Dear young people: Do not be afraid of Christ. He takes nothing away, and he gives you everything. When we give ourselves to him, we receive a hundredfold in return. Experience this by volunteering your time, energy, and gifts.

My Dear Parishioners,

In today's gospel—the Prayer of the Hour of Jesus,—Jesus makes it clear that His Church will be a pilgrim church, one that evangelizes and spreads the word of the Holy Spirit. He says, just before He goes to the garden of Gethsemane, that "As you have sent me into the world so I have sent them into the world." That moment, though, comes at the Ascension, punctuated by the two angels who appear immediately afterward [Acts 1:1-11], who question why they are still "standing there looking at the sky." It was time to go into the world and make disciples of all nations.

This applies to us as well, the descendants of the Apostles and the baptized members of the Church founded for the purpose of evangelization. In Acts, the evangelical fervor of the converted was hardly limited to the Apostles, but also to those converted as well. Stephen, who was among the first ordained deacons of the Church, became also the first martyr of the Church for his insistent profession of the faith. We are no less called to this Great Commission than the apostles who received it.

If that sounds like a tough act to follow, well...it is. None of us feel worthy to carry this mission on our own merits. That is why we return to John 17, where Jesus prayed not just for the disciples present at the Last Supper, but also for us—you, me, and the people on each side of you in the pews today.

Throughout the Prayer of the Hour of Jesus, He repeatedly asks that He can glorify the Father through the perfect accomplishment of the work He had been given. Jesus prays that we may glorify the Trinity and so be added to the Trinitarian life. This prayer, this sacrifice ties us to the Great Commission through the explicit inclusion given by Jesus Christ himself. Keep smiling.
