Did you know that that our Leo Clubs started as a project of one Lions Club? From there it spread across the world – because Glenside Lions shared their experience.

Does your club have the next Big Idea? How will we know? Does your club have success with tried-and-true ideas? How will we know? Does your club have questions about projects and methods you haven't tried yet? Who do you ask? Of course, you have the answers – Share with other Lions! And we have a great tool to do that: MyLion.

Using this great program to communicate with other Lions is what all the cool Lions are doing. Why? Here are the Top Ten Reasons to Report Your Service on MyLion:

#10. All those District, Multiple District and International officials keep asking you to.

#9. Get recognition and reward:

When Lions report service, they become eligible for a number of service awards recognizing their hard work.

#8. Clear up space in the back bedroom: Having all this data handy on MyLion saves space on those shelves and closets where you've been "filing" all that stuff.

#7. Captivate and connect: From the impact of a single pair of glasses to a new medical clinic, reporting service shows how local clubs make a difference. Clear, relevant service data ensures people in need know how to get help.

#6. New partnerships: Better service data provides tangible evidence to prospective partners of Lions International and these partners strengthen our global impact.

#5. Inspire new ideas: Learn how Lions and Leos use funds from LCIF to serve their communities and be inspired to think creatively about how to grow grant-worthy projects.

#4. Connect to Lions worldwide: sharing ideas and responses with Lions in other clubs identifies best practices and avoids pitfalls.

#3. Build better service: Measurement leads to insight and sharpens our focus. Helping us to set and achieve goals unifies our clubs. It also unifies our districts by enabling your District Governor's leadership team to understand achievements and needs.

#2. Increase membership: Service reporting helps clubs continually engage their communities, tell their story more effectively, and attract new Lions who want to participate in real service.

And the No. 1 reason to report your service through MyLion (drum roooooo!lllll):

#1. All those Governors and GSTs and GLTs and GMTs will quit nagging and start bragging!

You, too, can become a proficient MyLion user. First go to www.lionsclubs.org and register your Lions account. (You'll need your member number.) Then go to MyLion. We'll be looking for your news!

West Side Lions appreciate the clubs who are donating used eyeglasses. Please be aware that we now can use ONLY complete glasses in good condition. No loose lenses or incomplete glasses can be used. However, glass lenses may be used. Glasses cases in good condition are accepted. It will help West Side Lions if you will sort your donations, removing these unneeded pieces, before bringing them to the state office.

vice projects are tightly linked. If your club has good service projects that the community deems useful and needed, you will attract quality members because they will want to share in the interesting activities and join the fun. Look at your projects and your community, find the areas that need the most attention and are supported by your community. If your club is invisible in the community, membership will be a problem. You can make a strong case for membership following behind a strong active set of service projects. The clubs in my district that have been the most active in their communities are doing well in membership, meeting attendance, and community interest. The district has 41 clubs and 944 Lions at this time.

Club News!

Greetings to all from MD3-E!

Here we are at the end of the first quarter and thanks to the activities of our clubs we are still in the game. I held my first cabinet meeting in Henryetta with low attendance. I plan to hold my next cabinet meeting exclusively on Zoom. The District Convention will be held on February 19 McAlester club will be the host club. ID Mike Banks will be our featured speaker and it should be an interesting meeting. More details to follow as they develop. At this time I do not have any VG's in the wings so we may have to be a bit creative within constitutional guidelines.

In my club visits I am emphasizing the fact that we are in an era for rapid change. There are a couple of ways to get your Lion officer training online and other Lion courses are available to widen your horizons. I will be downloading a MYLion PowerPoint I saw in Des Moines that should be helpful.

As a group we must remain aware that we are all a team from the clubs to Lions International in Oak Brook. This means it is very important to Lions International for the clubs to support their state projects and LCIF. Dollie and I attended the USA/CANADA forum in Des Moines for three days ending on September 11, 2021. It was a very informative meeting but due to COVID fears our Canadian friends could not attend. About 1500 Lions attended the meeting. The seminars I attended were very good. One comment made was that membership and ser-

The Bartlesville Lions have been busy planning their 100 year anniversary party on October, 14, 2021. Also had a successful fund raiser/ service project hosting the Bellanca Fly-In on September 18, 2021. The Lions Park on Tuxedo looks great and the members are getting ready for the Christmas Tree sales project.

The Tulsa-Metro club has been active and assisting other Tulsa clubs as needed. They invited the Bartlesville club to host the fly-in since it is in Bartlesville.

The Dewey Lions are active with their park project. They are planning to create a 501-c3 for their club to make fund raising easier. It is almost impossible to get corporate sponsorship without a c3. I will visit the Dewey club on Sept 23 at their annual cookout at one of their senior members home. He was a transfer from the Wann Lions when they closed down. They have a chili fundraiser scheduled for October 23.

