

ABOUT THE COVER

Moses presses God with breathtaking boldness (Show me your glory!) and God tucks him in the cleft of a rock and lets all his goodness pass by, because this is a God who is known not by naked power but by mercy and grace declared by name.

Isaiah goes further still, revealing a God who calls even Cyrus by name and arms him for a purpose, so that from the rising of the sun to the west all the earth may know there is no other.

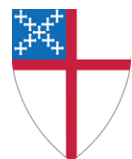

The Thessalonians received the gospel not in word only but in power and the Holy Spirit, and their faith sounded forth across Macedonia and Achaia without Paul needing to say a word. Jesus silences his interrogators with a single question - Whose image is on the coin? - leaving the deeper question ringing in the air: Whose image is on you?
