

Innovative take on textiles, keeps our oceans plastic-free, our conscience clear and homes stylish.

What on earth is rPET?

PET (short for Polyethylene Terephthalate), is strong, lightweight and often transparent. Due to its unique properties, PET is one of the most commonly used plastics and can be recycled into rPET. In the recycling process, PET plastic is collected, cleaned and remade into new products, without exhausting natural resources, and by reducing energy and carbon emission, which makes rPET widely considered a highly sustainable choice.

The environmental benefits of this process are countless: it reduces environmental impact, avoids the use of non-renewable natural resources, reduces energy consumption and can contribute to reduce the extraction of crude oil and natural gas from the Earth to make more plastic, lessening our dependence on petroleum as a source of raw material.

Keeping plastics from going to landfill and the ocean.

According to the NGO Ocean Conservancy, 8 million metric tons of plastic enter the ocean every year, on top of the estimated 150 million metric tons that currently circulate in marine environments. If we keep this pace, by 2050 there will be more plastic in the ocean than fish. Taking plastic waste and turning it into a useful material is very important for humans and our environment.

This innovative process of turning rPET into textiles, gives a second life to a material that's not biodegradable, and would otherwise end up in landfill or the ocean.

REPEAT | pistachio

REPEAT

ReRepeat collection represents an innovative and sustainable take on textiles. The collection of rugs is handtufted from 100% recycled plastic (rPET), through an innovative process that creates a carbon-neutral fibre.

The eco benefits of rPET are countless as it reduces environmental impact, avoids the use of non-renewable natural resources, reduces energy consumption and lessens our dependence on petroleum as a source of raw material. Rugs made from rPET have a high resistance to wear and tear and offer good thermal protection - making it ideal for rugs, that look and feel just like wool.

bamboo

The very nature of bamboo has shown it to be a naturally green source for textiles.

Bamboo is the fastest-growing plant on Earth.

Bamboo can grow to full size in just 3-4 months, compared to standard trees which can take 30+ years to grow. In the right conditions, it can grow 3 feet tall in 24 hours, which means you can literally watch it grow with your own eyes! This makes it a super sustainable alternative due to its naturally renewing properties.

Plus, nasty pesticides and chemicals aren't required when harvesting bamboo. This means the cultivation is natural, and never harms the environment.

Bamboo is strong and durable.

It's no surprise that bamboo is often named as the new 'green steel' for its versatility and strength in construction. Its robustness and durability is embedded into every type of product that is made from this incredible natural material.

Bamboo has an astounding strength and lifespan whilst remaining light and undemanding. With proper care, your bamboo rugs can be used time and time again without the worry of them deteriorating.

Bamboo is great for the environment

Bamboo forests have enormous positive benefits for the environment as this incredibly productive plant efficiently stores carbon.

Bamboo absorbs 2x more carbon dioxide than trees, which is why they are known to act as carbon sinks. It also generates a vast amount of oxygen, totalling up to 30% more than most plants and trees.

As well as this, bamboo plants have strong roots in the ground, which makes the soil more stable. This means it can stabilise and restore the land, and prevent landslides. So in countries which are prone to landslides, bamboo could be a good option.

Finally, bamboo helps protect biodiversity and endangered species by creating homes for a variety of different animals. Bamboo forests, save and protect the species living in that forest, by providing both homes and food. Don't forget the giant pandas who rely on bamboo alone!

ABOUT TANJA KIRST

Tanja Kirst's work is characterized by reflection on thoughts and details that you don't immediately recognize. This includes subtle colour transition and gradation into shades. Tanja Kirst works with hemp as a sustainable alternative in textile design, rethinking a well-known material in a space between design and craftsmanship, she gives this eco-friendly material a whole new appeal. With interaction and observation, all the functions and details can be experienced over time. This experimental process and way of designing is developed with an intention to add more value to the textile - and to give a poetic approach and longevity to the product.

HEMP
BY TANJA KIRST

The series of rugs by Tanja Kirst are handwoven in 100% hemp yarn. Each thread consists of 50 thin threads spun together and dyed in bio colour. The fact that hemp requires little water, can be cultivated without fertiliser and improves soil structure and adds nutrients as it grows - makes the hemp plant important in the aim for a more sustainable textile production. Handwoven in a flat weave construction with colour and weft effect.
