Dear friends,

Today in the Gospel we encounter the rich man who doesn't seem to notice the poor man, Lazarus. His difficulty is not because of his wealth, but because of his lack of hospitality. He seemed to forget the words of Jesus, "when I was hungry you gave me something to eat and drink, when I was a stranger you welcomed me."

We've seen examples of this kind of hospitality with individuals and small groups reaching out to welcome migrants into our country. It's been heartwarming to know that many of our brothers and sisters in Catholic parishes have been very much a part of these efforts.

But there are other ways of giving witness to this spirit of hospitality. I think, for example, of the number of people who are beginning and continuing their sponsorship of our students in Haiti. What a difference they are making in the lives of these children and their families. In this very concrete way, they are reminding our friends in Haiti that they are not alone. And that is such an important message in these difficult times for the people of Haiti.

And there are more examples of this spirit of hospitality. At its core, this spirit is all about making room in your lives for other people and seeing their needs as being as important for you as it is for them. That can take simple forms like offering your help working at the PTO and Men's Club Booth at the fall festival.

But it can also mean helping to provide the financial support for the work being done in our diocese through our Catholic Ministries Appeal Campaign. We're off to a great start. So far, 115 families/individuals have pledged $49,660 toward our goal. That's about 38% of our goal from 22% of our parishioners. I'm confident that the other 78% of our parish families will soon be joining in this effort by making their pledge.

Leaning into the journey of life

STEWARDSHIP: The Lord's Way

The sin of the rich man in today's parable was not that he was rich, but that he failed to share his wealth with the beggar at his gate. He knew Lazarus, perhaps walked by him every time he came in or out, but did nothing to relieve his suffering. Is there a Lazarus in my life? What am I doing to help?

Mary and the Month of October

Please join us in October (beginning next weekend) as we pray the rosary before each of our weekend Masses. We will begin praying the rosary twenty-five minutes before Mass.

Especially during this Jubilee Year of 2025, we are called to be Pilgrims of Hope. As a concrete way of fulfilling this Jubilee imperative, our Diocese is participating in a partnership with Habitat for Humanity of Evansville to build a home for a family in need.

The Diocese has committed $50,000 toward the cost of the home and is seeking to raise an additional $50,000 through partnerships with parishes and Catholic groups and organizations in the Diocese. We invite members of every parish to consider making a financial gift to help us reach this goal. In addition to partnering with the Diocese on financial support, we invite you to join the diocesan office staff in a pledge of "sweat equity" toward the build.

As you know, providing shelter for those who are without proper housing is a corporal work of mercy, and this Jubilee Year initiative offers a powerful opportunity to fulfill that obligation together as the Church of Evansville.

Joseph M. Siegel

Bishop Joseph Siegel

If you would like to make a financial contribution to this effort, send it to us through the collection or in the mail. Be sure to note on it that it is for our the Diocesan Habitat House. If you would like to offer your help on the build, contact Matt Miller at the Diocesan Office (812-424-5536).

AND GOD WEPT

This morning, long before daylight, I woke to the sound of someone crying. It was God. She'd been crying quietly all night, but as the wee hours waned, her sobs grew louder. The darkness just before dawn is a tough time for a lot of us. Years ago, when I first heard God crying, I was shocked. If anyone should be able to cheer themselves up, wouldn't it be God? Just go make another planet or something, I'd thought, wanting to get away from that oceanic, gripping sorrow.

But if you've ever loved anyone or anything at any time, you know that backing away from the sadness only twists and distorts—it doesn't make it go away. So after I realized I wasn't going to abandon God or hide from the grief, we made a little deal. God doesn't back away when I'm sad, and I try my best to stay present when God's heart is breaking. The roughest times are when she considers how much hatred is leveled in her name, how much suffering we inflict on each other, or how trashed this stunning little planet has become. These things catch up with her sometimes.

I often find comfort in the lap of God. It's far more awkward when God tries to fit on mine, but that's what needed to happen. My lap expanded to the size of a mountain range, my arms grew a million miles long, and I wrapped them around her, nice and snug. Then I swayed to the subterranean beat of the cosmos, murmuring the bits of hope I could muster, singing fragments of lullabies that came to mind.

"Sweet Lord," I whispered. "You try so hard. You love so deeply. You're a worthy, excellent God." Her head was tucked, body curled. Her vibrations were pulling me to pieces. She was in real pain.

"Gentle God," I said. "Remember the good old days? When you were having so much fun, setting earth in motion, and sprinkling stars everywhere. Remember that? It must have been awesome."

"Yes," she said, her voice murky with grief. "So much I remember. So much I hoped."

"And you can still hope, right? I mean, it isn't over yet, is it?" "I don't know, my friend," she said, with a deep, unsteady breath. "I honestly don't know. You tell me."

Dawn arrived. God wrapped herself in light, splashed her face in the falling snow, and thanked me as she became the song of the great horned owl, calling it a night. Heading for bed. This was good. We both desperately needed some rest. And then, it's clear, I have work to do. We all have work to do.

CAN YOU HELP AT THE FALL FESTIVAL?

The annual Fall Festival will soon be upon us again. This year the St. Joe Men's Club will be staffing the booth formerly run by the Knights of St. John. The Men's Club and the PTO are reaching out to parishioners to offer their help in staffing their booths. It takes a great deal of effort from lots of people to make these fundraising effort a success. So, if you can offer you time to help, know that it will be greatly appreciated.

Call the school office (812-963-3335) to help out with PTO booth. To offer your help with the Men's Club booth, contact Josh Elfreich (812) 746-2068).
