Tasmania's best wilderness cruise

We will show you a side of Tasmania like no other: our award-winning Gordon River Cruises give you a unique perspective on our natural wilderness and the amazing west coast. The Gordon River is one of our natural wonders and an amazing location for a wilderness cruise. From deep within the Tasmanian Wilderness World Heritage Area it winds its way through the rainforest to arrive at the wide expanse of Macquarie Harbour, then through the narrow entrance of Hells Gates into the Southern Ocean.

Your wilderness cruise departs from Strahan, a picturesque historic harbour-side village on the edge of Macquarie Harbour and the Franklin-Gordon Wild Rivers National Park.

Keep your camera at the ready... The Spirit of the Wild is the first boat on the Gordon River each day and the reflections on the water have to be seen to be believed. As one of the best things to do in Strahan, the half-day Gordon River Cruise is a spectacular way to experience this part of Tasmania.

03.00pm - Depart Gordon River Cruise short walk to the Huon Mill and Huon Pine Demonstration

A family owned and operated sawmill specialising in Huon Pine and other unique Tasmanian timbers. Operated from this location since the 1940's and tin by the Morrison family for 4 generations, the Sawmill is steeped in local history. A talk and demonstration is held each day at approximately 3pm, please be at the mill by 2.45pm so you do not miss out!

04.00pm - Walk across the road to our accommodation Strahan Village, Strahan

05.00pm – Walk across the road to the performance “The Ship That Never Was” (optional)

Australia's longest running performance 'The Ship that Never Was' tells the dramatic and hilarious story about the last Great Escape from Sarah Island.

The play is based on a real event which took place in 1834. The last ship built at the convict settlement in Macquarie Harbour was about to sail for the new prison at Port Arthur but was hijacked by ten convict shipwrights.

So begins the story of an amazing escapes, an extraordinary voyage and an intriguing twist in the tale of 'The Ship That Never Was'.

01.15pm - Depart West Coast Wilderness Rail

01.30pm - Arrive Paragon Theatre (lunch & movie - Franklin)

Built at a cost of over 5000 pounds by the Paragon Picture Co Pty Ltd as a "talkie theatre", the Paragon Theatre opened on October 28 1933. A packed house of 1150 were enthralled by Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong"

The theatre enjoyed capacity crowds until the emergence of VCR in the late 1970's.

Patronage declined and the theatre closed in 1985. Soon after, the building was shoddily repurposed as an indoor cricket stadium which closed after a few years and the building left derelict.

In 2003 Dr Alex Stevenson took on the mammoth task to reopen as a 60 seat luxury cinema. Alex, and later wife Alice, spent 4 years restoring including painting the floor to resemble marble.

In 2012 they returned to their home in Zimbabwe passing the mantle on to Francisco Navidad who operated a cinema buffs club but with the decline of mining "Cisco" took the tough decision to close the Paragon in 2014.

In July 2017 we began our quest to return this gem of Queenstown's history into a thriving entertainment venue for all to enjoy once again.

11.00am - Arrive The Wall, Derwent Bridge

The Wall In The Wilderness is situated at Derwent Bridge in Tasmania's Central Highlands. It is Australia's most ambitious art project undertaken in recent years. Greg Duncan has carved the history of the highlands in 100 metres lengths of rare Huon Pine panels.

The beautifully carved works set out in relief sculpture depict the history, hardships and perseverance of the people in the Central Highlands and pay homage to the individuals who settled and protected the area.

Duncan is already known for the uncanny realism he brings to his work and his pieces are sought after by collectors around the world. Each metre of the panels, including horses, thylacines and foresters represents a month's work.

There is nothing like this anywhere else in Australia. The Wall is a world-class experience

Old Hobart Town is situated in Richmond and is Australia's only and Tasmania's original historical model village which accurately replicates in miniature the life and history of Hobart in 1820. . Situated in the main street of Richmond (Tasmania's finest Georgian village), this attraction has been built from original plans (over three years) and set out in the streets. As visitors walk the streets of old Hobart, the informative signage tells a story of how and why Hobart was so important to the Australian colonies, it really captures interest and makes for a unique and fascinating tour.

11.00am - Depart Richmond

12.30pm - Arrive Ross (lunch at own leisure)

01.15pm - Meet at Tasmania Wool Centre for Tour

Through its heritage exhibition area, The Tasmanian Wool Centre is committed to the historical preservation of the village and immediate regions, by collecting stories, images and artifacts. The Centre also has a commitment to providing a repository for the information and artifacts relating to the establishment and on-going development of the wool industry for the region.

In its formative years, Ross benefited from the prosperity of its surrounding land owners who directly employed villagers or supported the businesses that developed. As a result, Ross evolved into the beautiful Georgian village it is today.

This story is told in the Wool and Heritage galleries with many artifacts, pictures and documents on display. The smell of sheep's wool pervades the air as you enter the Wool exhibition. A re-created shearing shed complete with thrown fleece on its sorting table and manual wool press provide a glimpse of past times. Included as permanent exhibits on loan from the Queen Victoria Museum and Art Gallery in Launceston are "The Canticle, 1966" a large woollen tapestry by John Coburn, "Primary Bind" 1985, a sculpture by Les Kossatz and Stephen Walker's Ermenigildo Zegna Perpetual Trophy 1963.

12.45pm - Arrive Legerwood Carved Memorial Trees (lunch provided)

Legerwood Carved Memorial Trees are trees sculpted into World War One soldiers in Dorset, Tasmania. The 25 statues depict the fallen men they were planted for in 1918. During a ceremony at the railway reserve at Ringarooma Road (renamed Legerwood in December, 1918) trees were planted in honour of fallen soldiers. As the names were called out, a relative of the soldier came forward to hold the tree before planting. In 2001, a report indicated that the trees were no longer safe and the community were devastated that the memorials would be lost. By 2004, it was decided that each of the stumps would be carved into the likeness of each soldier. A chainsaw carver, Eddie Freeman of Ross, was asked by the Legerwood Hall and Reserves Committee to sculpt the masterpieces. Various scenes depicting world War One were also carved. Walk along the avenue of trees and take in the World War One history displayed. Notice the Weymouth Pine at each end of the avenue representing Gallipoli and the Anzac soldiers who fought during this time.
