

The Cat Fact Colouring Book

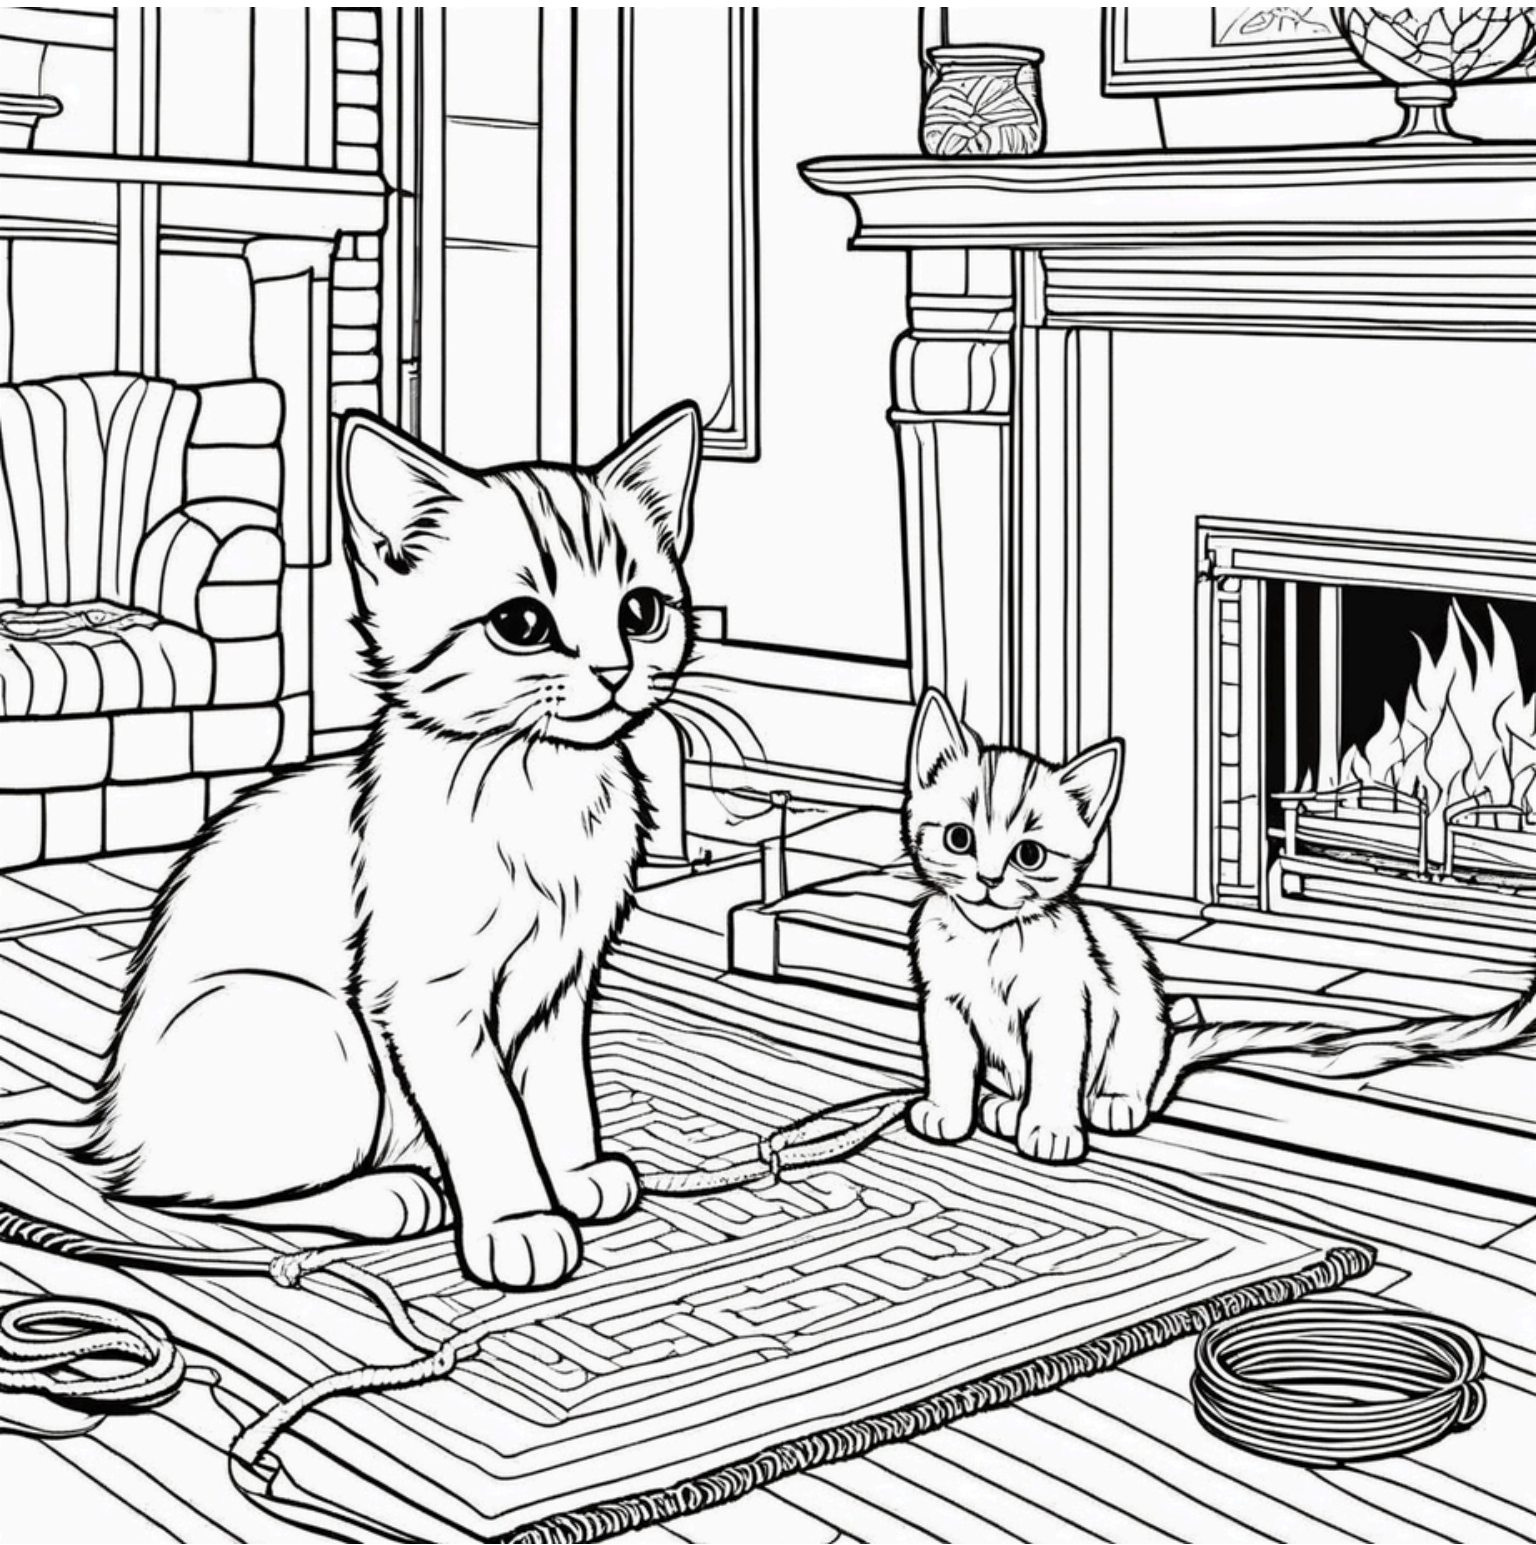

Unqualified Opinion

Just like humans, each cat has a unique nose print.

Cats don't meow at each other, but they do vocalize to their kittens.

Research suggests that a cat's purr can help them heal.

Cats spend a significant amount of time looking out windows, often around two hours a day.

A cat slow blinking at you is a sign of love, trust and affection:
"I feel safe with you".

Cats can spend up to a remarkable 70% of their lives sleeping.

Cats walk on their toes, making them digitigrade walkers.

Most cats are lactose intolerant,
meaning they cannot digest milk well.

Roses, orchids, sunflowers, and snapdragons, are all non-toxic for cats.

Cats generally don't need baths and are quite capable of grooming themselves.

Play helps cats maintain physical fitness, prevent weight gain, and satisfy their hunting instincts.

Cats have an impressive hearing range, making them excellent hunters.

Cats have about 45 to 200 million odor-sensitive cells in their noses, compared to humans' 10 million.

Maine Coon cats are known as "gentle giants" due to their large size and sweet temperament.

Unqualified Opinion