Dear friends,

It's been a busy time in our parish lately—working at Fall Festival Booths, making burgoo and sausage, putting together packets of goodies for our college students, organizing a Halloween celebration for the young people in our parish, and collecting money to provide sausage for the homeless shelters and food pantry. Today is also one of our quarterly blood drives. There is always a great need for blood. Amazingly, one unit of blood that is donated helps up to seven people.

And all along we have been conducting our annual Catholic Ministries Appeal. I'm very grateful for the 181 families who have made pledges to this campaign. With their help we have reach 68% of our CMA goal. I'm confident that the other 339 parish families will do their part to help us reach our CMA goal.

Next Sunday, we are planning a special remembrance for all the members of our parish and the family members and friends of our parish families who have died this past year. We extend a special invitation to everyone to join us at the 8 am Mass where we will have a special prayer for our deceased relatives and friends. After mass you are invited to join us for a reception in the cafeteria. The members of our Altar Society will be providing coffee, juice and some very tasty breakfast treats for this gathering.

To be named and to be remembered are deeply held human needs. We all want to know that people will remember us, that we will not be forgotten. All of us know members of our family who have died: an aunt or uncle, a cousin, a grandparent or a child or even a close friend or co-worker. You are invited to share their names and the particular day you want to remember them. Send the list to us through the collection, email them to us (gschroeder@evdio.org) or text them (812-499-9074). There is no charge for this, but if you would like to make a donation to the church in memory of your loved ones, you may do so. Together let us remember the gift they have been in our lives. Leaning into the journey of life, Fr. Gene Schroeder

This week we continue reading Pope Leo's letter (encyclical) Magnifica Humanitas: On the protection of the human person in the age of artificial intelligence

THE TECHNOCRATIC PARADIGM AND DIGITAL POWER

In his Encyclical Laudato Si', Pope Francis denounced the growing dominance of a technocratic paradigm in our globalized world: the tendency to let the logic of efficiency, control and profit alone shape personal, social and economic decisions. This makes it clear that technology is not simply a tool. When it becomes the standard by which everything is judged, it begins to dictate what matters and what can be discarded, reducing creation to an object of exploitation and human beings to mere cogs in a system driven toward ever greater efficiency.

This paradigm has spread rapidly in recent years, fueled in part by the expansion of artificial intelligence, cognitive science, nanotechnology, robotics and biotechnology. In themselves, these innovations can greatly serve integral human development and the care of our common home. Yet precisely because of their power, they can also hasten the expansion of the technocratic paradigm and therefore require a new spiritual, ethical and political framework. More power does not necessarily imply something better. In this respect, the words of Romano Guardini remain relevant: "Contemporary man has not been trained to use power well."

The danger of humanity becoming a victim of its own achievements was already clearly recognized by Saint Paul VI, who warned that the most extraordinary scientific progress, the most astounding technical feats and the most amazing economic growth, unless accompanied by authentic moral and social progress, will in the long run go against man. For this reason, technological progress — valuable in itself — requires careful discernment of the anthropological vision that guides it and the ends it pursues. If technological development advances without a corresponding ethical and social progress, the result may be an increase in means without a growth in humanity: "having more" without "being more." In such a scenario, there is a risk that individuals will be evaluated principally according to the outcomes they produce.

Here, we must recognize another crucial aspect, which I have noted earlier. In many cases within the digital context, control over platforms, infrastructure, data and computing power does not rest with States, but with major economic and technological actors. These entities effectively set the conditions for access, determine the rules of visibility and shape the very possibilities for participation. When such power is concentrated in the hands of a few, it tends to become opaque and evade public oversight, increasing the risk of distorted forms of development that give rise to new dependencies, exclusions, manipulations and inequalities.

Faced with this concentration of power in the digital world, the criteria for judgment and discernment in this new situation are the noble principles of Social Doctrine: the inalienable dignity of the human person, the common good, the universal destination of goods, subsidiarity, solidarity and social justice. They demand that we assess whether the power of digital infrastructures and algorithms truly fosters participation and responsibility, protects the vulnerable, ensures fair access to opportunities and remains directed toward the good of all. On this basis, we can now examine more closely what artificial intelligence is, the possibilities it opens up and the risks it entails.

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE

It is not my intention here to offer a comprehensive treatment of artificial intelligence, nor to give an overview of the extensive relevant literature, since authoritative contributions already exist, including within the ecclesial context. I limit myself to recalling a few essential elements for a moral and social discernment that safeguards the primacy of the human person, in order to ensure that it will always be human intelligence, with its conscience and freedom, that guides technical innovations and responsibly determines their use and limits.

It is appropriate to preface this discussion with two considerations. First, any statement regarding AI risks becoming quickly outdated, given the remarkable pace at which these systems are developing. Second, all of us, including those who design them, possess only a limited understanding of their actual functioning. Indeed, current AI systems are more "cultivated" than "built," for developers do not directly design every detail, but instead create a framework within which the intelligence "grows." As a result, fundamental scientific aspects — such as the internal representations and computational processes of these systems — remain, at present, unknown. There thus emerges an urgent need for a twofold commitment: on the one hand, a deepening of scientific research; on the other, the exercise of moral and spiritual discernment.
