Trek the Great Wall of China

...for a spectacular taste of the Far East

The Great Wall of China, one of the Seven modern wonders of the world, and one of the greatest technological achievements in all of mankind, has long held the imagination of writers, scientists, soldiers, and now of course, travelers and adventurers. Within its countless bricks and watchtowers lies the boundless spirit of 2000 years' worth of Chinese civilization. This challenge is physically demanding but offers fabulous, never ending scenery and a fascinating insight into a rich culture and history.

Private trip details

We recommend trekking the Great Wall of China May to September as weather during this time is perfect for the trek with warm clear days and nights. We can operate our private treks for any given departure date and for any group size making this option ideal for family and friendship groups who wish to trek together.

Itinerary

Day 1: Fly for London Heathrow to Beijing. Transfer to the hotel.

Day 2: Day to relax and sightseeing in Beijing. There will be a briefing by the guides in the evening.

Day 3: Beijing-Shixiaguan-Badaling (Lunch and dinner. 8km/6miles, 5 hours)

In the early morning your guide and driver will pick you up from your hotel. From there we will be driven to the Badaling Great Wall. The ruined Badaling Great Wall (now officially named "Ancient Badaling Great Wall") is 10km southwest of the restored Badaling Great Wall. So, as its name hints, this section of the Great Wall is partially restored and more adventurous, while not being easy to climb. Its hikers are mainly foreign travelers instead of domestic travellers, who prefer hiking at the restored Badaling Great Wall.

After about 2-3 hours of hiking, we'll cross over into Shixiaguan (Stone Gorge) Pass, 5km southwest of the Badaling section of the Great Wall. It is one of the most intact parts of the whole Great Wall. In spite of serious damage, the winding wall set in the lofty mountains reveals its grandeur. However, a castle in Shixiaguan was pulled down during the Great Leap Forward. Nevertheless, the wall remains relatively intact because of its strategic location. Shixiaguan Pass was originally built in the reign of Ming Emperor Wanli (about 1600 AD), which was then a key pass guarded by a large number of soldiers. There are sites such as official residences, the ancient castle, clay walls and brick walls in the village. After our hike we will drive to the village of Huanghuacheng for overnight accommodation.

Day 4: Huanghuacheng-Xishuiyu
(Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner. 8 kms/6 miles, 3-4 hours)

Our trek continues from Huanhuacheng to Xishuiyu. Huanghuacheng is fast becoming popular with hikers and tourists who are looking for something a little different in their Great Wall experience. The wall here is a combination of both restored and unrestored areas, giving your hike a little more variety and adventure. When you reach the middle of the wall you will be able to see that the countryside is swathed in yellow, as masses of wild flowers come into bloom. We will then cross over onto the Xishuiyu section.

Today's hike is quite special-part of the wall is under water! In 1974 China built the Xishuiyu Reservoir, and when the water level rose, some low-lying sections of the wall were submerged under water. Seen from the dam of the reservoir, this stately sunken wall is still visible under the water's smooth and glimmering surface. Following our hike we will drive back to our inn in Huanghuacheng village for the night.

Day 5: Huanghuacheng-Jiankou Trekking (Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner - 3 to 4 hours of hiking) After waking up in the morning we will begin our drive to the Jiankou Great Wall, which should take around 3 hours or so. In order to hike on Jiankou, first we have to climb up a path for about 60 minutes to reach it. Our hike will today will take about 4 hours and will cover 10km/ 6 miles. Jiankou is translated as 'Arrow Nock' in English, for the shape of the mountain is like an arrow, with the collapsed ridge opening as its arrow nock. The Jiankou section is known for its ruggedness and wild beauty, and you will be in awe of the marvellous views it affords. As soon as we reach Jiankou we will see a deserted watchtower that gives you a panoramic view of the entire valley. In the early morning the view is priceless with its morning fog. This section of the wall is not well known by tourists, although if you see a picture of the Great Wall from exotic traveling magazines, chances are it is from Jiankou. This is the pinnacle of exotic Great Wall scenery.

