Tri-Parish News and Notes

Letting God in: As we begin the new academic year for faith formation, we are reminded of our baptismal promises, that parents are to be the first teachers of the faith by word and example, in the home church. It doesn't matter if you don't have all the answers about your faith. God still wants to dwell with you, every day, in every way.

The community of faith is called to help children with the ongoing formation by involving in various faith activities, like praying together, regular participation of the sacraments, turning to God in need and remind others to do the same. We let God in when we read the scriptures and study the Church's teachings, discuss the sort of media, music, art, literature that embraces Christian ideals and helps us conform our lives to Christ's.

We let God in when we put into action the Church's preference for those in need through charity, service, and advocacy. Above all by example and teaching children will grow to love God as you do and keep God's word. As Jesus said: "Whoever loves me will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our dwelling with him" (John 14:23).

My Dear Parishioners,

Reflecting on God's Word from this Sunday's Gospel . . . What is a just wage? We might say it is pay proportionate to the amount of work performed, but in today's parable we learn that God's view of a just wage is high above our view. It is the wage a person needs to live on for one day: the "daily wage."

In God's view of justice, a person's worth (or pay) is not determined by industriousness, righteousness, status, or wealth; not by anything a person has or does. Human worth is based only on our personhood. It is not "just" in God's eyes for anyone to receive less than the wages needed to live each day in dignity.

Is the Gospel's landowner generous? Yes, certainly. In God's eyes, only such indiscriminate generosity would be truly just. God's view of justice requires God—and us—to be generous. Whether we are speaking of spiritual or material "pay," here or hereafter, God wants to pay us not according to what we deserve, but according to what we need. All are equally worthy of a just wage in the eyes of our generous God.

Living God's Word requires everyone who participates in God's reign to understand that each of us has God's own generous justice to thank. And that humble knowledge of God's generosity to us should compel us to show the same generosity to the poor and marginalized in our Church and our society.

Keep Smiling!
