Walking in processions

Wear your membership badge in a prominent position; failure to wear your badge will result in being asked to leave the procession.

Walk in orderly ranks of three; one member on each side of the road and one in the middle. This is how the Society looks at its best, and it allows torch and other marshals to move about the procession with ease.

Junior members must always be under the supervision of a parent or responsible adult.

Juniors should always be positioned in the middle of a rank.

Maintain a distance of at least 3 metres from the rank in front of you.

Do not light the torch until instructed to do so; do not throw it away once lit until it is spent.

Always take care with your torch, especially around firework pieces, flaming banners and bands.

Although it is left to the supervising adult as to whether or not a child should carry a torch, if marshals feel that the child is not comfortable or is seen as a danger to other members, their torch will be removed.
