

SIX SENSES

From its beginnings in 1995, Six Senses quickly became recognized as the hospitality industry's pioneer of sustainable practices, demonstrating that responsibility can be successfully wedded to uncompromised high-end facilities.

As Six Senses expands into new and exciting locations, creating destinations unto themselves, the enduring Six Senses mission remains as strong as ever: To help people reconnect with themselves, others and the world around them.

What is new?

New upcoming Six Senses hotels and resorts in stunning locations around the world. See the next slide with images and the location of some of them.

At Six Senses Laamu;

- The Sea Hub of Environmental Learning in Laamu (SHELL), the new state-of-art marine discovery center on sunset beach, features a large exhibition space, a research lab for the Maldives Underwater Initiative (MUI) team, a marine-focused kids' space for our Junior Marine Biology (JMB) program and an innovative presentation room including virtual reality and cinema space.
- The Retreat, three-bedroom villa (with possible fourth room add-on) with a private lap pool that reaches out over the lagoon.
- Added private pools to the remaining beach villas which do not already have pools, meaning our property will become an all-pool villa product from a beach villa perspective.

Where is Six Senses Laamu located?

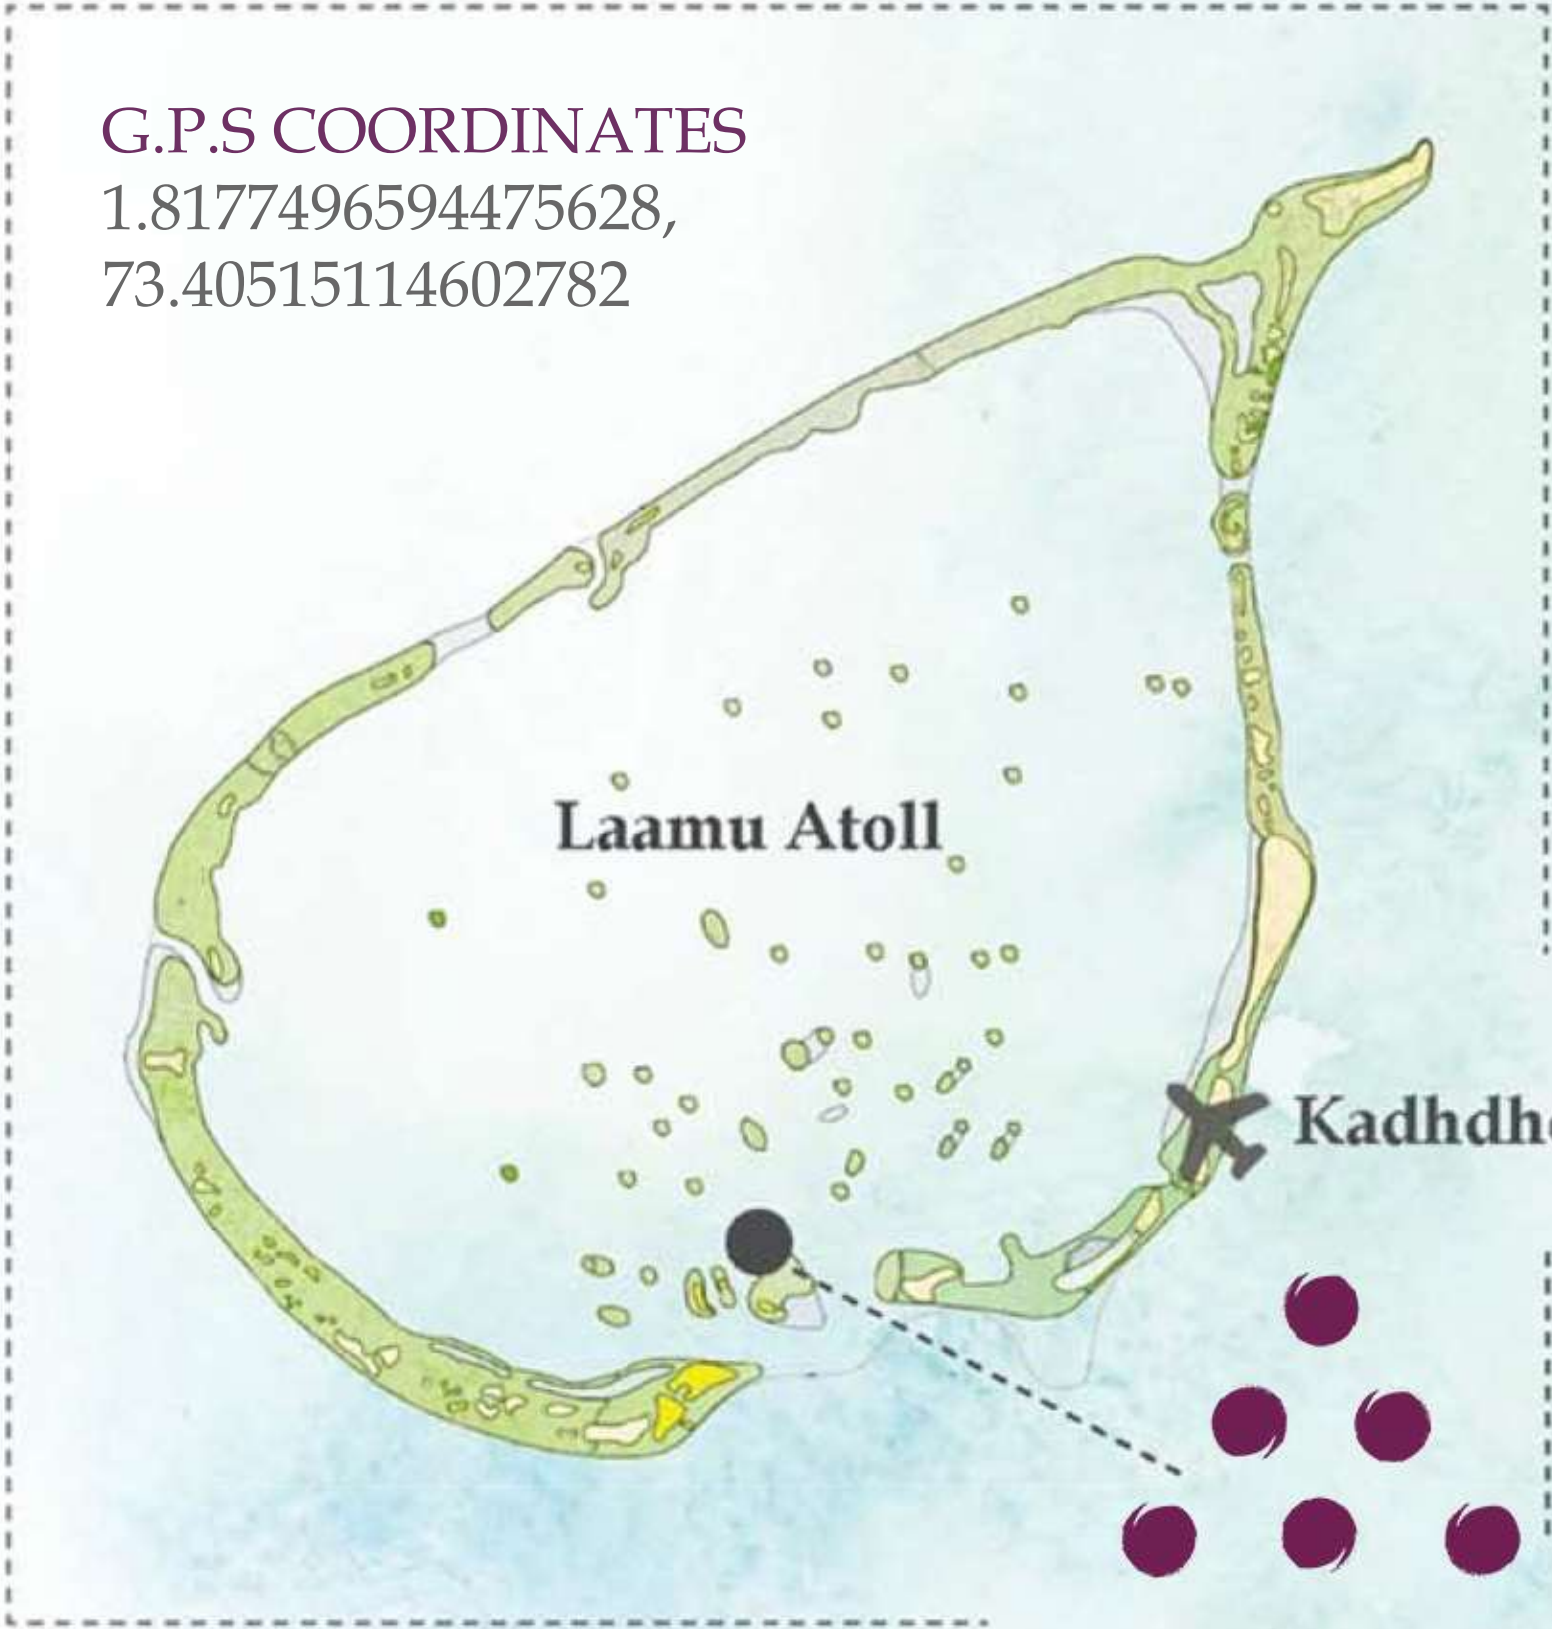

Six Senses Laamu is the only five* resort on the remote Laamu Atoll in the southern Maldives. On-land and over-water villas, dolphins playing in the warm sapphire seas and restaurants serving delightful East-West cuisine create an exceptional, natural nirvana at Six Senses Laamu.

What is Out of the Ordinary at Six Senses Laamu?

Sea Hub of Environmental Learning in Laamu (SHELL)

