CONGRATULATIONS, CLASS OF 2026!

INSPIRE | CHALLENGE | EMPOWER

YOUR FUTURE.
OUR LEGACY.

EMMA FLORY
VALEDICTORIAN

Emma Flory, the child of Roger and Jennifer Flory of Temple, served as captain of the varsity basketball team while also participating in National Honor Society and student council. She also coached eighth-grade and freshman basketball teams. Flory plans to attend Tarleton State University to major in pre-health sciences before pursuing physician assistant school and a future career in dermatology or cosmetic medicine.

"It's really important to just trust yourself and trust the process," Flory said. "The rankings are going to fluctuate, but you just have to keep giving it your all."

ABBY IDOUX
SALUTATORIAN

Abby Idoux, the child of Teresa and John Idoux of Belton, lettered three years in varsity soccer while also participating in National Honor Society, Health Occupations Students of America and volunteer work through Angel's Buddies. She plans to attend Trinity University to major in biochemistry before attending medical school.

"I'd say just being confident in who you are and your abilities," Idoux said. "Trust yourself and trust what you've done the past four years."

SAMANTHA MCKENZIE
VALEDICTORIAN

Samantha McKenzie, the child of Dr. Kristin Rooney and Neil McKenzie of Morgan's Point Resort, participated in varsity golf, varsity tennis, National Honor Society, the Superintendent's Student Advisory Council, Dragon Council and University Interscholastic League academics. She plans to attend the University of Texas at Austin to study sports business with a minor in biology before pursuing a career as an orthopedic surgeon.

"Try everything," McKenzie said. "It's helped me find things that I truly enjoy and helped me become a better athlete, a better leader and a more well-rounded person."

LELAND MOORE
SALUTATORIAN

Leland Moore, the child of Jamie Mongillo of Temple and Earl Moore of Anderson, South Carolina, participated in varsity tennis, University Interscholastic League academics, the anti-bullying and safety committee, National Honor Society and Hope Squad. Moore plans to attend Coastal Carolina University in South Carolina to study education with aspirations of becoming a teacher, tennis coach or sports manager.

"The main thing I try to do is give people the space to be themselves," Moore said. "I want underclassmen to know they're allowed to express themselves and care for each other."

TAYLOR ROGERS
VALEDICTORIAN

Taylor Rogers, the child of Emily and Jimmy Frank Rogers of Belton, has been involved in student council, tennis, National Honor Society and University Interscholastic League academics throughout high school. Rogers plans to attend Texas A&M University and enter the honors engineering program before pursuing nuclear engineering and a future in research within the European Union.

“When I think about just the person I was four years ago, I think I’m just a completely different person now,” Rogers said. “I think a willingness to change and adapt is probably what got me this far.”

DHRUV BHAT
SALUTATORIAN

Dhruv Bhat, the child of Sanjay and Nandita Bhat of Temple, participated in tennis, Health Occupations Students of America, National Honor Society, student council, University Interscholastic League academics and Future Farmers of America. A National Merit Finalist, Bhat plans to attend the University of Texas at Austin to study biology before pursuing medical school and a career in radiology.

“I think my counselors and parents deserve all of it,” Bhat said. “They really told me how to grow as a student and how to get up here.”
