

Chosen for More: Aligning Our Hearts with the Heart of God

Lent is not a season of religious routine.

It is a season of realignment.

We are not chosen for surface faith.

We are chosen for more.

This Lenten journey invites us into a refining fire, a deep heart search, and a steady march toward the cross — where God reshapes us for resurrection life.

† Ash Wednesday

Chosen for More Than Ritual

Isaiah 58:6–12

Ashes mark our mortality.

Alignment marks our surrender.

Provocative Thought:

What if God is not asking what you're giving up — but what you're finally willing to lay down?

Week 1 – First Sunday of Lent

Chosen for More Than Bread Alone

Matthew 4:1–11

In the wilderness, temptation exposes misalignment.

Provocative Thought:

What appetite is quietly shaping your decisions more than God is?

 Week 2 – Second Sunday of Lent

Chosen for More Than What We Carry

Hebrews 12:1–3

You cannot run aligned while carrying unnecessary weight.

Provocative Thought:

Is the thing slowing you down a sin — or simply something you refuse to release?

 Week 3 – Third Sunday of Lent

Chosen for More Than Passing By

Luke 10:33–37

Alignment shows up in mercy.

Provocative Thought:

Do you see the need — or do you schedule around it?

 Week 4 – Fourth Sunday of Lent

Chosen for More Than Regret

Psalms 51

Repentance is not shame — it is renewal.

Provocative Thought:

Have you asked for forgiveness — or have you asked for transformation?

 Week 5 – Fifth Sunday of Lent

Chosen for More Than Comfort

John 12:23–26

The grain must fall before life multiplies.

Provocative Thought:

What must die in you for resurrection life to grow through you?

Palm Sunday

Chosen for More Than Applause

Matthew 21:1–11

The crowd shouted “Hosanna” — but misunderstood the King.

Provocative Thought:

Are you praising the Savior — or the version of Him you prefer?

† Good Friday

Chosen for More Than Avoiding the Cross

Isaiah 53

He bore what we could not carry.

Provocative Thought:

If Christ bore the yoke for you, what will you surrender for Him?

Easter Sunday

Chosen for Resurrection

John 20:1–18

Alignment with God’s heart leads to life that death cannot hold.

Provocative Thought:

If the tomb is empty, what in you still lives as if it is not?

This Lent...

We are not giving up things to impress God.

We are aligning our hearts with the heart of God.

We are not chosen for less.

We are chosen for more.

Join us for a season of refining, renewal, and resurrection hope.
