Discover the beaches of Jæren:

About Jærstrendene:
Close to Stavanger, you will find some of the finest sandy beaches in the country. Stretching over 70 kilometers, the beaches of Jæren (Jærstrendene) are one of Norway's longest sandy shores. Jærstrendene are also dedicated to safeguarding the rich biodiversity of plants, birdlife, and marine life. Indeed, the Jæren coast has earned international recognition as a "Hope Spot" by the esteemed organization Mission Blue, signifying its crucial role in preserving the health of our oceans.

In our opinion, the most impressive and wildest beach of Jæren would be Orrestranden. This 3 kilometers long sandy beach obtained in 2017 the Blue Flag, a certification given by the Foundation for Environmental Education (FEE) that shows high standards for water quality, safety, and public environmental education. Here you will also find the Orre open-air centre, one of the stops along the Jæren National Tourist Route.

Jæren beaches are also known for being the best spots to surf in Norway. At Hellestøstranden or Borestranden, you will be able to watch surfers, especially in the winter when the season is at its peak!
