Russian fertilizer mogul Dmitri Rybolovlev bought Donald Trump's 33,000-square-foot home in Palm Beach for $95 million but now plans to tear it down due to mold damage.

Dmitri Rybolovlev bought the beachfront mansion 2008 but has decided to destroy the home, that sits on a 6.26-acre property, including a 475-foot-long beach

'He's pretty mysterious about his ultimate plans,' a real estate source told gossip blogger Jose Lambiet.

Sale: Donald Trump originally bought the home in 2004 for $41.4 million

The sprawling 7 bedroom home had a garage that could accommodate 80 cars.

The decor included marble floors, bullet-proof windows, mahogany doors, giant skylights and a full-sized ballroom.

Trump, 66, enlisted help from realtor Kendra Todd, who had won season three of his NBC show The Apprentice, to help marketing the gigantic property.
