A Tropical Paradise in North Malé Atoll

Another day dawns at Baros. The balmy air whispers through your window as the sun clears the horizon. The lagoon beyond your sundeck invites a morning dip in a clear-blue lagoon – the same now as it has been for more than 50 years, when Baros first opened its doors.

Baros lies in the southern reaches of North Malé Atoll – a beautiful seascape like nowhere else on Earth. It's close enough to Malé that there's no need to wait for a seaplane. In fact, your holiday at Baros begins within moments of touching down at Velana International Airport.

We'll greet you at the airport as soon as you arrive. While other visitors bound for distant atolls are waiting for their plane roster to fill, you'll be taking a brisk, 25-minute speedboat ride directly to your villa.

Baros opened its doors at a time when locals travelled from island to island on dhoni sailboats. When the Maldives communicated with the world by Morse code. Much has changed since then, but more has stayed the same. Baros remains a place of astonishing natural beauty.
