Friends,

Diaconal Dan's Deliberation

I am starting to notice, very slightly, that the days are getting longer. The sun is rising just a little earlier and setting just a little later. We are nearly a month beyond the darkness of December and are slowly moving into lighter days. The same can be said for the church and the rhythm of the church calendar. Although December brings us the birth of Jesus, a bright light and a time of great joy, it is preceded by the stillness, waiting, and darkness of Advent. When Jesus enters the world, the light begins to change. His light starts to shine and grow.

This feels very much like where we find ourselves as we enter a new year. Newness comes upon us. New light reaches us. New ideas and learnings begin to take shape. Transformation happens, or continues to happen.

In the scripture readings this week, we see signs of transformation as well. In the Gospel of John, Jesus calls the first disciples, and Simon is given a new name: Peter. A moment of calling, identity, and becoming.

As we enter this third week of the new year, when many New Year's resolutions begin to fall away, remember that change still happens. Newness for yourself, for your community, and for the church is still possible. Our friend Jesus, through the Spirit, journeys with us as a guiding light along our path.

Peace be with you,
Rev. Dan
