Dear Parishioners,

This conversation between Peter and Jesus is really a commentary on the fifth beatitude, which Jesus stated way back in Chapter 5 of St. Matthew's Gospel: "Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy." Mercy goes against our fallen human nature. Automatically, we tend to play favorites, hold grudges, resent insults, demand our "rights," and care much more about our own hopes, plans, and problems than about others'. When we do take an interest in other people, it's usually because we like them, and not because we view them as so valued by God that he sent his Son to die on the cross for them. When we operate on this merely natural level, we always run into a limit in our ability to forgive those who offend or harm us.

But Jesus is teaching us today that a Christian is called to be limitless in forgiveness: to be merciful as God is merciful. We are glad that God is gentle and patient with us, always willing to forgive us, always showering us with his blessings, always there when we need him, always ready to understand us, always ready to sympathize with us before judging us... in short, we are glad that God is merciful with us, although we know we don't really deserve it.

And yet, we are often reluctant to be like that with others, just like the man in the parable. If we don't let God help us overcome that reluctance, our hearts will become so closed that eventually Christ's mercy simply won't be able to get in. If we do overcome it, they will open wider and wider, allowing the full flood of God's love to inundate them, making them an oasis for others who suffer, and a magnet for their kindness and generosity. Blessed indeed are the merciful, for showing mercy is the only way to attract it. With practice, we can all learn to forgive the little offenses of every day. It's harder, though, to forgive the big things. Sooner or later, each of us will have to forgive a major offense, maybe even a life-shattering wound inflicted by someone we love dearly. Or we may run into a situation in which we ourselves have committed a sin so grave that we can't seem to forgive ourselves, even though we know God has forgiven us. In these cases, it's much harder to follow Christ's command of limitless mercy, but not impossible.

Theologians rightly teach us that forgiveness is an act of the will. It is a decision to let go of the desire for revenge and release the offender into the hands of God. Now, that decision takes place at such a deep level of the soul that it can exist at the same time as strong emotions of anger or resentment. Those emotions don't flow from the will, like our decisions, but are simply natural reactions to the experience of injustice, feelings which we cannot always control. But our decisions, our choices, exist at the very core of the soul, in the will, and those we can control. In other words, it is possible to truly forgive someone and at the same time to still have feelings of anger or resentment towards them.

When that happens, we have to counteract the feelings by prayer and by turning our attention to more productive things. Eventually, though it may take a long time, God's grace will overflow from our will, where we have already forgiven the offender, and heal our emotions.

As we continue with this Mass, let's renew our faith in God's limitless mercy, and beg him with all our hearts for the grace we need to treat others just as he has treated us.

Sincerely,
Rev.TK

OCIA

Order of Christian Initiation of Adults

OCIA will begin with a Meet & Greet on Tuesday, September 15, from 6:30-8:00 PM at St. Michael Building. This gathering is open to those seeking to join the Catholic Church, those who are missing one or more sacraments and Catholics who would like to learn more about their faith. On Tuesday, September 22, at 6:30 PM, we will have a Tour of the Church for everyone currently enrolled in OCIA, as well as anyone else who would like to attend. Come learn more about what we do, where we do it, how we do it, and—most importantly—why we do it.

God is Calling You

St Paul offers many different opportunities for returning our gifts of time and talent to God. As stewards of God-given skills and abilities, volunteering in a ministry or organization provides a way to thank God, share our faith with others and enhance our community.

Three important ones: Lectoring, Minister of the Eucharist and Homebound Ministries are in need of assistance.

If you feel you are being called to one or more of these very satisfying ministries. For more information, please contact

Prayer To Avert Storms And Hurricanes

O GOD, MASTER OF THIS PASSING WORLD, HEAR THE HUMBLE VOICES OF YOUR CHILDREN. THE SEA OF GALILEE OBEYED YOUR ORDER AND RETURNED TO ITS FORMER QUIETUDE. WE LIVE IN THE SHADOW OF THE GULF, A DANGER OVER WHICH WE HAVE NO CONTROL. O LOVING FATHER, SPARE US FROM STORMS AND HURRICANES THAT THREATEN US AND TURN OUR FEAR OF YOUR POWER INTO PRAISE OF YOUR GOODNESS. GRANT THIS THROUGH OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST, YOUR SON, WHO LIVES AND REIGNS WITH YOU AND THE HOLY SPIRIT, GOD FOREVER AND EVER. AMEN

"Forgive your neighbor's injustice, then when you pray, your own sins will be forgiven." Sirach 28:2

SAINTS CORNELIUS (died 253) AND CYPRIAN (died 258) September 16

Cornelius was a Roman citizen, who, after 14 months without a bishop, succeeded Saint Fabian in the papacy. This new candidate created serious problems for Fabian, as he described the papal election of Cornelius as illegitimate. He was opposed to apostates, those who have abandoned their Christian faith, being received into the Church, while the new Pope Cornelius maintained that they could be readmitted after penance. In 253, persecution was declared against Christians and Cornelius was exiled, suffering captivity and later beheading. During his exile he received a letter from Bishop Cyprian, who congratulated him for suffering in the name of Christ. Cyprian had converted to Christianity at the age of 45, renouncing his pleasant life and embracing not only the Gospel, but also Christian authors, most notably Tertullian. Thanks to his knowledge of oratory and rhetoric, he greatly promoted Christianity in Africa. As a bishop, he was firm and charitable, yet faced persecution and was also later beheaded. Both Cyprian and Cornelius are remembered in Eucharistic Prayer I of the Roman Rite.

Twenty-Fourth Sunday in Ordinary Time The Cross of Forgiveness

Why should we forgive those who hurt us? This Sunday's Gospel gives us three reasons: First, because Jesus commands it. Second, because forgiveness is part of loving one another. And third, because we want to be forgiven for our sins.

In this passage, Jesus commands us to forgive without ceasing, without limit. That might be a challenge for even the most patient person. Does this mean we should let someone hurt us again and again? No. It is possible to forgive someone and also prevent them from hurting us, if we do so with love (the second reason). For example, we might forgive an alcoholic relative, but still insist they seek help. Since forgiveness is part of love, it is also part of tough love.

That leads to the third reason: we forgive because we have been forgiven. Jesus already died for our sins. If we truly believe that Jesus rose again and that we will rise with him to eternal life despite our sins, how can we refuse to forgive someone who hurts us?