“Step into the ocean without getting your feet wet”

Designed for education and immersive marine conservation experiences. It is also home to our Maldives Underwater Initiative (MUI).

- Central exhibition space that invites you to explore the colorful and vibrant local marine life
- Marine laboratory
- Cinema room
- Kids’ zone; virtual and augmented reality technologies
- The central gallery, also called the Tank, a high-resolution LED display floor and five educational viewing booths for kids and adults

MUI

- Six Senses Laamu has the biggest marine biologists team in Maldives (12 members) and they strive to inspire guests, fellow hosts and local communities by promoting education and awareness of the marine environment.
- MUI is an initiative by Six Senses Laamu in partnership with three NGOs: Blue Marine Foundation, the Manta Trust and the Olive Ridley Project. The mission is to lead the tourism industry in the Maldives by undertaking meaningful marine conservation focused around the three pillars of research, education and community.
- MUI was also honored with the 'Best for Wildlife and Nature Conservation' Award for its #ProtectMaldivesSeagrass campaign at the World Travel Market's Responsible Tourism Awards.
- The Marine Team conducts complimentary guided snorkeling, sunset dolphin cruise, evening presentations at SHELL, reef clean ups and Kids Club Presentations.
- Marine Biologists join our dive trips to give information on mantas, turtles, corals, and fish life and answer any related questions.

Six Senses Laamu

Junior Marine Biology Program

- Are your children always asking questions about the world?
- Are they fascinated by the ocean and the animals that live in it?
- Do they want to change the world and make it a better place?

