MODULUS

Acoustic wall piece

A curated series of acoustic textile wall panels that merge high-performance sound absorption with a refined visual expression.

Color Composition

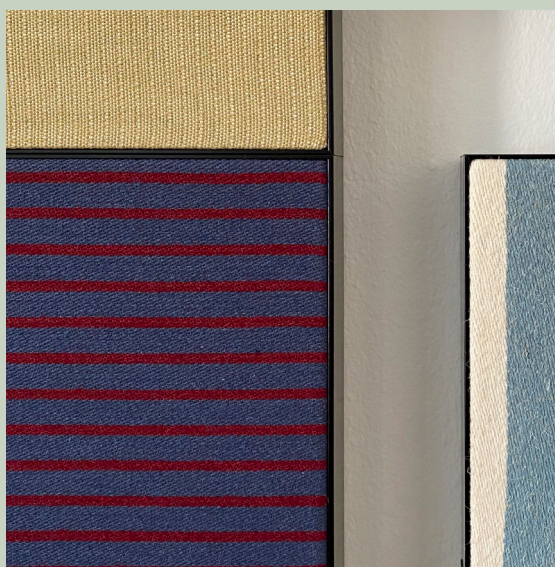

Each piece is composed with a focus on color harmony, texture, and spatial integration—designed to complement and elevate architectural interiors.

Spatial Acoustic Installation

More than just sound solutions, these panels function as spatial installations—enhancing acoustics while creating a tactile and atmospheric presence in both private and public environments.

Materials and Textiles

Crafted using woven wool textiles from Kjellerup Væveri, renowned for their rich texture and enduring quality. The textiles are designed by Danish textile artists Lykke Kjær and Hanne Vedel, bringing together traditional craftsmanship and contemporary aesthetics in a timeless acoustic solution.

Architectural flexibility

Panel curtains from Dansk Lydisolering are a flexible and aesthetic solution for light filtering and room division. They are mounted in ceiling rails and can be freely moved, enabling varying shading of glass sections, windows or meeting rooms. The textiles from Kjellerup Væveri are available in different densities, and the rail color and material selection is adapted to the individual project.

Light-filtering elegance

Panel curtains offer a refined and flexible solution for spatial division, light control, and visual screening—ideal in architectural environments where openness and discretion must coexist. The panels move freely past one another in parallel ceiling-mounted tracks from Stilling. This layered flexibility allows for subtle zoning, shifting the spatial atmosphere while screening selected windows, doors, or glass partitions—without permanently closing off the space. Panel curtains also function as movable room dividers, and when not in use, they can be discreetly parked against a wall, requiring minimal depth.

Materials & Details

Each panel is finished with a discreet top rail and bottom weight in aluminium or wood, and mounted in Stilling curtain tracks, available in various colours and customizable to suit project needs. The textiles are woven by Kjellerup Væveri and curated in a colour palette suited to both private and commercial interiors. Available in varying densities—from highly translucent to near-opaque—the fabrics provide privacy while still allowing natural daylight to filter softly through the space.
