

Welcome to this edition of the Lighthouse Newsletter!

Welcome to this edition of the Lighthouse Newsletter! This month, we're celebrating new beginnings, community connections, and exciting opportunities for our participants. From the first day of culinary training at Recipes for Success to a fun-filled bowling outing in the Treasure Coast, there's been no shortage of growth and camaraderie. We also welcomed students from Keiser University to explore cutting-edge assistive technology in our Meta AI class.

Happening at the Lighthouse:

Recipes for Success

It was back to "school" last week for our Lighthouse participants! Our clients embarked on their first day of culinary training at Recipes for Success, an eight-week program that teaches the skills needed to work in local restaurants and kitchens.

We're so excited to see them take this first step on their journey toward independence and new opportunities!

Lighthouse Bowling

Lighthouse hosted a fantastic bowling event for our Treasure Coast Activity

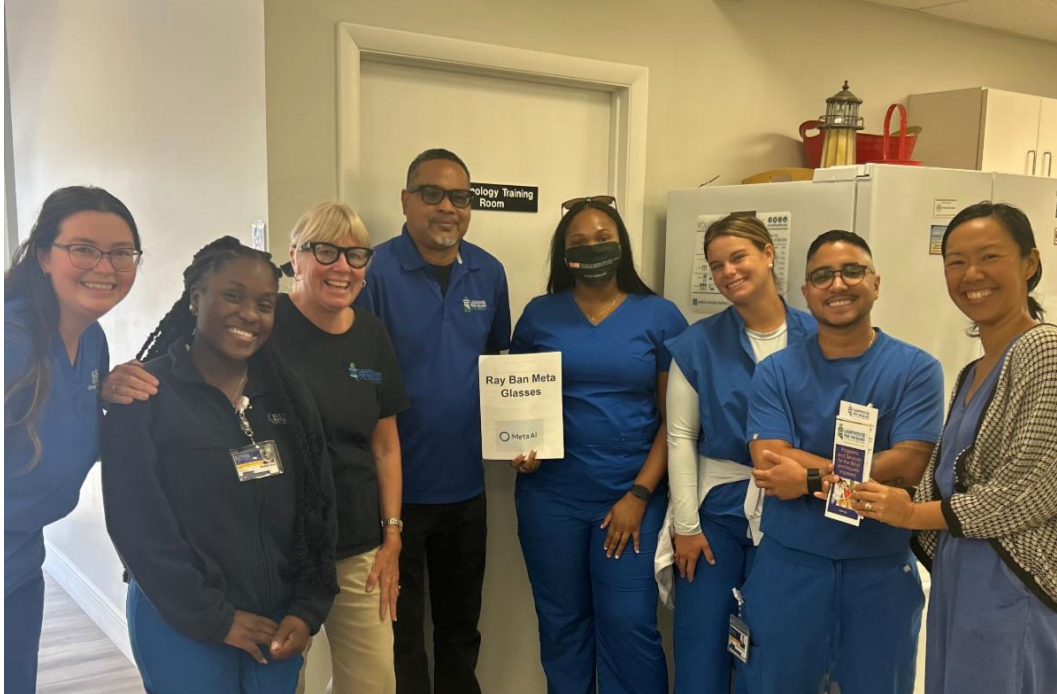

Club at Bowlero Port St. Lucie! A big thank you to the Bowlero team for their outstanding service. Our participants enjoyed an afternoon filled with great food, fun, and connection. Stay tuned—more exciting community outings are on the way in the Treasure Coast!

Exploring Technology with Keiser University

This July, the Keiser University Occupational Therapy Assistant program visited the Lighthouse as part of their semester curriculum. Instead of our usual independent daily living skills demonstration, the group observed our Meta AI class, where participants explored the capabilities of Ray-Ban Meta glasses for low vision and blind users.

Keiser students had the opportunity to interact and assist participants, learning firsthand how assistive technology is empowering individuals to lead more independent lives. Thank you to the Keiser University team for your enthusiasm and support!