Budding conservationists aged 6 to 16 are invited to join the MUI team for our Junior Marine Biology program!

Young ocean lovers will complete exciting science experiments, explore the ocean in snorkeling adventures, and learn to make their own conservation videos.

What sets Six Senses Laamu apart from the 144 other resorts in the Maldives is its dedication to sustainability and marine conservation. Forming MUI was a natural progression of the resort's goals to protect and conserve Laamu's unique environment.

The Manta Trust is a UK-registered charity that coordinates global mobulid research and conservation efforts. Since 2014, the Manta Trust have been working in Laamu to study the local manta ray population and to educate guests and the local community.

Blue Marine Foundation (BLUE) exists to combat overfishing and the destruction of biodiversity by delivering practical conservation solutions, including the creation of large-scale marine reserves. Since 2016, the team has been working with the community towards better fisheries management and improving the resilience of Laamu's reefs.

Olive Ridley Project is on a mission to remove ghost nets from the ocean; to rescue and rehabilitate injured sea turtles, and educate the world about the ghost nets. Since April 2018, a sea turtle biologist from the organisation has been stationed at Six Senses Laamu.

Sustainability

Sustainability is at the heart of our decisions and actions as a company. By operating our business responsibly today, we can ensure that the unique environments, cultures and experiences we share with our guests can be experienced not just once, but for many generations to come. We are responsible not only to our guests and hosts, but also to the local communities and ecosystems around us.
