Facilitator: Jennifer Sanfilippo, MBA (she/her)

Jennifer Sanfilippo is a mental health counselor-in-training and experienced group facilitator with a background in executive coaching, consulting, and public service. She is trained in group facilitation through the Center for Group Studies in New York City and brings a relational, process-oriented approach to group work. Jennifer is the author of Our Last Walk Home: Love, Cancer, and the Agony of Letting Go, which grew out of her experience as a caregiver and her work in grief support. She has facilitated support groups in the Rochester area that invite honest, compassionate conversation around caregiving, and life transitions. In group settings, she prioritizes psychological safety, shared meaning-making, and the power of connection among participants. Jennifer is committed to creating spaces where caregivers feel seen, supported, and less alone.
