Weekly Principal Updates & News

Here we go!!! Students return on Wednesday! Are you excited? Are you ready? I hope the answer to both of those questions is a resounding "YES!!!!" One thing I know for sure is that, We've got this! We are going to have a GREAT year!

I know that last week was a lot, but I hope more than anything, it was good to you. So please take a few minutes and provide some feedback on this survey. This week we will begin at 7:30 am. I figured we need a couple of days to practice our yearly norm. We will meet in the gym for a quick pow-wow and then move to our appropriate rooms. Our schedule for Monday and Tuesday is here.

As of right now, we still have several vacancies to include a 7th grade school counselor, 7th grade AP, 1 SS, 1 Science (waiting for B2 to be official) , 3 Reading, 2 ELA, 1 Math, Art, 2 ECE, 1 other RA, and 2 Inst. Asst. We are continuously advertising our positions and trying to hire qualified applicants. Contact your friends if you think they may be interested in joining us! So as of today, here is the teacher assignment list. As we get teachers and replacements, this will change. So understand that it is a working document.

I also have one small ask of you this week. Each of you should have received a CMS postcard during AIS week. Please write your self a positive, encouraging note for this year. You will see this again when you need it the most. Please place them in my box once completed. Thanks.

Lastly, I ask that you continue to check your email often as we prepare for the 1st day with our students. I want to keep you in the loop with a lot of things as well as share other information with you. I'm big on communication, so I try to email as often as possible. So all I need you to do, is check your email constantly throughout the day.
