Offering Prayer

God, my Father, may I love You in all things and above all things.

May I reach the joy which You have prepared for me in Heaven.

Nothing is good that is against Your Will, and all that is good comes from Your Hand.

Place in my heart a desire to please You and fill my mind with thoughts of Your Love, so that I may grow in Your Wisdom and enjoy Your Peace. Amen

Gospel Reflection

In today's Gospel, a scholar asks Jesus which commandment is greatest. Jesus answers that the first is to love God completely, and the second is to love your neighbor as yourself. These two are inseparable — to love God is to love others, and to love others is to love God. This is the "central idea of the law" on which all other instructions depend.

Exodus reading deepens this truth. God's own law for Israel is rooted in compassion for the vulnerable — the stranger, the widow, the orphan — because God Himself showed them compassion when they were oppressed in Egypt. The text reminds us: "If you ever wrong them... I will surely hear their cry... for I am compassionate." God holds us accountable for how we treat those who are most vulnerable, because we too have been strangers, the weak, and the ones who have cried out.

Paul's reading reinforces that love is not just words but lived faith. The Thessalonians' faith was visible in their turn from idols to serve the living God, and in their perseverance in hardship. This is the kind of love Jesus calls us to — a love that is active, compassionate, and faithful.
