

Building Notices and Orders

If you have developed a problem with your local Council and have received a building notice or building order for works constructed without the relevant building permit, and are unsure of your rights and what do next, failure to resolve a building notice or building order may result in the following:

1. Considerable penalties being incurred.
2. Court Action.
3. Demolition of the building.

As suitable qualified Building Surveyors, we can assist you to develop a case where no further action is taken.

We can provide personal, professional and relevant advice on how to address the issue.

We can help you work with Council to resolve the matter and gain a suitable outcome for your individual needs and objectives.
