Risen Again

I come here to proclaim He's risen again, risen again
And there's no other name that's given to men, given to men
By which they might enter Heaven

I ask you to believe we're nearing the end, nearing the end
I ask you to receive Him, and the help that He'll lend in these last days
The blessings He'll send will surely amaze you

I know it's hard to suspend all your reasons
But try to pretend He's in all that you do
And you may find it's true, though you never knew

Anything I know that's in anyway good, surely He put in my head
No matter where I go, if it's the way that I should, It's purely His foot that led
I am nothing apart from Him.
He's my heart. He's why I live. He's all I'll ever have to give

And I rejoice to tell you He's coming again, coming again
Oh hear His voice He'll tell you, "Be born again. I stand at the door. I want to enter.
Know that I'm for you."

He wants you just to surrender your will
And to trust He's a friend, He'll do all He can do
And He won't be through 'til all is new

Anything I am that's in any way right, was wrought by His skillful hand
No matter who I am when I stand in His light, I know I will understand
I am something when I'm with Him
In my heart, now I can see. He's all I ever dreamed would be

And if I can't admit He's risen again, risen again
Then I am to be pitied more than all men, more than all men
For my hope is all then in vain

But I know that He’s risen, Yes I know that He’s risen
I know that He’s risen again
I know that He’s risen again
