SAINT JOSEPH CATHOLIC CHURCH & SCHOOL

VANDERBURGH COUNTY EVANSVILLE, INDIANA ESTABLISHED IN 1841

JULY 6, 2025, FOURTEENTH SUNDAY IN ORDINARY TIME

Dear friends,

It's all hands on board these next few weeks as we make our big push to sell chicken dinner tickets. Thanks to those who have stepped forward to sell extra tickets. Remember, every little bit helps. Our goal is to sell 2500 tickets. So far we have sold about 400 tickets so we have a ways to go.

Special thanks to our lawn mowing crews that have braved the hot and humid weather to keep our parish campus looking so great. Your reward will be great! Special thanks to all the folks who have stepped forward to help us clean the school and get it ready for another school year.

This past June we ended our current fiscal year. Right now we have been hitting people with a lot of different financial appeals, raffle tickets, dinner tickets, rebuilding our church campaign pledges, supporting our all the while asking folk to contribute to our weekly collection. I know that can be a bit overwhelming. I continue to be very grateful for the financial support you have given over the years.

If you review the weekly financial report in our bulletin you will notice that we have missed our budgeted collection needs for the years. Our year to date totals for the current year are actually below our collections totals for the same period last year. Now is a good time to make up for the weeks you may have missed with your weekly offerings. Remember that there are several ways you can make your weekly contributions.

1. Sending your contribution to us through the mail. You can use any of the stamped envelopes we send you in the mail. If you need our parish address, here it is: St. Joseph Church 6202 W. St. Joseph Rd, Evansville, IN 47720

2. You can also set up an automatic withdrawal from your checking or savings account. Call the parish office (812-963-3273) and we'll walk you through the process.

3. You can also donate online through our diocesan website, www.evdio.org. At the top of the menu options on the main page, click on the last menu option on the right: "Sunday Collection Giving."

May the great example of generosity of so many in our parish continue to inspire us all to be generous with what we have been given.

With your help we have continued our work with our brothers and sisters in St. James in Haiti. Our hearts are heavy knowing all the things they are having to cope with on a daily basis. Our hearts are heavy too knowing that there are Haitians in our country who are losing their Temporary Protected Status.

Facing incredible difficulties, ordinary Haitians continue on. One such person that we remember is the contributions and holiness of the Venerable Pierre Toussaint, the Haitian-American philanthropist who died on June 30, 1853. He was born into slavery in Haiti, but in the early days of the Haitian Revolution, the Catholic couple who claimed ownership of Toussaint brought him and four other slaves to New York City, where slavery was still a firmly entrenched institution. At the age of 45, he was freed, and took the surname "Toussaint," in honor of the leader of the Revolution. He became a successful hairdresser, and bought the freedom of his sister, Rosalie. For 66 years, he attended daily Mass, and he and his wife opened their home to many orphans. They also opened a credit bureau, an employment agency, and a sanctuary for priests and poor travelers.

He was famous for risking his life to nurse quarantined cholera patients during an epidemic in New York City. He is the first layperson buried in the crypt of St. Patrick's Cathedral. "I have enough for myself, but if I stop work, I will not have enough for others," he wrote. May his example inspire us in our service to others!

Leaning into the journey of life, Fr. Gene Schroeder

THE LOVE OF THE HEART OF JESUS

We continue reading from Pope Francis' recent letter to the church "On the Love of the Heart of Jesus Christ."

The natural desire to console Christ, which begins with our sorrow in contemplating what he endured for us, grows with the honest acknowledgment of our bad habits, compulsions, attachments, weak faith, vain goals and, together with our actual sins, the failure of our hearts to respond to the Lord's love and his plan for our lives. This experience proves purifying, for love needs the purification of tears that, in the end, leave us more desirous of God and less obsessed with ourselves.

In this way, we see that the deeper our desire to console the Lord, the deeper will be our sincere sense of "compunction". Compunction is "not a feeling of guilt that makes us discouraged or obsessed with our unworthiness, but a beneficial 'piercing' that purifies and heals the heart. Once we acknowledge our sin, our hearts can be opened to the working of the Holy Spirit, the source of living water that wells up within us and brings tears to our eyes... This does not mean weeping in self-pity, as we are so often tempted to do... To shed tears of compunction means seriously to repent of grieving God by our sins; recognizing that we always remain in God's debt...
Just as drops of water can wear down a stone, so tears can slowly soften hardened hearts. Here we see the miracle of sorrow, that 'salutary sorrow' which brings great peace... Compunction, then, is not our work but a grace and, as such, it must be sought in prayer." It means, "asking for sorrow in company with Christ in his sorrow, for anguish with Christ in his anguish, for tears and a deep sense of pain at the great pains that Christ endured for my sake".

I ask, then, that no one make light of the fervent devotion of the holy faithful people of God, which in its popular piety seeks to console Christ. I also encourage everyone to consider whether there might be greater reasonableness, truth and wisdom in certain demonstrations of love that seek to console the Lord than in the cold, distant, calculated and nominal acts of love that are at times practised by those who claim to possess a more reflective, sophisticated and mature faith.

Consoled ourselves in order to console others

In contemplating the heart of Christ and his self-surrender even to death, we ourselves find great consolation. The grief that we feel in our hearts gives way to complete trust and, in the end, what endures is gratitude, tenderness, peace; what endures is Christ's love reigning in our lives.
Compunction, then, is not a source of anxiety but of healing for the soul, since it acts as a balm on the wounds of sin, preparing us to receive the caress of the Lord.

Our sufferings are joined to the suffering of Christ on the cross. If we believe that grace can bridge every distance, this means that Christ by his sufferings united himself to the sufferings of his disciples in every time and place. In this way, whenever we endure suffering, we can also experience the interior consolation of knowing that Christ suffers with us. In seeking to console him, we will find ourselves consoled.

At some point, however, in our contemplation, we should likewise hear the urgent plea of the Lord: "Comfort, comfort my people!" (Is 40:1). As Saint Paul tells us, God offers us consolation "so that we may be able to console those who are in any affliction, with the consolation by which we ourselves are consoled by God" (2 Cor 1:4).

This then challenges us to seek a deeper understanding of the communitarian, social and missionary dimension of all authentic devotion to the heart of Christ. For even as Christ's heart leads us to the Father, it sends us forth to our brothers and sisters. In the fruits of service, fraternity and mission that the heart of Christ inspires in our lives, the will of the Father is fulfilled. In this way, we come full circle: "My Father is glorified by this, that you bear much fruit" (Jn 15:8).
