Dear friends,

By now you should have received your invitation to make your pledge to our Catholic Ministry Appeal. If, by chance you did not receive your letter, be sure and let us know. We certainly don't want anyone to feel left out of this common parish effort! Thanks to those who have already responded. We're 10% of the way to our goal! Remember that every gift, no matter how large or how small is important.

Things are gearing up for Fall Festival. This coming Friday at 2 pm the Men's Club will begin making their own special sausage burgers for their booth as well as the PTO booth. Next Sunday at noon the PTO will be making their special Heidelberg Potato Cheese Soup for their booth. They are selling the soup by the half gallon and you can pre-order yours, put it in the freezer and enjoy it later. Come and join in helping them!

I know that a number of the men in our parish who are members of the Men's Club have been and will be busy with preparations for the week of the festival. I know too that a number of folks in the parish are helping at other booths as well. Blessings to all of you for your hard work.

This week we are celebrating the feast of several different saints. They remind me that saints come in all shapes and sizes, some of them are a joy to be around and others are not. Some seem very ordinary and others verge on the point of just being a little weird. But God uses the willingness of all of them to do good work.

Today, is the Feast of Vincent DePaul. Initially he aspired to a life of hobnobbing with the rich and famous completely unaware of the poor around him. Then he heard the confession of a dying peasant in Parish. All of a sudden his eyes became open and he started to notice the poor all around. Working with Louise de Marillac, they would spend their lives working for the poor and inviting others to join them.

Wednesday is the feast of St. Jerome, a great biblical scholar who translated the bible into the common language of the time—Latin. The story is told that he lived and worked in a cave with a lion, until the lion couldn't stand living with him anymore and moved out! Jerome must have been quite a person! And yet God used his talents to help others come to know and appreciate the words of scripture. Go figure!

Leaning into the journey of life,

Fr. Gene Schroeder

TRUST

It's like so many other things in life
to which you must say no or yes.

So you take your car
to the new mechanic.
Sometimes the best thing to do is trust.

The package left with the disreputable-looking clerk,
the check gulped
by the night deposit,
the envelope passed
by dozens of strangers-- all show up to their intended destinations.

The theft that could have happened doesn't.
Wind finally gets where it was going through the snowy trees,
and the river, even when frozen, arrives
at the right place.

And sometimes you sense
how faithfully your life is delivered, even though you can't read the address.

WORLD DAY OF MIGRANTS AND REFUGEES Even Just One of These Children

This week we read Pope Leo's Message for World Day of Migrants and refugees, September 27. Next week we will continue reading from Pope Leo's Encyclical Manifica Humanitas

Each year the World Day of Migrants and Refugees invites us to turn our attention to different aspects of the complex phenomenon of migration. For this 112th World Day, the theme, "Even just one of these children," draws our attention to the minors directly involved in the experience of migration and flight, to the care owed to them, and to the Lord's promise that "whoever receives one such child in my name receives me"

Minors are the most vulnerable group within the global movements of migration. They are concrete faces, who have unique stories, and call on our conscience. Every year, millions of children and adolescents are forced to leave their homeland because of war, poverty, violence, environmental disasters and other tragedies. Sadly, their number continues to grow. The economic, political and military consequences of this disaster are immense. The suffering of migrant children does not end with their relocation. There are very young children who have lost parents, brothers, sisters and friends, and who have witnessed unspeakable acts of violence. Others, separated from their families for long periods, try to reunite with them while enduring the anguish of separation. There are also minors who make the journey together with their parents, yet are exposed to extreme and traumatic conditions. Finally, we cannot forget the tragic situation of those separated from their parents because of repatriation.

To this already appalling situation are added further tragedies: deaths along migration routes, trafficking and exploitation, the recruitment of minors for use in armed conflicts, sexual violence, forced marriages, and the atrocities they have suffered or witnessed during their travels. Their dignity is trampled upon in countless ways.

Yet, amid so much darkness, the light of solidarity is not lacking. Individuals, families, civil institutions and ecclesial communities choose not to pass by on the other side. We think of the families who open the doors of their homes in order to restore to these children the warmth of a family hearth; the educators who serve in reception centers; the volunteers and aid workers who each day devote themselves to healing the invisible wounds of these little ones along migration routes and in our cities. They bear witness through their commitment that love can overcome indifference.

Sadly, migrant children are more easily ignored, because they lack adults capable of protecting and supporting them. We cannot remain indifferent, nor can we become accustomed to such suffering. Even just one of these children calls each one of us, in our personal lives, to open our eyes and heart to a profound listening to his or her story, fears and dreams, overcoming that detachment which reduces the human person to a statistic that does not directly concern us.

Before the concrete faces that confront us in daily life, the entire Christian community is called to regard these children as its own sons and daughters, and to engage with the concrete story of each one of them. In particular, it is essential to prevent the solitude, isolation and rejection that not infrequently also affect the children of migrants; and to promote opportunities for encounter and integration in which local young people and young migrants can support each other along a path of mutual respect, solidarity and friendship.

Public and private institutions are bound to prioritize the protection and dignity of every single child and adolescent. An urgent change of perspective is needed: the focus of the debate must shift from the mere management of migration to the full and immediate protection of human rights, adopting "a coordinated, supportive and effective response, capable of guaranteeing protection, welcome and genuine opportunities for integration to those who migrate.

In Vanderburgh County alone there are an estimate 1400 migrant children
