Dear friends,

In our Catholic Tradition, the month of November is traditionally a time to remember those who have died. To be remembered is a deeply held human need. We all want to know that people will remember us, that we will not be forgotten. Remembering is a gift we give to others. Each time we recall a memory of those we love, they continue to live in our hearts.

One of the ways we remember people is by praying for them at Mass. You may remember this as "having a Mass celebrated for a particular person." Each week we list the particular intentions in the weekly bulletin. These are the names of loved ones that people would like the parish to remember at Mass.

All of us know members of our family who have died: an aunt or uncle, a cousin, a grandparent or a child or even a close friend or co-worker. Even if your loved ones do not happen to have been a member of the Catholic Church, you are invited to share their names as well. You may also want to list the particular day you want to remember them—perhaps their birthday, or wedding anniversary, or the day they died. If you come to a particular Mass, you may want to ask that your loved ones be remembered at that particular time. There is no charge for this, but if you would like to make a donation in memory of your loved one, you can always do that.

Leaning into the journey of life

The great challenge is to claim the joy

that Jesus offers us.

Jesus is God of the living.

Jesus came to bring life,
and life in abundance.

Jesus came to break
the chain of wounds and needs
and to overcome death.

He came to give life,
and life is joy.

"I want my joy to be yours and for your joy to be complete" (John 15:11).

Jesus says, "I came to overcome death and to give you life that does not end."

ON LOVE FOR THE POOR

We are reading from the Apostolic Exhortation Dilexi Te of Pope Leo to all Christians on the Love of the Poor

A concrete commitment to the poor must also be accompanied by a change in mentality that can have an impact at the cultural level. In fact, the illusion of happiness derived from a comfortable life pushes many people towards a vision of life centered on the accumulation of wealth and social success at all costs, even at the expense of others and by taking advantage of unjust social ideals and political-economic systems that favor the strongest.

Thus, in a world where the poor are increasingly numerous, we paradoxically see the growth of a wealthy elite, living in a bubble of comfort and luxury, almost in another world compared to ordinary people. This means that a culture still persists – sometimes well disguised – that discards others without even realizing it and tolerates with indifference that millions of people die of hunger or survive in conditions unfit for human beings. A few years ago, the photo of a lifeless child lying on a Mediterranean beach caused an uproar; unfortunately, apart from some momentary outcry, similar events are becoming increasingly irrelevant and seen as marginal news items.

We must not let our guard down when it comes to poverty. We should be particularly concerned about the serious conditions in which many people find themselves due to lack of food and water. In wealthy countries too, the growing numbers of the poor are equally a source of concern. In Europe, more and more families find themselves unable to make it to the end of the month.

In general, we are witnessing an increase in different kinds of poverty, which is no longer a single, uniform reality but now involves multiple forms of economic and social impoverishment, reflecting the spread of inequality even in largely affluent contexts. Let us not forget that doubly poor are those women who endure situations of exclusion, mistreatment and violence, since they are frequently less able to defend their rights. Even so, we constantly witness among them impressive examples of daily heroism in defending and protecting their vulnerable families.

While significant changes are under way in some countries, the organization of societies worldwide is still far from reflecting clearly that women possess the same dignity and identical rights as men. We say one thing with our words, but our decisions and reality tell another story, especially if we consider the numbers of women who are in fact destitute.

IDEALOGICAL PREJUDICES

Looking beyond the data – which is sometimes “interpreted” to convince us that the situation of the poor is not so serious – the overall reality is quite evident: Some economic rules have proved effective for growth, but not for integral human development. Wealth has increased, but together with inequality, with the result that new forms of poverty are emerging. The claim that the modern world has reduced poverty is made by measuring poverty with criteria from the past that do not correspond to present-day realities. In other times, for example, lack of access to electric energy was not considered a sign of poverty, nor was it a source of hardship.

Poverty must always be understood and gauged in the context of the actual opportunities available in each concrete historical period. Looking beyond specific situations and contexts, however, a 1984 document of the European Community declared that the poor shall be taken to mean persons, families and groups of persons whose resources (material, cultural and social) are so limited as to exclude them from the minimum acceptable way of life in the Member States in which they live. Yet if we acknowledge that all human beings have the same dignity, independent of their place of birth, the immense differences existing between countries and regions must not be ignored.
