

BEAVERS! BEAVERS! BEAVERS!

Join beaver experts Skip Lisle and Patti Smith for a lively presentation on these industrious creatures. Please bring your questions, concerns, and frustrations to the troubleshooting session after the presentation.

WHEN: Sunday, April 26

TIME: 1 - 3 pm

WHERE: Alden Balch Memorial Library (24 E Main St, Lunenburg)
followed by an optional field visit to a Beaver Deceiver installation

Skip Lisle is a biologist, founder of Beaver Deceivers International, and the leading expert on flow devices—structures that protect culverts and regulate water levels. Skip has been testing materials and designs for decades and has learned how to resolve conflicts in ways that allow beavers to create valuable wetland habitat.

Patti Smith is a naturalist with the Bonnyvale Environmental Education Center in Brattleboro, where her work has become increasingly focused on beavers and beaver ecology. Her book, The Beavers of Popple's Pond, is an account of years spent closely observing a colony of beavers in Marlboro, VT. As a wildlife rehabilitator, Patti has and raised many orphaned mammals, including beavers.

Co-hosted by the Essex County Natural Resources Conservation District and the Town of Lunenburg