The Broken Bow Lions have just wrapped up a golf tournament fundraiser. This club is active in the schools and have awarded 3 scholarships and have a student of the month program. Hope to get down there soon.

The Bristow Lions have taken their usual summer vacation. They are very active in the KidSight program and in the community. Tom Cummings and PDG Dollie were on the program when we visited in May. They also have a very good Leo program that has turned out the last 2 Leo's of the year.

The Miami Lions are in planning mode and have added one new member.

The Wagoner Lions are staying busy. They have a golf tournament planned for October 1. The club has donated to the MOH building campaign, and the Wagoner Grad Night. Also selling Cowboy Cadillac tickets.

The Tulsa Downtown Lions just awarded 3 trikes for the Cycles for Life on Sept 6., 2021 This provides trikes for disabled people to assist them with mobility issues. They are planning to assist the Octoberfest in Tulsa. They are very busy with KidSight and their eyeglass program.

The Henryetta Lions have been so busy I have had a hard time staying current. They had a big Cornhole tournament recently. They are planning to participate in the Henryetta Main St. Trick or Treat program.

The Henryetta Lions club also planned to assist the Okmulgee Lions with KidSight screening at Wilson School. They sent me a recipe for edible fruit-drink play dough. Probably will pass as most ingredients are not on our diet any longer.

The Okmulgee Lions are working on KidSight project at Wilson School. This club is a leader in the KidSight program in this district. I plan a visit to their club on Sept 21, 2021.

The Vinita Lions have adopted the Leo Club and their Lion sponsor who were formerly attached to the South Langley club.

There is a work day on October 9, 2021 at the state office for some freshening up of the landscape and office. Lions from all 3 districts will be there. Project is headed by PCC Neal Wood.

Have a great month as we make to run up to the holiday season.

Yours in Lionism

Howdy NW LIONS!

My how these months fly by! The NW District continues to hold its own with 45 Clubs and no dropping of club memberships. A majority of our clubs are not meeting till October, but they are still up to date and current with their LCI, State, and local dues. That my friends and neighbors is a good deal. Your District Governors are meeting once a week on Tuesdays via conference call to stay on top of everything. I continue to have trouble receiving photos of various club activities, but I do realize that there will be no photos are news items from clubs who are on "summer break"

One of our PCC's Debbie Woodruff has a fairly good file of current club Photos, so for the time being, I will default to her photos. Our larger clubs have been meeting throughout the year including Stillwater, Guthrie, Morrison, Fairview, Ponca City, Guymon, and Woodward, just to name a few.

Some of our members are looking for a "service project". I have a suggestion. You might take a tour of your local nursing facility to see who is there and consider this while you are there. Depending on the individual resident, you might be able to record their "life story" and give the same to them to give to family members who may not be familiar with your subject and to "little people" who may someday want to know more about this particular family member. And you never know who you might find in these nursing facilities. I overlooked a gentleman in Perkins when I was doing in this project in Payne County some years ago. He was right before my eyes at the front door where I used to visit my Mom before she died several years ago. I wrote a short story about the experience.

I recall my second grade teacher telling me if I "didn't straighten up and fly right," she would call my Mom...at home! That was 1953. My Mom once lived in an assisted living center near my home in Stillwater, Oklahoma. She was occasionally admonished by the staff to "chill" or they will call her son...at home! Role reversal of parent and child has its little moments, and I came to know the entire facility staff on a first name basis.

Despite firmly attached labels and colored signage attached to helium balloons, my Mom aimed the portable phone at the TV and talked to the channel changer. Interestingly enough, I believe she had better luck than I do with my over priced multimedia device which to my surprise will occasionally and without warning open my garage door.

The stiff-upper-lip mantra of "post-Boomer" sons and daughters passing each other in the hallways of assisted living centers that house our aging parents is: "It could always be worse!" The mother of one such newly commissioned "role reversal" would toss channel changers in the trash along with used tissue when she had finished adjusting her television. For a solution, my friend bolted her channel changer to a table. When that became unworkable, he adjusted the TV to her favorite channel, super glued the TV controls, and explained how to plug and unplug her TV to an electric outlet. Problem solved!

Now to the point of my story. Yogi Berra supposedly said, "It's amazing all the things you can see when you take the time to look". Many untold stories lie silently and desperately in the hallways of assisted living centers of our communities. These untold stories are fascinating. I moderated a "Talk Soup" session for a group of men every Wednesday morning in a local assisted living facility. The men's ages ranged from 80 to 100. We discussed current events, but more importantly we share old short humorous stories. I wanted to videotape those stories for family members.

My Mom once lived in another assisted living facility before we moved her closer to our home. When I visited her, I was always welcomed by a huge man who was also a resident. He spent most of his days in the common living areas greeting people when they entered the facility. I did not know much about him because sadly I wasn't looking. I later researched his life for his memorial service.

