My Dear Parishioners,

On the last weekend of October in our Liturgy of the Word we find two people-the Pharisees and the tax collector, both stand before God, each expressing his own truth. On one level the pharisee is correct in his self-analysis by all standards he is a good and faithful Jew.

His relationship with God seems based on rewards and punishments. His prayer sounds more like a monologue than a heartfelt plea. He approaches the Lord like a businessperson, asserting rights and expectations. The center of his life is his ego and not his God. He has failed to understand the most basic rule of Judaism, "you should love the Lord your God, with your whole heart, and with your whole being, and with your whole strength."

The tax collector on the other hand, is a sinner in the eyes of others and in his own estimation. Many people see him as a thief. His acknowledgement of his sinfulness stands in marked contrast with the self-centered superiority of the pharisee.

The tax collector recognizes the basic truth that we cannot earn our way to heaven. He depends totally on God's free gift of grace. God owes us nothing, yet He gives us everything. If only self-help programs could help us embrace that truth-no matter how successful we are in this life, when it comes to eternal life, we depend totally on God.

Paul the apostle knew this early on, but came to a deeper understanding as he grew older. As we heard in today's reading, he knew everything including his achievements, came from God. He writes, "the Lord stood by me and gave me strength."

Brothers and Sisters,

To think that we can save ourselves or enter into eternal life through our own endeavors is to delude ourselves. Instead, we must face the truth of our human weakness and in that honest moment make room for God in our lives. This is the real truth that will set us free.

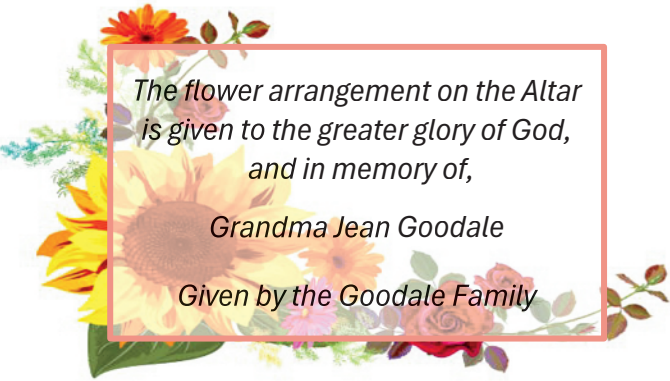

Please continue to pray for peace in the world, stop the violence and wars. On this special weekend please pray for our Shepherd, Bishop John Noonan and for our students at St. Ann's who will receive the gifts of the Holy Spirit through the Sacrament of Confirmation.

With my love and prayers.

Sincerely in Christ,
