RODAVENTO
VALLE DE BRAVO

A large number of monarch butterflies are clustered on a tree branch. The butterflies are orange with black veins and white spots on their wings. The background is a soft, out-of-focus green, suggesting a forest or garden setting. The lighting is bright, highlighting the intricate patterns on the butterflies' wings.

Monarch butterfly

From november to march

Every year, from November to March Valle de Bravo is witness and host of an amazing phenomenon in nature. Millions of butterflies travel to the South, coming from the South of Canada and North of the United States into the Sierra Madre Oriental and towards the sanctuary.

When spring arrives, they migrate to America and their journey concludes in the East of Canada.