This part of the wall is often empty, so you will have some peace and serenity on your hike today. Another highlight of Jiankou is the enemy observation tower known as, "Ying Fei Dao Yang", so named because this watchtower was erected on the highest peak in the area, and eagles and hawks often perch on it. Although the majestic wall is slowly being conquered by small trees and brambles, but the view from the top is still stunning! Following our hike of Jiankou we will scale down the wall where we will spend the night at a farmer's inn. The farmer's family will prepare for you a dinner of traditional Chinese dishes.

Day 6: Jiankou-Mutianyu (Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner. 4 hours of hiking)

Today we scale the mountain to reach the Jiankou Great Wall. After hiking for about 2-3 hours we will cross over onto Mutianyu, a section of the wall that has been largely restored. Although it has a face-lift, it avoids the army of tourists that plague Badaling. Mutianyu offers some breath-taking views of the valley and wall below, and if you look to your right you'll see a large sign engraved in the side of the mountain encouraging you to "Cherish the teachings of Chairman Mao".

You can either hike, take a cable car or a toboggan ride (highly recommended, and lots of fun!) down to meet our driver. We will then drive to Gubeikou Great Wall to spend the night and sleep in Gubeikou Village. This will offer you a chance to experience the true lives of Chinese farmers. You'll have the chance to learn Chinese traditional paper-cutting and make your own dumplings.

Day 7: Gubeikou-Jinshanling (Breakfast, Lunch and Dinner. 10 km, 4-5 hours of hiking)

Gubeikou Great Wall occupies a strategically important location, which is difficult to access. Situated between Shanhaiguan Pass and Juyongguan Pass, and about 62 miles to Beijing, it is the bastion protecting the northern gateway to the capital. There are 14 beacon towers, 143 watchtowers, 16 strategic pass, three citadels and many other military constructions. Many of them are famous cultural relics, such as the Big Flower Beacon Tower of the Northern Qi Dynasty, Fairy Tower, General Tower, and the dominant Wangjing Tower.

After walking on Gubeikou we will cross over to Jinshanling. Much of the hiking that we will do on Jinshanling today is relatively easy, as much of the wall here is restored and the surface smooth. Jinshanling has five main passes and 67 watchtowers.

Following our day of hiking on the Great Wall we'll take you to have a gorgeous Chinese countryside-style dinner at Mr. Duan's Restaurant. Mr. Duan is a famous Great Wall photographer and is the winner of several national photographing competitions. His wife and her niece will cook traditional Chinese dishes and dumpling for you. Mrs. Duan will serve you Kong Pao Chicken, Stewed beef and potato, Green Pepper and Pork, Fried Tofu in Spicy Sauce, Fried Egg Tomato, Sweet and Sour Chicken, and lots of vegetables (great for vegetarians), and soup. She changes her menu daily, so you may have different dishes from the above. What's more important is that all the vegetables she uses are planted in her yard, so it is organic and fresh! Rice and Chinese dumpling are also fresh and of genuine local flavour. Beer and other drinks are free!

Before it gets dark, we'll set up our tents and other equipment in a watch tower. We'll prepare the necessary camping facilities such as sleeping bags so you don't have to bring anything but yourself. If you prefer sleeping in a local hostel or a farmer's house, you certainly can without extra charge..

Day 8: Jianshanling-Second Valley (the West Wing of Simatai) –Beijing (Breakfast and Lunch, 8 km, 3 hours of hiking)

The first thing we'll do today is to watch the magnificent sunrise early in the morning. After a hearty breakfast we will resume our hike on Jinshanling's right wing, where we will hike until we reach Simatai West (aka Second Valley.) As we head west the wall will start to gradually deteriorate, making the hike progressively more challenging, but also interesting to observe and compare.

As there are relatively fewer tourists at the Second Valley part of the Jinshanling Great Wall, it is a good place to explore on foot. If you are looking for breathtaking views with a relatively peaceful walk, then the Second Valley of Jinshanling can't be better, so we hope that you remembered to bring your camera! The Second Valley features a complicated and well preserved fortification system at Jinshanling. The Second Valley Great Wall meanders through fantastic natural scenery and connects to the Gubeikou Great Wall to the west.

In addition to the gorgeous scenery on your hike, you'll also get to see how the wall was designed for practical purposes, that being the defence against outer enemies and how the Great Wall was supposed to keep them out. There are 'obstacle-walls' built perpendicular to the parapets - a feature quite unique to the Second Valley part of Jinshanling Great Wall. These 'walls-within-walls' were used for defence against enemies who might have succeeded in scaling the outer wall. The steps of the Great Wall at Second Valley are rather steep and rocky with loose stones at times. It is important to choose comfortable footwear with a good grip and support for the feet.

