The Story of the Hustle

We are back for our 16th year raising funds for childhood cancer research.

The Hustle is a family race that started in 2011 to raise medical expense funds for Brooke Hester, who was diagnosed with neuroblastoma at the age of three.

Since 2012 the funds raised now have gone to childhood cancer research. We have donated over $120,000 to that cause.

Childhood cancer research gets only 4% of the federal budget and these children deserve more, so we continue to raise funds with this race.

Cancer treatment for children can be harsh and cause more problems, even life threatening problems, years after treatment is complete. Funding childhood cancer research can help find not only life-saving cures, but gentler treatments.

All proceeds will be donated to Fort Worth's Cook Children's Medical Center for their childhood cancer research programs.
