VOLLEYBALL COACH

Coach of the Year

"Faith plays a bigger role in my coaching than most people realize. I didn't grow up with a Christian foundation, so my faith has grown throughout my life and my time as a coach.

The Lord has blessed me with Godly women who have poured into me by example. They believe in me and my abilities, and speak life into me through the Gospel.

When God set my path on coaching, I soon realized, coaching is about so much more than the game of volleyball. It is about being the person for the girls that I needed when I was growing up. I strive daily to make sure the girls know they are loved and that they all have a purpose in the Lord. Because of a shared experience, I relate well to players who do have the support a home for to walk a Christian life.

I am teaching volleyball but my prayer is that I help shape their hearts, their faith and the women they will become long after the last whistle blows.

VOLLEYBALL COACH

Coach of the Year

"FCA has not only impacted my coaching but my entire life. I first became involved with FCA in my Junior year of High School at Ripley. The FCA influence carried over into my college days. Through their support, I truly developed a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. I found a place where my love for volleyball and Christ could grow together.

Now in my 6th year of coaching, back at my Alma Mater, I am incredibly grateful that FCA is still a part of my journey. I have learned firsthand the power of FCA planting seeds throughout the year. My prayer is for my players to develop a relationship with Christ that will stay with them when their volleyball career is over. FCA has shown me that coaching is a ministry and that the greatest legacy is not in wins but in helping young people know they are loved by Jesus.