After about 2-3 hours of hiking on Second Valley, we'll again meet up with our van and you'll be taken back to Beijing, where you will be dropped off at your hotel.

Day 9: Breakfast and full day to relax and enjoy Beijing. Night in a hotel

Day 10: Breakfast and transfer to the airport for a return flight back to London.

Day 11: Land in the UK

Food

During the hotel stay breakfast is included giving the option to explore the city and not be tied in to dinner in a set place. During the trek we provide breakfast, lunch and dinner. The food is excellent, plentiful and varied and prepared to a very high standard. We cater very well for vegetarians and for all special dietary requirements.

Flight details

We aim to book the very best flight for all our groups and we only use the very best airlines. The flights are protected by our Air Tour Operators Licence (ATOL 10222) and once booked we cannot alter the dates or flight times. Flight tickets are emailed out to all group members around 3 weeks prior to travel and it's best to leave one on your emails and print off 2 copies for the trip.

VISA

To legally enter China you must have a valid tourist VISA. This involves an online application form and sending your passport to the VISA office in London. The current cost of the VISA is £66.

We provide a detailed information sheet about the VISA in the Spring during the training event and run through the procedure.

Passport validity

Your passport should be valid for at least 6 months from the date of your visa application. If you have less than 6 months' validity on your passport, but have a valid visa, you should be able to enter China for the duration of that visa.

The Chinese authorities have confirmed they will accept British passports extended by 12 months by British Embassies and Consulates under additional measures put in place in mid-2014.

Insurance

It is vital that you have a comprehensive travel insurance policy that covers you when in China and there are a number of insurance policies on the market for careful consideration.

Inoculations

Before going to China you must be inoculated against Hepatitis A, Typhoid and Tetanus via your local G.P.

Baggage

We advise you to have two bags and to split your kit between them so that in the unlikely event of the airline misplacing one of your bags you will have enough kit to carry on. Also it is highly recommended that you wear your walking boots that you will be wearing on the trek onto the plane.

Currency

The unit of currency in China is the Yuan Renminbi and is widely available from your local currency stores and the Post Office.

Emergency Contact Number

Please ensure that you leave the following details with someone at home so that they can contact you in an emergency:

Jonathan Reilly: Tel: 01747 871564

Health Matters

Everybody should have with them a small personal first aid kit. Some things to include are:

A diarrhoea treatment and sachets of re-hydrating drink, high factor sun screen, some antiseptic, aspirin, ibuprofen or similar, safety pins, bandages, throat sweets, micropore tape, plasters, moleskin, blister treatment, and pain killers.

Other travel information

China uses different plug sockets to the UK so you will need a transformer to use the hotel plug sockets. This can easily be purchased in the UK prior to travel.

Kit Details

Boots: 3 season (spring-autumn) fabric boots are best, such as the Karrimor KSB range or the Berghaus Explorer variety, although there are plenty of other makes out there. They cost between £50 and £100 but are definitely worth it! In previous years participants have worn both fabric and leather boots and have found that fabric boots are warmer plus they fit your feet and break in quickly hence less pain! Boots are the one of the most important things to get right so please go to a reputable shop and book a boot fitting.

Waterproof: Please invest in a good waterproof jacket and trousers, although you'll be well above the cloud base for most of the expedition – a good waterproof acts as a wind proof and this is definitely needed.

Clothing: The two most important layers are the base layer and the outer layer (waterproof). The base layer is designed to wick moisture away from your body before you get cold and regulate your body temperature. Go to a camping store and you'll find a wide variety of base layer varieties. Buy 2 or 3 base layer tops if you want your tent partner to talk to you ever again.

If you need any further advice then give us a mail or speak to an experienced member of staff at your local camping

What's included

All our expeditions are 'all inclusive' this means that the cost covers all the accommodation, flights, flight tax, transfers, guides, porters and cooks + all food throughout your expedition. The price also covers the local training day. *The only costs not included are travel insurance, tips, lunch, dinner and drinks as per the itinerary above (this gives you plenty of opportunity to explore the cities and eating out is very inexpensive).