He was 89 years old when he died. He was born in West Texas as the 9th child of 11 brothers and sisters. He learned how to break horses and play a guitar equally well. He played football for Baylor University, but withdrew from college to volunteer for WWII. He became a well known singer and story teller in the Pacific Theater, and he was featured in a 1940's lead article in Colliers Magazine which called him "The Texas Troubadour of The Pacific". He won the Bronze Star. After the war, he played his guitar and sang with Hank Thompson throughout the United States. He returned to Baylor, obtained his teaching degree, and taught special needs children for 33 years. He also found time to work as a horse wrangler for 32 seasons at special needs children's camps in Arizona. He later served on Baylor's Board of Trustees.

In the final seasons of his life, he moved to Stillwater. A granddaughter, whom he had raised as a child, quietly cared for him. Our assisted living and nursing facilities in the United States and similar facilities in the world house are now homes for many forgotten men and women. We should listen to their stories.

The big man who greeted me in mom's former assisted living center was known simply as "Red". But he was so much more. I wish I would have seen more when I looked. He was the "Texas Troubadour of the Pacific". He was so special to those he encouraged and inspired during his lifetime. But in the final stages of his life, sadly unremembered, he lived quietly and anonymously in a nursing facility. Four rows of family members sitting in an otherwise empty funeral chapel tearfully clapped in cadence to an old 1945 recording of his favorite Hank Williams song "Jambalaya".

To every unsuspecting person he greeted, he was the big man in the lobby who was known simply as "Red". But the real Albert L. "Red" Cheek" was the spirited and generous "Texas Troubadour of the Pacific". I was honored by his acquaintance. Hopefully you may be encouraged by my suggestion to inquire about "lost souls" in your local nursing facilities who may have stories to tell! Especially from those Lions you know!

See you Next Time!

Because we are Lions...!

Message from our International Director

Many Oklahoma Lions enjoyed the USA/Canada Lions Leadership Forum held in Des Moines, Iowa, September 9-11. President Douglas Alexander presented many Lions University diplomas including Lions: Valerie Adair, Phil Hendrick, Cathie Huddleston, Anne Matoy, Katrina Sinor, Anita Whaley, PCC Neal Wood, and DG David Wooddell.

The forum is an annual event put on by volunteer Lions from North America and featured 82 outstanding educational seminars plus outstanding keynote speakers. The Forum was refreshing break from Covid and other problems we experience that hinder our «Service From the Heart». A highlight this year was Jessica Cox, who reminded many of us of Helen Keller and her challenges. Helen Keller said "The struggle of life is one of our greatest blessings. It makes us patient, sensitive, and Godlike. It teaches us that although the world is full of suffering, it is also full of the overcoming of it."

We sat spellbound by Jessica's story. Jessica was born without arms and yet she excels in her accomplishments. She passed the drivers test without any restrictions and drives an automobile without modifications. And if that isn't impressive enough, she is the first armless pilot in aviation history.

Her lesson is summed up in the story she told about starting school. The teacher was teaching the students how to tie their shoes. She had already become adept at using her toes for many normal daily activities, but how could she tie the shoes on her feet when she needed her toes to do the tying. Now that was challenging. But, not to be discouraged, she came up with a plan. She used her toes to tie her shoes and then slipped her feet in them. She summed it up in a simple phrase, she had to "Think outside the Shoe." Wow! That is something we all can remember.

So when you encounter an obstacle that appears impossible, remember Jessica and "Think outside the Shoe." If Jessica can succeed at tying her shoes, we certainly can overcome obstacles.

Hello Lions!

I have just returned from the eye doctor and am reminded about the importance of having a yearly eye exam. Have a picture of your retinas taken. The exam costs a little money and takes some time, but you and your eyes are worth the effort. Make sure that your vision is the best that it can be. Call your eye doctor and schedule an eye exam.

Valerie and I had the pleasure of attending the USA/Canada Lions Leadership Forum in Des Moines, Iowa. We attended courses entitled "Preparing the Soil for First Timers" and "Rounding Up the Farmers for More Successful Zone Meetings". Iowa is farm country, so many of the courses this year were titled with agrarian themes. There were 15 forum attendees from Oklahoma. Six attendees received degrees from the USA Canada Forum.

The theme this year is Service from The Heart. Think about projects that would best serve your community and also what would bring you joy. The five core areas of service in Lions are Vision, Diabetes, Hunger, Environment and Pediatric Cancer. We heard at the forum, that projects don't necessarily have to fit within the five core areas if they are needed in your community and the projects bring you joy.

In closing, here is another quote from our International President, Douglas X Alexander, "If we let our passion for service shine through, there is nothing we cannot accomplish."
