More than 60 years of faith "To restore all things in Christ"

July 20, 2025

Dear Friends,

If there is one thing that is certain, life is complicated and hectic. So many of us live at a harried pace, going from one thing to the next. We no more finish one task, then we have to move on to the next task. Frequently, we are juggling multiple things at the same time. Financial concerns plague us, children's activities consume us, household duties occupy us, and even recreational activities create stress in our lives. Typically, we live lives of much activity and many things cause us undue anxiety. If this is the case, today's gospel is just the ticket for our contemporary frustration.

As a priest and a pastor, I know full well how crazy daily life can be. Balancing spiritual exercises while managing the temporal aspects of the parish can sometimes be overwhelming. I also know that mine isn't the only life that faces these things. Virtually everyone grapples with this balancing act. We all face exhaustion and frustration at all the things we need to take care of everyday. We do it because we care. I don't think many of us chose the daily grind because we love the daily grind. Although, I do believe some people thrive off the challenges that each day brings. For most of us, though, we would love to have stress-free lives.

I do believe that the gospel gives us the key to a more peaceful existence. It presents us with two seemingly disparate figures: Mary and Martha. Martha is the one who is busy with all the duties of hospitality. She is trying to get a dinner prepared, and making sure everything is set up just right for Jesus, her cherished guest. Who can fault her for wanting everything to be just right for him and his guests? She becomes upset with Mary, who is sitting at the Lord's feet listening to Jesus teach. Martha complains to Jesus asking for him to tell Mary to help her. Mary, seems unconcerned about all the busy work. All she wants is to be close to the Lord. In this sense, she is defying the conventions of her day. Typically, it would be her role to help with the preparations that Martha was engaged in. Mary, however, wants to not miss what the Lord has to say. It's not that she is averse to helping, she just loves the Lord.

When reading this gospel, we often interpret Martha's activity in a negative light. Even the Lord seems to favor Mary's attitude of attentiveness by telling Martha that Mary has chosen the "better part". The fact is, we shouldn't judge Martha's desire to be hospitable to the Lord. After all, she just wants to make the Lord comfortable. She cares too. Her only problem is that she is overly anxious and worried about everything to the point that she has lost her peace of mind. Could she have lost her focus by not taking time to reflect?

To be honest, Martha and Mary represent both the active life and the contemplative life of the Church. As Christians, we need both. This is part of the balance of daily living. Ideally, we take time to reflect on God's will for us and what he wants us to do in our lives, and then we go out and do it. Contemplation is necessary before action. We are not so good about listening. We make decisions based on feelings or impulses. We don't always take time to School Website www.stpiusxschoolcc.org listen to the Lord's voice to consider whether or not something is the right choice. We also allow the noise of the world to drown out the voice of the Lord speaking to us. We spend hours on the phone scrolling or we watch lots of TV, and we therefore do not take time to discern what God is saying to us.

Listening should come before action. That is why the Church sometimes seems slow to do things. She is always contemplating and listening before acting. I'm sure we could all benefit from putting this principle into practice in our lives. We might save ourselves from heartache and crises if we would take time to listen to the Lord through prayer, reading scripture, and studying prior to acting.

By the same token, we can't just be always listening without ever acting. At some point, we need to trust and act. That's why this story of Martha and Mary is good for us. It reminds us that we need to incorporate both aspects of activity and contemplation in our lives. It's a good thing that God gives us people with both active and contemplative personalities. They complement each other and lead us to be a healthier Church! The main thing is to keep our minds and our hearts fixed on Jesus. When we do that, everything falls into place. God bless!

DIOCESAN PRAYER FOR VOCATIONS

Loving Father, you call men and women to consecrate themselves to you in service to your Church and to humanity.

Stir up the grace of "listening to your Holy Spirit" so that many may hear and respond in vocations to sacramental marriage, priesthood, diaconate, religious and consecrated life for the Diocese of Corpus Christi.

May they witness to the power of your love through lives of generous service.

If you desire to call someone among us, a family member, friend, or member of our parish, give us the wisdom and courage to support them.

May we encourage them to listen to your voice and respond without delay. We ask this in truth and sincerity through Mary, Mother of the Church and Queen of Heaven. Amen.

Have a blessed week!
