About Me

I'm Kate, a self-taught, acrylic painter from the west-coast. It was not until 2019 after having several serious health issues diagnosed that I leaned into my art full time. My journey has been filled with challenges, but it has also been marked by resilience, creativity, and a fierce determination to make the most out of life.

Painting on canvas is my creative outlet, a way for me to express my emotions and capture the beauty that surrounds us. Through vibrant colors, intricate brushstrokes, and thoughtful compositions, I seek to evoke a sense of joy, inspiration, and hope in those who view my artwork. Each canvas holds a piece of my heart and tells a unique story, inviting viewers to join me on a visual journey of emotions and experiences.
