Flower – Calendula

The flower for October is the calendula, which is native to southern Europe and also known as the pot marigold. The calendula (pronounced kə-'len-jə-lə) is cousin to the daisy and the common marigold. But unlike the pungent marigold used to repel garden pests, the pot marigold's tangy, peppery flavor has become known as the "poor man's saffron." Its petals can be used as an edible colorant in pots of soup, pasta, rice, scrambled eggs, and salads.

"I wish that every day was Saturday and every month was October." ~ Charmaine J. Forde
