Pope's Prayer Intention for February

Let us pray that children suffering from incurable diseases and their families receive the necessary medical care and support, never losing strength and hope.

“The Ways of Blessedness”

We live in a world wherein most people are focused upon themselves. Our Western culture and society esteems glamour, good looks, wealth, position, and power above anything else. Moreover, those who have achieved these things are applauded, and often envied. However, if we could look deeply into the lives and souls of these people, we would see great emptiness. They have deeply troubled spirits which they cannot admit to themselves.

Sadly, they have no authentic relationship with God. Externally, they might say that they believe in God. They might even go to church on occasion. But this is all a facade. And it covers the other facade of their material superficiality.

All the scriptures for today present us with an alternate way of living the life we have here. 640 years before Christ, the Chosen People were no different than most people today. Zephaniah prophesied that Jerusalem was soon to be destroyed - And the people would be dispersed to the four winds.

However, God is always faithful. There were a few who would be spared. They were the remnants. They were those who always placed the Lord God first in their hearts and lives. They were humble - They observed the Law - They sought justice - They were always honest and truthful in everything. It was from people like this that Jesus, himself, came into our world.

In the Gospel of Matthew, Jesus begins his teaching ministry on a mountainside. Jesus is presented as the new Moses - He was the new teacher and Law - Giver for the whole world. Jesus said that the poor in spirit - those who knew the depth of their poverty before God - those who knew they were sinful - and in desperate need of God - those who knew every material thing was a gift belonging to God - All those Godly poor would enter the Kingdom of Heaven.

Those who mourned - Who were saddened by the hardships of life - Who truly lamented the plight of others - the culture - the world - would be comforted. The meek - those who kept their personal power under control - who had the quiet strength of patience and gentleness with every person and in every situation - These would inherit the land.

Those who were hungry and thirsty for righteousness - Those who sought true goodness and justice - Those whose souls and spirits sought fairness in all things and for all people - would be satisfied. Those who were merciful - who spared others who forgave others - who believed in second chances - who always tried to reconcile - These will be shown mercy themselves. The clean of heart - Those who purged lust, power, control, avarice, greed, and possessiveness from their hearts, souls, and lives - These will see God.

Those who seek peace - peace of heart and soul - peace between people, groups, parties, and nations - Those who always try to reconcile and bring people together - will be called the children of God. Those who are persecuted - who are shunned - who are left out - who are passed over - who are avoided or excluded - because they always stand for the beauty, truth, and goodness of God. These will be welcomed into the Kingdom of God.

And those who are insulted, persecuted, and slandered against - because of their stance for Jesus and his Gospel - will have a great reward in the Heaven of God.

Finally, St. Paul reminds us that God's ways are never the way of the Earthbound. God does not choose the humanly wise, powerful, the well-born to do His work of building the Kingdom.

Instead, He chooses the foolish, the weak, the lowly, and the insignificant. He does this to shame the worldly wise, the powerful, and the strong. He does this to remind us: of who we are - of who He is - that He is everything for us - that we are nothing without Him!

Brothers and Sisters, it was Jesus who brought us these truths - It was Jesus who died for our sins - It was Jesus who brought us salvation - And it was Jesus who rose, so that we can rise someday, ourselves and inherit all that he has won for us!

Let us pray that we always walk with him in all of God's ways! Amen.

February 1, 2026 Msgr. Russell G. Terra.

“The arc of the Beatitudes is even more astonishing. In the face of our humility, God does not remain aloof; instead, the God who is infinitely distant draws close to those who are humble, actively choosing the weak and lowly...They will not be abandoned, they will be comforted, satisfied, named God's very own”.

Nancy Dallavalle in GTD.
