OUR BASES – TIMBER SUB FRAME WITH COMPOSITE POSTS

WHY A TIMBER SUB FRAME?

Sometimes our customers already have a concrete base when they purchase one of our cabins but sometimes our customers require a base. Instead of concrete we use a timber sub frame with composite posts. The composite posts cannot rot and are dug into the ground and cemented in place. On top of the composite posts our fitters will then build a timber sub frame. There are many advantages of building a cabin on top of a timber sub frame. A few of which are listed below.

VERSATILITY

Timber sub frames are versatile and can be used in almost any situation. This method allows us to build over existing concrete, tree stumps, old patios and gradients.

LEVEL

Our fitters can ensure that the base for your cabin is completely level prior to the build. Many concrete bases may look level but upon closer inspection very rarely are. It is vitally important to have a level base for your cabin because essentially your cabin is only as good as your base. To ensure an exceptional build a timber sub frame with composite posts is a firm favourite.

AIR FLOW

Having space under the cabin allows air flow underneath which means the base cannot rot due to timber being suspended by plastic posts which are non pourous.

FLOOR IS RAISED

Having the floor raised means nothing that can rot is touching the ground and therefore eliminates any chance of water ingress through the base, again protecting your cabin from the elements and increasing the longevity of your building.
